GIBSON TRYING TO HEAL ITALO, FRENCH SPLIT

Envoy Confers in Paris and May Continue His Mission in Rome.

STIMSON DECLINES TO DISCUSS ACTION

Informal Conversations Are Undertaken After Hoover Consents.

LEAGUE COMMISSION TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Arms Parley With Mussolini and Grandi May Occur Before November 6.

(Associated Press.)

Acting with the permission of President Hoover in an effort to facilitate a Franco-Italian naval accord, Hugh S. Gibson is conferring with French officials and may go to Rome to talk with Italian statesmen before the opening November 6 of the League of Nation's Preparatory Disarmament Commission.

If he concludes his work in Paris in time to go to Rome before the opening of the League Commission, he may do so. Otherwise he will wait to confer with the Italian officials at the opening of the league sessions at Geneva.

Confers With French.

Gibson, head of the American delegation to the League Commission and American Ambassador to Belgium, has been conferring with Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand of France. State Department officials, including Secretary Stimson, declined last night to discuss the ambassador's conversations which are taking place in a highly informal manner, but with a view to contributing as much as possible to the efforts for an early settlement of the Franco-Italian naval question.

The two nations agreed at the London naval conference on the method of limitation, but after long negotiations at that time and through diplomatic negotiations to the present have been unable to write figures into a naval limitation agreement.

Hope For Accord.

The conversations Gibson is having are of a highly informal character, based largely on his personal friendship and acquaintance with European statesmen. His conversations in Rome, if he makes the trip there, wth Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Grandi would be of a similar nature.

The ceremony of the deposit of ratification of the London Naval Treaty in the British capital this week was marked by speeches by President Hoover, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, each expressing the hope that Italy and France would be able to reach an accord and make the London treaty binding upon the entire five nations participating in the conference.

There has appeared little doubt in the minds of officials that the holding up of the Franco-Italian settlement might deter future progress of the League of Nations in its efforts toward a world-wide disarmament movement.

Former Convict Tried In Schoolgirl Killing

Kansas City, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Paul H. Kauffman, confessed slayer of Avis Woolery, 17-year-old Webb City, Mo., schoolgirl, went on trial on a first-degree murder charge here today.

James R. Page, county prosecutor, announced he would demand the death penalty. Kauffman, a former convict, lured the girl to Kansas City with a false promise of employment, assaulted her, strangled her and buried the body in a shallow grave in Swope Park, last August, the prosecution charges.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: It is often said that the world belongs to youth. They may not hold legal title to it at the moment but what the world will be in the future depends on what they do today. They are the heirs apparent with power.

The influence they wield is because they are naturally idealists. The disappointments and failures of life have not come into their existence. They are moved more by faith than by caution. It is for that reason that they hold the keys to future progress.

Next Tuesday about a million of our youth will have the opportunity to cast their first vote. There are enough of them to decide the election in nearly every political unit. It is necessary for our political and social progress that they should run true to form and vote their ideals.

If we are to have any improvement, if public office is to be any more mindful of public welfare, if our national life is to be any purer, if our standards are to be any higher, it will be because the youth of the country make them so. The progress we can make has no limit if our youth will vote their faith.

HOOVER SUPPORT URGED BY MELLON

HE DISCUSSES SLUMP

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon last night appealed to the country to back up President Hoover by again giving him a Republican majority in Congress.

"It is not a time for divided authority," he said.

It was Secretary Mellon's first and only speech of the 1930 campaign, and one of the few political speeches he has ever made. For that reason, and for the further reason that Mellon still has a strong appeal in the country, the Republican high command felt that the speech would do much to head off a Democratic sweep next Tuesday.

The soft, refined voice of Secretary Mellon went out from Station WMAL, of the Columbia Broadcasting Co., and was carried over a nation-wide hook-up.

Discussing the economic depression for the first time, Secretary Mellon predicted that America would be among the first nations to recover, among the first "to resume the onward march of progress."

To hasten that recovery, he urged the voters to back up President Hoover by again electing a Republican Congress. Should a Democratic majority get in and begin tampering with the tariff, he said, it could only mean another period of business uncertainty.

He denied the Democratic charge that the Republican party is responsible for the business depression. Such depressions, he said, always have followed periods of overexpansion, regardless of what party happened to be in power.

The present world-wide depression, he said, was not caused by speculation in stocks. That, he said, was merely a factor in the situation. The underlying causes, he said, could be traced primarily to overproduction of certain commodities, especially raw materials, both in this country and abroad.

"Production processes in agriculture and industry has been enlarged throughout the world to supply the needs created by four years of almost universal war," he said. "These

SMITH RAPS G. O. P. IN RADIO BROADCAST

Declares Party Has Failed to Redeem Pledges or Face Crisis.

CALLS FOR REPUDIATION

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith tonight urged the election of a Democratic Congress and told a nation-wide radio audience he had three charges to make against the Republicans. He listed them as follows:

1. They made campaign pledges of continuing prosperity which they could not redeem.

2. They refused to face the business crisis until it was forced upon them.

3. They failed to take necessary steps to relieve the situation. Amplifying these, Mr. Smith said:

"It is a matter of history that the President himself, as short a time ago as March 8, made the definite statement that the situation would clear in 60 days. He was assisted by his cabinet officers in his refusal to face the facts."

As late as June, 1930, the Secretary of Agriculture made the statement that the unemployment was seasonal and there was relatively no distress. And further that that, the Secretary of Labor gave out figures, with respect to unemployment, which were shown to be false by the statistics gathered by the Department of Labor in the State of New York."

The former Governor said he did not take "the position of placing upon the Republican party the blame for the business depression and consequent unemployment, but we do seriously indict them for misleading the people into the belief that a continuance of the Republican party in power meant continued prosperity."

"What has happened to the Republican party in this instance," he continued, "is nothing more or less than the result of what must be expected when false issues are injected into a campaign. Lack of sincerity, or even honesty, behind a false campaign pledge, not only wrecks itself but tends to bring about the destruction of those who issue it."

Charges 1 and 2 are beyond recall, Smith said, but the Democratic party has a constructive method of dealing with 3. He recommended the

GRUNDY, COOL, CALM, GIVES HIM BACKING

Francis Shunk Brown Failed to Say Popular Thing on Rum Issue.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—There are two particularly interesting figures in this motley political picture, Pennsylvania in 1930.

One is the drooping, walrus moustached figure I saw at the Art Club today, Mr. Francis Shunk Brown, as forlorn as some of the paintings on the wall. He wanted to be governor because his father had been, and there is no question that he would have been had he said just three words; "I am wet," instead of the loquacity of abiding by a referendum in which he, old man-like, did indulge. And everything would have been politically orderly in this State today instead of chaotic as it is.

The other figure is that of little Joe Grundy, the only clear-headed man in all this turmoil.

Writers have come here from all over the country to get at the momentous issues, the moving influences of this turbulence. And some of them have harked back for comparative phrases to the whisky rebellion and to the historic disturbance of 1860 when the Union League was born and the Whigs passed from the political stage.

Campaign of Hate.

Frankly, I have gone all the way back to the time when B. Franklin, the young printer and electrician who made good in the city—to the time when he was walking down the street eating rolls and a woman laughed at him and he married her out of revenge, but the only "issue" that I can find in this campaign is the hatred of a tremendously wealthy and influential group for Mr. G. Pinchot and for no practical reason at all.

Pinchot, also walrus mustached, tall and wiry, physically an iron man, in fact, has never done anything to them and, despite his loud campaign mouthings this year and other years, if he is to be judged by his past performances, he never will.

I have studied his four years as governor and I can't find a single bank he wrecked, or a single public utility or a single manufacturing plant. Neither can I find anything he did to make the laboring man so enamored of him as he is.

An enthusiast told me that in the four years he was governor he advanced the working conditions of the miners 100 years. All I can find of record is that in a strike in the coal fields he intervened and did get the miners a 10 per cent raise, a commendable thing, of course, but it would not seem to justify his being held in the same esteem by the miners today as John Mitchell, their beloved leader of years ago. Yet today was Mitchell Day out in the fields, a day set apart annually for reverence to him and Pinchot was out there as if he were the reincariation of the man.

His Enforcement Mere Gesture.

Neither do the records show that, dry crusader, though he is, he enforced prohibition in those four years, that he did anything beyond an early administration gesture or so.

Yet the one possible aftermath of this campaign, and about the only one, is that if he wins the drys will clasp him to their breast and quite possibly accept him as their national leader. In that respect he probably

ACCUSED MAN DENIES HE KILLED BAKER GIRL

DEFENSE WITNESSES SUBSTANTIATE ALIBI

Wife of Defendant Swears He Was in Their Home at Supper Time.

Opposite schools of ballistic thought are scheduled to clash today in the court where Herbert M. Campbell yesterday swore that he did not "kill or choke" Mary Baker.

Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, defense ballistics expert, is to be called by the defense to tell the jury that Campbell's pistol could not have killed Mary Baker.

Col. Calvin Goddard, who is equally certain that Campbell's weapon discharged the death shots, is expected to appear before the jury today or tomorrow to fulfill his challenge to prove that ballistics is infallible.

Col. Goddard worked over the microscope at the Bureau of Standards until 7 o'clock last night. He hopes to complete his tests today.

The defendant, who yesterday stared intently at a jury and swore that he did not commit the murder, will be again called to the stand today to submit to further cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins.

Case to Jury by Saturday.

Opposing counsel have agreed to expedite the case so that the decision will be in the hands of the jury by Saturday. Each side is anxious to secure a verdict before the week is done.

Easily the most interesting moment of the trial was when Lucien H. Vandoren directly asked:

"Campbell, did you kill Mary Baker?"

"No!" was the emphatic answer.

"Do you know any one who did?"

"No, I wish I did."

"Did you ever see Mary Baker?"

"No."

"Did you ever see her car?"

"No."

Climax to Testimony.

Mr. Vandoren's query came as the smashing climax to a three-hour period of testimony by the defendant in which he narrated his actions on the day of the murder and the manner in which he became involved in the celebrated murder.

Mr. Collins then lunged into his withering cross-examination as dramatically as Mr. Vandoren had ended his questioning.

"If you had committed the murder," asked Mr. Collins, thumping his fist on a table, "would you have answered 'yes?'"

The witness hesitated a minute and answered, "No, I would not."

"Didn't you tell Sheriff Field on July 4 that you thought your story was not going over?"

"Yes."

"When did you make up that description of the man with the wart on his nose?"

"I made it up as quickly as you asked me that question."

Accused Wanted Publicity.

"Why did you make it up?"

"I wanted another story in the newspapers."

"Is that the reason you turned in the gun?"

"Yes."

"What kind of a story did you expect?"

"One like I got when I identified the gloves?"

"It was a great surprise to you when

SIX SURVIVORS BARE EIGHT DEATHS AT SEA

TRIO DIED IN LIFEBOAT

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Six survivors who drifted for 69 hours in an open boat without food or water brought back today the story of the wreck of the steam yacht Barbados, which foundered in a storm early last Sunday off the lower New Jersey coast, carrying down with her four men and a woman.

Three of nine members of the crew who escaped when the ship sank died within the next twelve hours in the lifeboat from which the survivors were rescued by the Clyde liner Henry R. Mallory off Atlantic City last night. The dead were buried at sea.

E. G. Valverde, New York importer who owned the Barbados; his wife, Hattie; their chauffeur, known only as "Willie;" a man named Smith, chief engineer, and his assistant, Walker, were lost with the ship. The captain of the vessel shouted to them to jump when the ship began to go over, but they either failed to hear or were afraid.

Capt. Lois Hough, of Long Beach, Calif., commander of the Barbados; the first mate, Henry Pfeiffer; Joe Valverde, second mate and cousin of the owner; George Lawrence, messman; Augustine Lynch, fireman, and Alexander Allenby, seaman, were the survivors. All suffered from exposure, and Lynch was taken to Marine Hospital with internal injuries received when he was struck by a cylinder head which blew off before the ship sank.

Walters, the mess boy, died Sunday morning; George Franklin, a seaman, died that afternoon, and George Watts, the cook, that night.

The Barbados, an old vessel of only 93 tons, was recently purchased by Valverde for use in Barbados interisland trade. Capt. Hough signed his crew only last Friday and said he believed all except the mate and the two engineers lived in the Barbados. The ship started from New York on Youthful Farm Laborer Pinned Almost Five Hours by Debris.

Kensington Rescue Men Work Frantically To Release Lad.

While Lewis Barrett, 19-year-old farm laborer, was being rescued from a well in which he had been trapped nearly five hours, an ambulance rushing to his aid struck and fatally injured William Nichols, jr., 9 years old, late yesterday afternoon on the Rockville pike.

The Nichols boy was hurled 60 feet by the ambulance, which afterwards took him first to a Bethesda physician, and later to the Georgetown Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. A companion narrowly escaped injury by jumping from the path of the machine.

The rescue of Barrett about 5 o'clock climaxed feverish efforts on the part of the Kensington rescue squad and a large group of neighbors to remove several tons of rock and earth from the well in which he was imprisoned on the Colesville road, near Glenmont, Md. A ladder, which was steadily giving way, probably saved the youth's life by holding back the increasing pressure of the debris.

Barrett and his father, William Barrett, a tenant on the Hull farm, early yesterday afternoon began cleaning a 30-foot well, which had been abandoned for some time. The younger worker climbed down a wooden ladder that was lowered into the hole and was cleaning the walls when the retaining stone began to crumble. He had removed several supporting boards.

Heeding the warning, he crouched beneath the ladder as the whole wall caved in to bury him. As his voice

REPARATIONS ISSUE SHELVED IN BERLIN

LEAGUE FAILURE CITED

Berlin, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The foreign affairs committee of the Reichstag tonight rejected all motions which would raise the question of reparations revision at this time. At the same time, however, it adopted a resolution urging the government to take immediate and vigorous steps to end the "perilous situation" in Europe wherein a "disarmed Germany is surrounded by ever-increasing preparations for war."

The resolution, which was carried by the votes of the Bourgeois and Rightist parties against opposition Socialists and Communists, expressed the "greatest disillusionment" over the present status of the disarmament movement.

Mentioned particularly was the outcome of the recent League of Nations deliberations at Geneva, where the delegates could not agree on a date for a preliminary general disarmament conference.

"The foreign affairs committee," read the resolution, "expects of the government that it work with all the means at its disposal for a speedy correction of this perilous situation and that it insist with the utmost emphasis on the disarmament of other nations, conforming in scope and nature to the disarmament of Germany and the principle of equal security, and that it establish clearly whether foreign powers are willing,

Rebel Leader Says Guilty Under Luis to Be Punished

Gen. da Cunha Declares All Old Officials Will Be Ousted, in Outlining Aims of Revolt; Announcement of U. S. Policy Not Yet Ready.

Santa Ana do Livramento, Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Gen. Francisco Flores da Cunha, of the insurgents' general staff, made clear today that the new Brazilian government will take severe measures to punish those guilty of wrongful acts under the deposed Washington Luis regime.

In a statement issued at his headquarters here, the leader of some of the first revolting troops in the State of Rio Grande do Sul, outlined the hopes of the victorious insurgents and said the new government would oust all the old authorities and hold new elections to reestablish constitutional government.

He also said the new regime under Getulio Vargas, would guarantee the payment of all agreements made with foreign houses up to October 3, the day the revolt began.

"It is my privilege to let the world know through the Associated Press the revolution headed by Dr. Getulio Vargas and directed against the government of Washington Luis Pereira de Souza, former president of Brazil, has been victorious throughout our country and that the 24th of October of 1930, will be one of our glorious memories," his statement said.

"The army and the navy cast their lot with the people of Brazil in a supreme effort to attain a sudden and peaceful end to the slaughter. And those forces stationed at the capital embraced our cause and deposed Washington Luis, thus ending the civil war that for nearly a month threatened the fate of the largest republic in South America.

"The objective of the resolution was to bring about the resignation of Washington Luis, to establish administrative morality, and to fulfill the constitutional principles of independence of the legislative and judi-

INSTALLMENT BUYING

The practice of buying out of income is a comparatively recent development, but one that has proved of great economic benefit. In a period of uncertainty, however, people hesitate to incur obligations that they may have difficulty in discharging and, consequently, merchandise sold under this system is often the first to feel a curtailment in buying . . . That installment purchases are now increasing in volume is a definite indication of returning confidence. Confidence that work and wages are secure and, in turn, a guarantee that they will be increasingly so.

Labor Head Is Confident Of Beating Unemployment

Jobs for 20,000 Men in Nation's Shipyards During Coming Year Assured by Shipping Board as Women Are Asked to Aid in Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

Confidence that unemployment can be largely conquered if whole-hearted cooperation is obtained toward providing work was expressed last night by William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement estimating that one-sixth of the Nation's population was "threatened with acute need" this winter.

"If all groups join whole-heartedly in the movement to provide jobs and relief, unemployment can be largely conquered. We must visualize the danger ahead and face the problem," Mr. Green said.

Meanwhile, employment for 20,000 men in the Nation's shipyards for the coming year was assured yesterday by the Shipping Board as a call went out for the women of the country to aid the President's emergency committee on employment in finding work for the heads of hungry families.

Explaining that the Government placed the number of unemployed at 3,500,000, Mr. Green said "an increase of usual proportions" for the winter months would bring the number "well over 5,000,000."

Including the families depending on these men and women," he added, "over 20,000,000 persons, or one-sixth of our entire population, are threatened with acute need from unemployment this winter."

Mr. Green said last winter the number out of work increased 71 per cent from October to January and doubled by February.

"Business men, welfare groups, Government agencies, labor and all other groups the country over," he asserted, "must concentrate on measures to provide against unemployment in the next few months if we you found that the gun had been identified, wasn't it?"

"Yes."

Mr. Collins then launched into a trend of questioning calculated to show that Campbell was anxious to involve Barrere in the killing. Campbell said that he believed at the time that Barrere was guilty of the killing.

"Why did you confer with Barrere's relatives?"

"Because I thought I was helping the authorities by breaking his alibi."

Admissions by Campbell.

Then Mr. Collins elicited from the defendant the admission that he had never been abused by authorities throughout the questioning. He admitted that he had sent a message from his cell in Arlington County Jail in which he charged that authorities had substituted bullets fired from his gun for the death bullets when the examination was made.

"Who, do you think, substituted the cartridges?"

"Mr. Gloth."

Mr. Collins became angered at this statement and shouted: "Isn't it a fact that Mr. Gloth never had the cartridges in his possession? You heard such testimony here, didn't you?"

Statements Are Denied.

"Yes, but when I was going to Richmond with him he said: 'I'll have to break somebody's rock for this to insure my election.'"

"He didn't indicate to you that it was your neck was to be broken?"

"No."

"Isn't it a fact that Mr. Gloth said to you, 'Were it not for the fact that I know you, Herbert, you would be in a tight fix?'"

"Yes."

"Didn't you say when you gave the gun to Sheriff Field, 'I am satisfied that this is the gun that killed Mary Baker?'"

"No, I did not."

"Didn't you say to Capt. Kelly when he told you that the gun had been identified, 'I'm not surprised?'"

Campbell hesitated a second and said, "I'm not sure."

"That night they were questioning you didn't you say, 'You have enough on me to indict, convict and electrocute me?'"

"Yes, I did, Mr. Collins, but before that Capt. Kelly had told me that he knew people who were convicted on ballistics testimony alone. It was then I said, 'If that is so you have enough on me to indict, convict and electrocute me.'"

Campbell Lauds Kelly.

Mr. Collins permitted the defendant wide latitude in telling the story of his connection with the crime. He went on:

"Capt. Kelly, who, I think, is one of the shrewdest investigators in the business, warned me to take my time that night they questioned me. He asked me if my alibi was correct and I told him yes. Then he asked who the woman was I had been parked with on that afternoon.

"I said to him: 'Mr. Kelly, I'm awfully sorry I lied to you about that. From now on I will tell you the truth.' Since then I have told the truth. My alibi has developed spontaneously. I had forgotten all about that telegram and the check until it was brought to my attention by these people while I was in the Alexandria County Jail.

"On the afternoon of the day on which I got the long questioning Sheriff Fields told me at 4 o'clock that he wanted me to appear again at 9 o'clock that night.

"When I came back that night he told me that he had sent me home to give me an opportunity to blow my brains out. I told him I had no reason for blowing my brains out. He told me that I killed the girl and I ravished her dead body. I told him I never knew Mary Baker.

Sanity Test Proposed.

"He told me that he was going to send for a doctor to give me a sanity test, that he thought I was crazy. I agreed with him. Then Mr. Gloth suggested that my wife had something to do with the murder. Then they said my sister was connected with the killing. It was said that they were going to bring both of them and put them in a cell.

"Sergt. Carlton Talley told me he didn't think that I committed the murder, but that I was shielding some one. He told me to get it off my chest. I told him that I was shielding nobody, that I was in too tight fix to shield any one."

Mr. Vandoren then showed the defendant a pair of gloves which he identified as a pair which he had bought last year. These were found in Campbell's car after his arrest. They have grease spots on them and are scratched like the pair which was found in the trap basin.

Campbell placed one of each pair on his hands. He testified that the pair found in his car had been used while working on a car.

Defense Has One More Witness.

At 3:30 o'clock the court was adjourned. Mr. Vandoren has joined the list of convalescents in the defending ranks. Charles Henry Smith was required to withdraw from active participation in the case because of an abscessed ear. He has been in the court for the past few days acting in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Vandoren was ill yesterday with a cold, but continued with the case.

At the adjournment yesterday defense attorneys announced that Dr. Hamilton is the only defense witness yet to be called. Mr. Collins said he will continue his cross-examination for a short while today.

It is hoped that Col. Goddard will today report on his tests of bullets fired in the presence of the jury on Tuesday.

Three Verdicts Possible.

Mr. Collins will not specifically demand the death penalty in his final address to the jury. "The jury may render three possible verdicts," he explained. "They may find murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, or acquittal."

If Col. Goddard completes his tests today a microscope will be brought into the courtroom and a demonstration will be given to the jury of the manner in which he arrived at his decision.

The outcome of the Goddard tests is eagerly awaited by criminologists in all parts of the world who look upon them as the determination for all time of the value of the theory of ballistics as an exact science.

Mr. Goddard contends that all guns have individuality. Ballistics is exact, he says, and has staked his reputation on the outcome of the tests. The best method, he says, of determining similarity or dissimilarity between two bullets is by means of the comparison microscope. He is supported in these views by leading experts in this country and abroad.

View of Dr. Hamilton.

Opposed to this view is Dr. Hamilton, who claims that ballistics is exact only where a gun has individuality, but that all guns do not have individuality. His method of arriving at an identification is by measuring the widths of scratches on a given bullet and comparing them with the widths of scratches on a death bullet.

Campbell took the stand at 11:40 yesterday and told the court that he wanted publicity, that he fabricated the story of the man with the "wart on his nose," that he lied about Barrere and that he did not know what a mess he was getting himself into.

Meeting With Mrs. Parsons.

He told the story of his meeting with Mrs. Gwendolyn Parsons at Fifteenth and H streets at 2:15 o'clock and the auto ride into Virginia. "We parked near Sheridan gate for about three-quarters of an hour. I remember a car passed carrying Commander Fowler, of the Navy Department. I don't know whether he saw me or not. About quarter past 5 I took Mrs. Parsons home. She lives at 2100 Nineteenth street.

"Now this is entirely conjecture. When the police asked me what route I took after leaving her home I told them if I took the logical route I would go around Dupont Circle, south on Nineteenth street to Virginia avenue to Seventeenth street and then down Seventeenth street to the Tidal Basin and on to the Highway Bridge. They said, 'Then you did pass Mary Baker's car?'

"I said if her car was parked at the corner of Seventeenth and B streets, then I passed it. I thought at that time that the car had been parked near the Pan-American Building, but later I learned that it was parked on B street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets."

Telephone Call Mentioned.

Mr. Vandoren interrupted him at this point to inquire regarding a telephone conversation between him and Mrs. Parsons.

"I called Mrs. Parsons and she asked if I realized we had parked close to the spot where Mary Baker's body was found. I told her I hadn't realized it. I reminded her that Commander Fowler had passed the spot [illegible] that I wanted to protect her and that she had better not call me any more about the incident because I believed my wires were being tapped.

Campbell then proceeded to tell of the incidents which have been corroborated by other defense witnesses—the stop at Taisoff's store for a cake box, the talk with an associate at his office, the visit to C. W. Lee's house about 5:40 o'clock, his arrival home at 5:50 o'clock, the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Green and Horace Mudd soon after 6 o'clock, the telephone calls to business acquaintances and friends between 6 and 7 o'clock, and receipt of the telegram at 6:08 o'clock.

All of his activities on the night of the murder have been corroborated by more than a score of witnesses. His visit to the Scout meeting in the Columbia Heights Christian Church at 7:30 o'clock was substantiated by four witnesses. Then he told of his call upon Mrs. Marion Stuart at 620 Hamilton street northwest, which lasted from shortly before 8 o'clock until after 9 o'clock. He said that he stopped at Schneider's bakery for a clean cake box and then came home. This, too, was corroborated.

Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the defendant, took the stand early in the day and told the court that she arrived home from her work at the Potomac Electric Power Co. about 6 o'clock.

She said that she scolded her son, Edwin Callahan, for being late for the Scout meeting and that Campbell was in the kitchen preparing dinner. Campbell and Edwin left home at 7:10 o'clock for the Scout meeting. Mrs. Campbell also corroborated the stories of the Greens and those of other witnesses who testified regarding the telephone calls and telegrams.

Baked Cake for Friend.

Mrs. Campbell said that she had baked a cake for a Mrs. Anna Good, a friend of hers, and asked her husband to obtain a box for it, which he did. Mrs. Good's birthday was on April 13.

"Was there anything abnormal in your husband's actions on that night?" asked Mr. Vandoren.

"Absolutely not," she replied.

"If your husband's manner had been unusual on that night," asked Mr. Collins, "would you tell the jury of it?"

"I certainly would," she answered firmly.

"If he hadn't been home that night, would you tell the jury?"

"I certainly would."

Other Witnesses Heard.

Other witnesses who testified yesterday were Charles Wenrich, Charles Morris and William Hunt, all members of the same Boy Scout Troop as Edwin Callahan, who said that Edwin had attended the meeting on April 11 and his father had brought him there; and Lawrence E. Roland, a telephone company official, who disclosed records of telephone calls from and to the Campbell home on the evening of April 11.

Hassel H. Burgwin, owner of a book, "The Golden Dancer," said he had loaned it to Miss Ruth Capen. She said it was stolen from her car parked near the Ellipse. This book was found with Mary Baker's clothing. Mr. Vandoren was permitted to introduce into the record a statement from Mrs. Frank X. Summer, the owner of a string of coral beads which was also found with the girl's clothing. Mrs. Summer said that the beads had been stolen from her car near the Ellipse.

Mrs. Anna Good, recipient of Mrs. Campbell's birthday cake gift, testified as to her acceptance of the gift.

"Was the cake good?" asked Mr. Collins.

"It certainly was very good," she replied.

(Associated Press.)

Distinguished Flying Crosses will be awarded five naval officers for extraordinary achievements in aviation.

The Navy said yesterday the awards will be made to Lieuts. Apollo Soucek, of Redford, Okla., for altitude flying experiments; Wallace M. Dillon, of Birmingham, Ala.; Richmond P. Whitehead, of Fall River, Mass., and E. F. Burkett (deceased), of Abilene, Tex., and Chief Radio Electrician Claude G. Alexander, of Shawnee, Okla., for an aerial survey of Alaska made in 1926.

KELLEY CHALLENGED TO MAKE AFFIDAVIT

DISMISSAL IS GIVEN

(Associated Press.)

Ralph S. Kelley was dismissed from the Interior Department yesterday and shortly afterward a demand was made by a Republican that the former Denver land office official publish a full statement under oath "if he would clear himself of the implication of playing politics."

Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, in a statement through the Republican national committee, said Kelley could not claim to be a public servant rendering patriotic service unless he could show he did not sell his articles to any "newspaper organization or individual and that their publication was in no wise associated with partisan campaign politics."

Wilbur Writes Dismissal.

"If Mr. Kelley wishes to clear himself of the implication of playing politics and seeking remuneration for his articles, he should publish a full statement under oath at once," he said.

Earlier in the day, Secretary Wilbur wrote Kelley that his conduct had been such "that your connection with the Interior Department may be considered terminated by dismissal as of September 29, 1930."

On that date, the secretary refused to accept Kelley's resignation and suspended him pending an investigation of his charges of maladministration of oil shale lands.

Kelley ignored a request by Wilbur to supply the department with specific information and refused to lay his charges before the Department of Justice, but later outlined them in a series of articles in a New York newspaper.

Hoover Denounces Charges.

Following the report of the Department of Justice, which held the charges unfounded, President Hoover denounced them as "fabrications" and an attempt to "charge odious oil scandals" to his administration.

Glenn said a congressional investigation "no doubt would be made."

Secretary Wilbur has said he would welcome an investigation by the Senate lands committee.

A month ago, after a conference with Kelley, Chairman Nye said if the Department of Justice did not take action on Kelley's charges he would "feel required to introduce a resolution in the Senate calling for an investigation." Mr. Nye has made no comment since the Department of Justice report.

Funeral Services Held For William H. Smith

Special to the Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Funeral services were held this afternoon for William Marshall Smith, 77, native of Harrisonburg, Va., who came to Keyser at the close of the Civil War and entered the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

He is survived by his wife, one son, C. W. Smith, Keyser; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Shupp, Hagerstown, and Mrs. Edgar Feller, Keyser; one brother, James Smith, Keyser, and two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Nicewarner, Broadway, Va., and Mrs. William Grimm, Flat Rock, Ohio.

Armistice Day to Mark Opening of New Bridge

Special to the Washington Post.

Sutton, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Citizens have arranged to hold a public celebration, with Gov. William G. Conley and other State officials participating, on Armistice Day, November 11, to mark the completion and opening of the new State bridge crossing Elk river on route No. 19 here.

The new bridge takes the place of a suspension bridge that has taken care of traffic over the river here for nearly a century. It has just been completed by contractors and State road workers now are building the approaches to it.

Miner, Injured in Fall, Succumbs to Exposure

Special to The Washington Post.

Westernport, Md., Oct. 29.—The body of a man who was later identified as Edward McKenzie, a miner, was found under the Western Maryland Railroad bridge at West Virginia Junction, 1 mile from here, yesterday. An arm and a leg had been broken in the fall, but death evidently came from exposure.

It is thought McKenzie was making his way home when the accident occurred. He was unmarried and is survived by several brothers. [illegible] on such information.

Hughes to Speak At I. C. C. Parley

Practitioners Will Meet Today at First Annual Session.

Chief Justice of the United States Charles Evans Hughes will speak briefly at a meeting today of lawyers, traffic men, analysts and others who appear regularly before the Interstate Commerce Commission when the recently organized Association of Practicitioners holds its first annual session at the Mayflower Hotel.

Frank McManamy, chairman of the I. C. C., will deliver the principal address at the morning session, following which the 350 members will be received by President Hoover. Clyde B. Aitchison, member of the commission, willl adddress the afternoon session.

A banquet is scheduled for tonight at which speakers will include Amelia Earhart, aviatrix; Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover; Prof. William W. Splawn, of American University, and Ralph Budd, of St. Paul, Minn., president of the Great Northern Railroad.

Youth Is Accused Of Cutting Woman

Escapes After Stabbing Her When She Boxed His Ears.

Police last night were searching for Charles Wilson, Negro, 17 years old, employe of Kay's butcher shop, 60 M street southwest, in connection with the stabbing of Mrs. Rebecca Shainbloom, 45 years old, 64 M street southwest. Mrs. Shainbloom is in Emergency Hospital suffering a knife wound in the stomach, but her condition was not regarded as serious.

According to the police version of the affair, Mrs. Shainbloom's son was playing in front of the butcher shop when Wilson came out and chased the boy away. Angered when her son reported the incident, Mrs. Shainbloom is said to have gone to the store and then to have "boxed" Wilson's ears.

The Negro then reached for a butcher knife, police say, slashing the woman as she backed out from behind the counter. The youth then fled before police arrived.

Educational Association Hears Commissioner

William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, yesterday addressed the Columbian Educational Association at the Armstrong School, touching on the general problems of administration of public school systems. The same subject was discussed by Dr. Ambrose Caliver, specialist in Negro education of the Interior Department, with reference to opportunities offered for a high type of administrative work in this field throughout the country.

Reports were made by John E. Bruce and John C. Syphax, delegates to the National Education Association convention in Columbus, Ohio, and to the convention of the National Association of Colored Teachers held in Petersburg, Va. M. Grant Lucas was reelected president; Laura G. Arnold, vice president; Wilder P. Montgomery, secretary; John Syphax, treasurer.

LLOYD GEORGE HITS PALESTINE POLICY

Liberal Leader Also Criticizes MacDonald as Slow on Unemployment.

BALDWIN LIST IS DENIED

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, premier in Britain's war cabinet, today carried the subject of Palestine formally into the House of Commons by asking that the whole matter of British policy be debated by the house. Criticism of the activities of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald accompanied Lloyd George's demand.

"The prime minister has said that there is no departure in the recent White paper from the policy on Palestine that has existed under previous governments," the Welshman said. "Well, if there is no departure in policy it is very remarkable that the whole Jewish world should take exception to the British statement."

The Liberal leader continued that there would be serious consequences unless the question should be cleared up. His address formed the outstanding feature of today's session of commons when members continued to reply to yesterday's speech from the throne.

Asks For More Drive.

Lloyd George ran briefly over the government's legislative program as disclosed in the king's speech and asked for "a little more drive" in dealing with the unemployment situation.

"Up to the present," he said, "the prime minister does not seem to have given the necessary drive on the one thing that put him in power. I do not say that he does not work hard. He has worked hard at other things and seems too busy to do his job.

"It was a great mistake for him to have given the whole of his time to the details of the naval conference instead of leaving it to the foreign secretary and the first lord of the admiralty."

Those expecting that Lloyd George's speech would shed light on the intentions of the Liberals regarding specific measures to be introduced by the government were disappointed.

Signatures Are Repudiated.

So far as the dramatic side of politics was concerned, today's parliamentary proceedings were completely overshadowed by denials of certain Conservative leaders that they had subscribed to a manifesto demanding the resignation of Stanley Baldwin from party leadership.

The manifesto, in the form of a letter bearing the names of 44 prominent Conservatives, appeared in most of the morning newspapers and caused a sensation which was increased by the denials and reports that legal action might grow out of the whole affair.

The outstanding development of the matter was that it appeared certain to political observers there was some sort of a meeting of Conservative malcontents last night and that the whole subject would be likely to receive much pominence when the Conservative party holds a scheduled meeting tomorrow.

Statement Is Issued.

Another meeting of some of the members supposed to have attended last night's session was held tonight. At its close Col. John Gretton issued the following statement:

"On behalf of the members who attended the meeting of October 28, I am authorized to state that publication of the alleged proceedings and list of names is inaccurate and made without authority.

"A communication has been handed to the chief conservative whip (Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell) tonight."

Col. Gretton refused to make a further statement and there for the moment the matter rested, pending the session tomorrow.

Senate Aspirant Back On Stump; Goff Is Ill

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—James Elwood Jones, Republican candidate for United States senator, who had been confined in a hospital here, resumed his campaign today. Jones was stricken with renal colic last Saturday night. His physician said he was "feeling very good" as he left here today to keep an engagement at Beckley.

Republican State headquarters was advised today by United States Senator Guy D. Goff's physician that he could not allow the senator to campaign in behalf of James Ellwood Jones, Republican candidate for senator in West Virginia.

State School Chorus Director Appointed

Special to The Washington Post.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Miss Alta Cherrington, musical director of the Huntington High School, has been chosen director of the State high school chorus that will sing in Charleston the evening of November 7.

She will take a group of 80 boys and girls from the local high schools to the meet, at which the State high school orchestra will play. Fifty local students will go to Charleston for the latter performance.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA IN BRITAIN ADMITTED

Russia's Envoy Told That His Nation Is Violating Understanding.

OFFICIAL PROTEST MADE

London, Oct. 29 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Admission that the Russian government, in the opinion of the British government, has been violating its pledge to this country not to spread Soviet propaganda here was made by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson at question time in the House of Commons here this afternoon.

Mr. Henderson added that he had protested to the Russian Ambassador in London.

Some months ago, as a result of continued heckling from Conservatives, who charged that the pledge was being violated, Mr. Henderson appointed a secret committee of investigation into the matter. Today, when one of the Tories asked the foreign secretary what conclusion the committee had reached, Mr. Henderson said that as a result of its inquiry he had seen the Soviet Ambassador here.

"I represented to him," he said, "that his government had not been observing the pledge against propaganda into which they entered. I asked the ambassador to impress seriously on his government that continuation of this propaganda would be calculated seriously to endanger the relations between the two countries. The ambassador assured me in reply that his government had done and would continue to do all in their power to observe the pledge given regarding propaganda. He added, however, that his government could not control the activities of the Third Internationale."

This concluding observation of the Russian Ambassador, as reported by Mr. Henderson, brought the Tories down on the foreign secretary again. They reminded him that he and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald had both interpreted Russia's pledge as covering the activities of the Third Internationale. All Mr. Henderson could say in defense was that he had spoken of this interpretation to the Russian Ambassador. He concluded:

"It's quite clear there are two interpretations. I placed my interpretation and I've given the house what he said was his interpretation. That's as far as I am in a position to take it at the moment."

Playwright to Speak Before Drama Guild

Murdock Pemberton, author and playwright, will speak on "Ninety Years on Broadway" at the first meeting of the Community Drama Guild this season, scheduled for Wednesday night at McKinley High School, Second and T streets northeast. The Army Band will furnish a musical program, while Lisa Gardiner, assisted by a group of dancers, will entertain.

Dr. DeWitt C. Croissant, president of the board of governors of the guild, will preside and introduce this season's chairmen—Mrs. Charles T. Watson, membership; Mrs. William E. Chamberlain, program; Mrs. William J. Peters, play reading, and Mrs. Edith Sears, play exchange.

Y.W.C.A. Will Feature Health in Its Activity

Following a national program for Young Women's Christian Associations, the local organization this year will stress "Health" in its activities. Miss Richards, new head of the health education department, who has served in similar capacities in associations in the East and Middle West, already has outlined a schedule of "health balance" events.

Dr. Grace G. Purse is assisting Miss Richards and members of the health education staff. In addition to regular gymnasium work there will be classes in golf and tap dancing, while each Saturday has been designated as children's day, with the gymnasium and pool devoted to exercises for 200 boys and girls.

Navy Will Make Aerial Survey of Porto Rico

The Navy will in December begin an aerial survey of the Island of Porto Rico at the request of Gov. Roosevelt. The project, which has been approved by the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, is to be undertaken primarily to aid in a soil survey which for some time has been under consideration by the Department of Agriculture.

Lieut. Carleton McGauly, jr., attached to the Naval Air Station, Hampton Roads, Va., will be in command of the expedition, assisted by three naval aviators, a photographic officer, two aviation pilots, four enlisted photographers and twelve enlisted mechanics.

Couple Held on Charge Of Abandoning Infant

Louis Adams, 39, and his wife, Annie, 35, who say they are gypsies, were arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeant Michael J. Dowd on a fugitive from justice warrant. They are held for the Summit Co., Ohio, authorities.

According to information received here, the accused are said to have abandoned a six-month-old child at a hospital there about three weeks ago. They told police here that they had merely left the child until they could find a place to live here, fearing to keep the infant in open camp during cold weather.

Walter W. Hicks Named Photo Finishers' Head

Walter W. Hicks, of Hicks Photo Finishers, Inc., 3825 Georgia avenue northwest, was elected territorial vice president for the central Atlantic States at the national convention of the Master Photo Finishers of America in St. Louis yesterday, according to word received here last night.

He has also been named to represent the association on the drug store survey committee composed of manufacturers having a Nation-wide service for drug stores. This survey is being made in conjunction with the Department of Commerce.

Widows of Victims in R-101 Asked to Aid Tragedy Quiz

Investigator Requests That All Letters Pertaining to Condition of Craft Be Submitted; Charred Bits of Dirigible's Log Prove Illegible.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Because charred bits of the R-101 log were all searchers could find after the giant British dirigible was destroyed by fire in France October 5, widows of the 48 victims today were asked to produce copies of reports of letters written by their husbands concerning the dirigible.

Loss of the log in the fire was made known at the government's public inquiry into the disaster by Sir William Jowitt, attorney general, who made the appeal for aid in procuring documentary evidence bearing on the condition of the ship.

Flames which reduced the R-101 to a mass of twisted steel probably obliterated most of the evidence which would have solved the mystery of the crash, it was indicated in Sir William's closing summation of preliminaries.

The log as found was almost wholly unreadable. Sir John Simon, chairman of the court of inquiry, said, however, he understood some of the officers had kept private diaries on the trial flight of the airship. He asked that a minute search be made for such information.

Continuing his explanation of what the government investigation had revealed, Attorney General Jowitt said tests had been made of a cable controlling the aileron, or elevating fin, from which tests it was thought the cable had broken after the crash.

He cited the story of the rigger, Church, who died soon after the accident, that the R-101 took a deep dive just before the crash. He reminded the court also that Commander Booth, of the R-100, had not been impressed by trial flights of the R-101 because Booth had said they were neither long enough nor under severe enough weather conditions.

Sir William said: "It was quite clear that the trial trip was unsatisfactory. One engine went out of commission, another was not running at full speed, the craft itself was given no full-speed tests, and the flights it took were of too short distance." The attorney general said the investigation would go into the granting of a certificate of air worthiness on October 2, just before the disaster. Examination of witnesses was scheduled for tomorrow.

Washington Trio Injured in Crash

Auto Runs Into Truck on Railroad Overhead Near Aberdeen.

Three Washington persons were injured last night, one seriously, when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a truck on the Stephany Bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near Aberdeen, Md., as the driver of the car was blinded by the headlights of an approaching machine.

Mrs. Anna Heiberg, 53, of 2016 R street northwest, driver of the car, was taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore and treated for several fractured ribs and internal injuries. Miss Caroline Walker, 18, and Talbott Walker, 23, passengers in the car, were shaken up. They are also of Washington, but their street addresses were not learned by Baltimore police.

The truck, which had stopped on the bridge for repairs, was operated by Filliam Martin, of Raspburg, Md., a suburb of Baltimore.

Salvation Army Man In Martinsburg Shifted

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Capt. George W. Thomas, in charge of the local post of the Salvation Army for the past nine months, resigned today because of inadequate salary, he said. He will leave the army for private work in a connection not announced. The resignation is effective immediately.

No successor has been named, so far as he was aware. Capt. Thomas and family came here from Louisville, Ky., to undertake the local army work.

Virginia Forest Group To Hold Session Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Problems confronting the recently organized Virginia Forestry Commission will be discussed at a called meeting of the body at the capitol tomorrow. Among the major matters before the commission is a study of a new system of taxing growing timber and timber lands.

A program of public forestry hearings also was expected to be mapped out by the commission during tomorrow's meeting.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 29 (Special).—The Rev. Phillip J. Jensen, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Owings Mill, Md., has advised the vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church that he has decided to decline the call to the rectorship here. He had the call under consideration several weeks.

Woman Who Lived In Corn Crib Dead

Two Sisters for Years Had Spent Their Lives Almost in Open Air.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 29.—Eliza Malone, 86, whose father, Jesse Malone, was a boatman at the opening of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, died at Allegany Hospital here yesterday. With her surviving sister, Nancy, who is nearly 100 years old, she lived a hermit life near Oldtown, this county, in a corncrib on the original Malone farm.

One sister slept on the floor. Wind and weather swept through the building, almost unobstructed, while the roof was almost rotted away. The sisters were brought to the hospital here when their plight was discovered three years ago, but they would not stay, saying they wished to be near the grave of their forebears, which are close by their door.

Finally a donation was made with which a two-room house was built for them near the site of their former abode. Hundreds marveled at the vitality of the aged women, who for years had lived almost in the open.

EASTERDAY INDICTED IN MAIL FRAUD PLOT

STOCK SALES ARE CITED

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—W. W. Easterday and ten others were indicted today by a Federal grand jury on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud through sales of stock in New York and Washington.

David W. Sullivan, Charles Greenhaus, known as "The Boy Wizard of Wall Street," and Harry Greenhaus were among those indicted.

The others indicted are Joseph Cataldo, Chester Marr, Harold F. Specker, John J. Russell, John J. Dorfman, Eddie Schreider, and David W. Carey.

The defendants are alleged to have worked "a 100 per cent game," whereby hundreds of small investors were mulcted on representation that they were buying stock on installment or playing the market on margin. In reality no purchases were made by Easterday and his associates, the Government charges.

Easterday, Greenhaus, and Sullivan are said to have operated as Sloane, Logan & Co. in New York and as L. A. Congdon & Co. on New York avenue, Washington.

SMITH BROADCAST HITS REPUBLICANS

following moves as measures of relief:

"Real economy" at Washington by reorganization of governmental machinery, to take the place of "the present politically expedient economy which now accomplishes only the curtailment of necessary appropriations for the conduct of the Government;" a five-day working week for industry; State regulation of child labor to prevent unfair interstate competition; passage of Senator Wagner's unemployment bills; readjustment of tariff schedules "unfair to the American people, and discriminatory to the foreign market for American products."

Concerning the tariff, he declared: "The big captains of industry who sought to benefit themselves by exacting high prices from the American public won out, and the farmer lost. Not only is he no better off, but the attempts at farm relief contained in the measures enacted have tended to make the situation worse."

Referring to prohibition, he said: "If there is any one great problem in which we are suffering from a lack of leadership, it is solution of the muddle in which we find ourselves as a result of the enactment of the eighteenth amendment.

"It has not banished hard liquor from this country. The liquor is still flowing through every State in the Union and whatever benefit may have come to us by State regulation, prior to prohibition, has been wiped out, and the American people to my way of thinking are gradually coming to the belief that the solution of the problem lies in returning to the old-time, well-defined, Democratic belief in the rights of the several States."

Mr. Smith's address was broadcast by station WEAF and a nation-wide network of the National Broadcasting Co.

ALSO ASSAILS SCANDALS

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Some frank historian of the future, in writing of the present period, will record that "in our carnival of foolishness, two Presidents of the United States were auctioneering blue sky stocks from the steps of the White House," James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio and Democratic presidential candidate in 1920, said in addressing a Democratic rally here tonight.

He pointed out that the savings of thousands were wiped out in the collapse of the stock market and added: "It would be interesting to know how many people who have lost their savings were torn away from the moorings of the caution of other days by the enticing words of two Presidents."

"The Republican party is essentially of class domination and conducted by a small group of men, particulary at this time, in an era of the blindest partisanship the country has ever known anything about," Cox declared.

"This relatively small reactionary circle has felt that it could do anything, and there was abundant justification for this. Within the last few years, we have had Government scandals unparalleled in the extent to which they involved so many public departments and the closeness to which they reached the White House.

"The President's advisers and members of the Cabinet were so guilty of robbery and plunder that the Supreme Court of the United States assaulted the general conditions in words that are historic."

Large sums were used for developing the social side of politics for women, and "it was in too many instances deemed socially smart to be a Republican," the former governor charged. He added:

"Then again, the devious methods of organization took in the churches, wherever clerical consent could be obtained. And we must not forget that the indicated wish of the large contributors to the church fund is a persuasive thing."

STATE PARTY LINES UPSET BY PINCHOT

GRUNDY COOL AND CALM

constitutes the most dangerous threat to the wet cause today.

And this threat lies not in his ability to carry Pennsylvania as a dry because he can't, but because he will have demonstrated his ability to carry it in spite of his dryness and presumably could do the same in other wet States.

You see in this day and time of classifying men as progressives and reactionaries and the like, he, in addition to being the laboring man's Messiah, is also called a Progressive, the water-power wing of that profound Progressive-Liberal combination which is said to be stirring the country so.

While dry, he does believe in conserving the country's natural resources. Like the man who has a lot of old clothes in his closet—he has no use for them himself, but he doesn't want them to be given away.

Backed by Democrats.

So Pinchot splits the country's advanced thought. Both Democratic and Republican wets are supporting him in this State, the wet employe masses are supporting him, and wet newspapers are supporting him.

A man who can turn things about like that is worth his weight in gold to the dry cause.

And the men who are giving him this national prestige, who may be paving the way for him to gratify his consuming ambition to be President are those who hate him. And their hate can't be based on anything except that he talks about them. He calls them robbers and thieves, which naturally would make them mad because Pinchot has six or seven million himself and they may very well say: "The crust of him to talk that way about us."

It is easy indeed to understand why they would vote against him, but to turn the State upside down in an effort to defeat him is another thing.

The vast industry that is the Pennsylvania Railroad, with its great citadel in New York, its moving cities that streak through the night on rails, its almost inestimable property value—it is dragged into the fight because of the animosity of its president, Mr. Atterbury, for Mr. Pinchot.

Cry "He Must Not Pass."

One gets the picture of the State's great industry as a whole shrieking that this man must not pass, that if he does thousands of men will be thrown out of jobs into the winter already burdened with discontent.

In the Bell Telephone offices here, and I am told elsewhere in the State, are placards asking their employes to vote for Hemphill. "Pinchot is out to crush us," these captains of industry say. "We are fighting for our lives."

Little Joe Grundy is the only one who pushes through the campaign mouthings of G. Pinchot to get at the real man. Always just as much alarmed as any of the others at a "radical" getting into office, Little Joe knew his Pinchot so well in 1922 that he did not hesitate, for political expediency, to help Pinchot win. And he did not hesitate, he Little Joe, part and parcel of the interests, to support him in this year's primary. And he is supporting him now.

Relies on Legislature.

Even if he had any misgivings about G. P., well, Little Joe knows his State Legislature.

They make it so easy for one of Little Joe's ability to tie a governor's hands. The danger cry in Little Joe's opinion, is a false alarm, and Pinchot's past performances make one feel that he is right.

As a matter of fact, all the great crusader has threatened to do in this campaign, is to abolish the public service commission. It's a fair bet that he won't get by with even that.

But the fight on him is a striking example of the extent to which the kings will go to have their way. The old Democratic chieftains of the State, W. B. Wilson, Vance McCormick and others, have stepped aside, and are letting the Republicans have Hamphill and to themselves. They realize a Hemphill victory would mean nothing to them or advance the cause of democracy one inch.

$5,000,000 Rail Project Set.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., announced tonight nearly 600 employes of the company, half of whom now are on furlough, would begin work within two weeks on the construction of new steel cars costing approximately $5,000,000.

CHAMBER WILL LIST ALL AVAILABLE JOBS

CHURCH HELP IS SOUGHT

Establishment of a "job registration bureau" at the local Chamber of Commerce and organization of a city-wide committee were the two big steps yesterday in the buy now for better business drive.

The employment bureau is the idea of Charles W. Darr, former president of the Chamber of Commerce. Anyone in a position to create an odd job is asked to register by telephone or in person at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters in the Homer Building. Mr. Darr points out that buying power can be increased only by putting money in the pockets of those who need employment.

Members of various trades who are unemployed can make a passable living through obtaining odd jobs, it is pointed out by Mr. Darr.

City-Wide Committee.

The city-wide committee will be made up of representatives of various phases of civic life. In this way, the buy-now drive will not be a distinctly Chamber of Commerce venture; rather, a campaign in which the entire city will be invited to take part, it is pointed out. The personnel of the committee is expected to be announced today.

A week of radio talks on the campaign will be opened Saturday night with a 15-minute talk by Mr. Darr over Station WMAL and George A. G. Wood, chairman of the chamber's buy now committee, over Station WRC. Posters, advertising the slogan, buy now, are to be distributed by the street railway and traction companies and by the General Outdoor Advertising Co. Theaters will also cooperate in the campaign.

Churches to Aid Drive.

Citizens Associations and luncheon clubs are to be asked to indorse the campaign and cooperate in finding employment for the jobless. Ministers are being interviewed by Mr. Wood and details of the part that churches will take in the drive are expected this week.

Those who derive a large part of their income from dividends are advised by Mr. Wood to spend in accordance with their income, and not feel that because their income may have been temporarily cut they must save a large part of the income to increase their principal. "It is obvious," said Mr. Wood, "that if these persons spend within their income, it will speed up industry and their dividend income will grow from increased industrial activity."

As evidence of the recent saving propensity of the American people, Mr. Wood refers to the report of the Federal Reserve System for the last six months showing that deposits in member banks have increased $1,500,000,000 and that savings bank deposits have increased $700,000,000 this year."

"Buy Now," was the subject of an address of Dorsey M. Hyde, secretary of the chamber, at the weekly luncheon of the Probus Club held yesterday in the Ambassador Hotel.

This is the first speech Mr. Dorsey has given in behalf of the campaign. He said that the "Buy Now" project will be extended to other cities through their chambers of commerce.

G. O. P. Congress Is Urged by Mills

Self-Interest Demands No Charge at This Time, He Asserts.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, in an address here tonight urged the election of a Republican Congress as the best guarantee of cooperative effort to overcome conditions of depression.

"Self-interest demands that we should not change our board of directors at this time," he said. "When circumstances imperatively call for unity, we must not have division; when cooperation should be the order of the day, we should not enthrone opposition; and, clearly, when the immediate task is construction, we should not turn to those who can not view a brick except in the light of something to be hurled."

"Two years from now if it seems wise, we can have an entire change of management," he continued.

MELLON IN RADIO ADDRESS ASKS NATION TO BACK HOOVER

needs having been supplied in the ten years that had elapsed since the war ended, there developed a lack of balance between production and consumption in certain commodities, resulting in a falling off in prices of these commodities and a consequent collapse in the buying power of many countries, accentuated in some cases by political upheavals as well as dislocation of trade."

In the process of readjustment that is now taking place, Secretary Mellon said, this country is particularly fortunate that it has a man like President Hoover in the White House.

Genius for Organization.

"Throughout his career," Secretary Mellon said, "both during the war and afterwards, President Hoover has exhibited a genius for organization and for quick and decisive action. These were qualities that made him so effective in dealing with the situation last autumn; and I feel that too much credit can not be given him for his very real and constructive contribution in mobilizing the business forces of the Nation at a critical moment in its history."

Admitting the seriousness of the situation, Secretary Mellon said that no one can predict how long the readjustment will take.

"But of one thing we can be certain," he said. "With our great internal organization, our vast resources, our unparalleled domestic buying power and indomitable spirit of our people, we shall be among the first of all the nations to recover and to resume the onward march of progress."

Can Not Work Miracles.

After telling of the administration's record in retiring the public debt, in revising the tariff, in aiding agriculture and in helping to reduce unemployment through a big Federal building program, Secretary Mellon said:

"I have said enough to show that the administration is doing all it can both to alleviate suffering and to hasten recovery from the business depression. It can not work miracles. The most that any administration can do is to keep the boat steady and headed in the right direction until the storm blows over; and that the President has shown he is well able to do.

"He can not be held responsible for the extent or violence of the storm, any more than he can be blamed for the drought which added one more plague to those that beset us last summer.

"President Hoover has shown himself a man capable of dealing with great emergencies. I am confident that he will lead the country out of its present difficulties; but if he is to do so with a minimum of friction and loss of time, his hands should not be tied by a Congress controlled by his political opponents.

Time For United Action.

"It is not a time for divided authority. It is rather a time for a strong and united action and, in asking support for the President and the administration, I do so in the belief that in this way we shall attain most quickly that full measure of economic recovery which is inevitable in a nation so self-reliant and so justifiably confident of the future."

Secretary Mellon is one of six Cabinet members who have been called upon to make speeches in the campaign, the others being Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, and Secretary of Labor Davis.

Four Cabinet officers have made no speeches—Secretary of the Navy Adams, Postmaster General Brown, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and Attorney General Mitchell. The latter, of course, never makes a political speech, the judicial nature of his office precluding any political activity.

50 FACING JOB LOSS RETAINED BY GRANT

Temporary Workmen Will Raze Ruins of Federal Trade Quarters.

OTHER TASKS IN SIGHT

The problem of unemployment which faced 50 temporary employes of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks was solved, for the present at least, by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, who yesterday announced that additional work had been found for the men.

The workmen, he said, are to be put at once on the job of razing the ruins of Temporary Building No. 4, at Twenty-first and C streets northwest, which was badly damaged by fire in August. It was explained that demolition of the structure, formerly occupied by the Federal Trade Commission, had been decided upon "to retain these temporary employes now on our rolls, rather than discharge them now and increase the number of unemployed."

After the fire damaged structure is razed, the site will be used next spring for erection of the new $1,000,000 office building of the Pan-American Union.

Another step to relieve the unemployment situation is to be taken by the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks by continuing the concrete sidewalk program in the parks through the winter, instead of postponing the work until warmer weather, it was stated by Lieut. F. B. Butler, Col. Grant's assistant.

The new Hains Point walk, from the inlet bridge to the United States Engineer Office wharf, will be completed in about two weeks, providing a 10-foot sidewalk completely around the rim of East Potomac Park, it was also announced by Col. Grant's office yesterday.

Jury Fails to Return Carlton Indictments

Tallahassee, Fla., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A special grand jury investigating charges against Gov. Doyle E. Carlton by certain newspapers, reported today finding of "no bills."

"No bill" was reported against the Florida State News, "because there has been no evidence introduced to us that warrants indictment on charges of libelous statements. There has been no evidence brought before us," the report continued, "to justify an indictment against Doyle E. Carlton for accepting bribe money."

Byrd, Ptomaine Victim, Makes Rapid Recovery

Baltimore, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was convalescent at his hotel here today after an attack of ptomaine poisoning, despite which he gave two lectures here yesterday and said he planned to keep other speaking engagements in Philadelphia tonight.

The explorer contracted the illness before leaving New York for Baltimore yesterday and received medical attention, it became known today. He underwent further treatment before the lectures, delivered to 7,000 persons.

BYRNS HITS DELAY IN RELIFE FOR IDLE

(Associated Press.)

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, said last night that postponement of the administration's efforts to relieve unemployment "until the very eve of the congressional election arouses the suspicion that its interest is as much political as it is humane."

In a statement through the Democratic national committee, Byrns added "it is a matter of general gratification that the Federal administration has at last become aroused to the necessity of grappling with the grave unemployment problem."

"While we rejoice," he said, "that the administration is at last to do what it can at this late day to ease the distress from which so many millions are suffering, we can not forget nor fail to hold Mr. Hoover and his advisers responsible for their unpardonable delay in doing anything at all."

Byrns added: "Although the administration had from last November, when the depression became serious, until July 1, when appropriations for the new fiscal year became available, to plan for an enlarged Federal program of public works, it actually appropriated $25,922,562 less for public works this year than it did last."

GREEN IS CONFIDENT ON UNEMPLOYMENT

$50,000,000 for Building.

Plans of the Shipping Board to advance $15,000,000 in loans toward construction of ships to cost a total of $50,000,000 gave definite assurances of employment for at least 20,000 men. That number may be kept occupied for two or three years as rebuilding of the American Merchant Marine continues.

Assuming charge of the women's division of the emergency committee, Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., appealed to the women to aid by having needed repairs done to their homes. In addition, she said the women could work through their different groups to procure employment for the needy and help those in distress.

Plans to work through the children also were made known. Dr. Gilbreth said the youngsters could report conditions of destitute families and might make suggestions that could be converted into practical ideas.

Col. Woods Encouraged.

Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the committee, reported to President Hoover he was encouraged over the response to his call for cooperation. Four States and fifteen cities had organized committees to put the idle to work and relieve those for whom no employment can be found.

Offers of the Columbia and National Broadcasting Companies to assist are to be accepted by Col. Woods. Speakers picked from communities where successful employment groups have functioned are to broadcast to other sections their ideas and practices.

Discussing the progress of the campaign, Col. Woods said four States—New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and Illinois—and fifteen cities had set up organizations to combat the problem. He said others are making plans to organize.

Postoffice to Use 228,490.

Plans of the Postoffice Department to place 228,490 additional persons on its pay roll during the Christmas holiday season, beginning December 13, were outlined by Postmaster General Brown. In this manner about $6,720,000 will be distributed to needy breadwinners, President Hoover having previously signed an executive order waiving civil service qualifications of workmen in order to make the widest distribution to the most destitute.

Although about 200,000 extra employes were used last Christmas, many of them were not in actual need of employment. The Postmaster General issued specific orders to postmasters throughout the country to determine the financial condition of the applicants to assure that they need work.

Poison-Liquor Scandal Bared by Alimony Suit

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The district attorney in Brooklyn today was investigating charges by a husband that his wife had collected insurance on the lives of three boarders who, he said, died of drinking poisoned liquor.

Walter Kamarauskas, opposing a plea for temporary alimony by his wife, Tillie, asserted that she collected $4,388 insurance on the lives of the three boarders in her home.

The whisky which caused their deaths, his petition stated, contained ground glass. She is seeking $20 a week in a separation suit.

ORPHANAGE DEFICIT SHOWN BY AUDITOR

NET SHORTAGE $37,000

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—An audit of the accounts of James P. Jones as treasurer of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage on which the State has charged Jones with larceny of $37,000 was detailed in Hustings Court today by F. L. Worcester, accountant who examined the records for trustees of the orphanage.

Worcester testified that two classes of items charged to Jones in the audit totaled $61,463.16 while two other classes credited to him totaled $23,486.76, leaving the sum of $37,976.40 which he said was unaccounted for. Jones is a member of the General Assembly and a former treasurer of the Antisaloon League of Virginia.

Explaining the items, the witness said that Jones received $36,190.87 which was not deposited in the orphanage accounts, and that bank records showed disbursements of $25,272.29 which were not entered on his cash books. A total of $62,463.61. He testified that Jones had deposited $11,406.33 to the credit of the orphanage and had paid orphanage bills amounting to $12,080.43, a total of $23,486.76 which was placed to his credit in the audit.

Jones' accounts as treasurer, dating from March 12, 1926, to June 17, 1930, were explained from a mass of testimony, Worcester remaining on the witness stand during the greater part of the day. He is to resume his testimony at 9:30 tomorrow morning, and Commonwealth Attorney Dave E. Satterfield, jr., said that he expected to continue prosecution witnesses probably through tomorrow.

Jones recently made a settlement with trustees of the orphanage which was said by them to be satisfactory.

William B. Bradley Dies at Lanaconing

Special to The Washington Post

Lonaconing, Md., Oct. 29.—William B. Bradley, 76 years old, died last night after a lingering illness. He was born of Scotch parentage and his early life was spent in Nova Scotia. He first engaged in the mercantile business here with the late David Dixon as a partner. In 1927 he entered into the insurance business, which he turned over to his son, James, two months ago.

He was a past master of Georges Creek Valley Lodge, No. 161, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons and was a Knight Templar. He was a lifelong member of the Episcopal Church. He is survived by one other son, William, jr., Dayton, Ohio, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles White, Youngstown, Ohio.

GERMANY SHELVES REPARATIONS ISSUE

in conformity with this demand, to fulfill the stipulated obligations of the Versailles treaty."

The committee's action was viewed in official circles as further clarification of Germany's internal politics, since it further indicated that the majority—including the Fascists—was ready to back Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's government in a peaceful foreign policy stressing disarmament and shelving, for the time being at least, the questions of treaty revision and reparations.

In view of the violent attacks on the Versailles Treaty during the recent plenary session of the Reichstag, political commentators were particularly interested to note it was on a vigorous demand for fulfillment of the Versailles stipulations that the committee agreed tonight.

ONE BOY IS KILLED; ANOTHER RESCUED

was not heard for a few minutes his father thought that the youth had been killed. Later he was able to hear his son's voice faintly and learned that the trapped youth was not injured, but was in serious danger.

Mother Summoned aid.

The elder Barrett ran to his home and informed his wife, Nellie, of the accident. While he returned to the well, she hurried to the highway, stopped a passing motorist, and rode to the village store, where she telephoned the Kensington squad.

When the firemen arrived several went to work filling washtubs with stone and dirt as others emptied them. As they reached deeper, ropes were used to haul out the tubs. When the workmen came within a few feet of where Barrett was trapped, the youth directed their rescue efforts. He said that his head was wedged between two large stones.

Some of the rocks removed were as much as 3 feet in width. About 2 feet of water in the bottom of the well had been absorbed by the earth.

From time to time, as the rescuers worked to remove the rock and gravel, Barrett reported the the ladder was gradually weakening and that he feared he would be crushed to death at any moment.

Trapped Four Hours.

It was 4 hours and 40 minutes before he was brought to the surface, exhausted and suffering from shock, but otherwise apparently uninjured. A short while before he could be liberated he was given some water and medicine to revive him.

Dr. Eugene Jones, State senator, administered first aid, after which Barrett was taken to the Sandy Spring General Hospital for examination.

While his injuries were limited to severe shock and bruises, Dr. J. W. Bird said that he would likely be held in the hospital a day or two until he fully recovered.

Work in Two Shifts.

The eighteen members of the Kensington squad worked in two shifts to dig away the debris while a growing crowd of Montgomery County residents stood by to give what aid they could. Oscar Herriman, of Silver Spring, was struck on the back by a large rock that was dislodged, but he refused to pause in his labor.

A second cave-in, after the firemen had near reached the trapped youth, almost brought disaster and temporarily caught James Raney and Eugene Stubbs, of the Kensington crew. Helmets were then used to guard the heads of the workers.

The driver of the ambulance that killed young Nichols, James Carlisle, of Rockville, was being held for investigation early last night.

A Rockville policeman, Harry Merson, drove the ambulance to the hospital when Carlisle appeared too nervous to operate the car.

Skidded Into Boy.

Nichols and a companion, Robert Kendall, had just left E. W. Offutt's store, near Edson lane, when the ambulance came along. The driver is said to have attempted to stop when he saw the boys, but the ambulance skidded and struck Nichols as he was on the gravel which bounds the asphalt roadway.

Carlisle took the injured lad to Bethesda and to the home of Dr. Benjamin C. Perry. Not finding him at home, he waited, police say, for almost a half hour, and it was there that Rockville police took charge. Upon their advice the boy was taken to Dr. Perry's office. The physician instructed them to rush him to the hospital.

Charged With Manslaughter.

The driver was later charged with manslaughter and released under $500 bond for a hearing in Montgomery County police court, Rockville, Saturday morning before Justice of the Peace John Jones.

Carlisle said that another car, going in the opposite direction, had come near striking Nichols, who jumped from its path in front of the ambulance.

Nichols' father is keeper of the grounds at the White Flint Country Club, near the scene of the accident. The ambulance is owned by William Reuben Pumphrey, jr., Rockville undertaker.

BYRD AIDS ADDRESS MINNESOTA SOCIETY

Radio Engineer Declares Preparations Worse Than Expedition.

Descriptions and scenes of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition were given the Minnesota State Society at the Willard Hotel last night by Lloyd V. Berkner, of Minnesota, assistant radio engineer for the Byrd expedition. Lieut. Malcolm P. Hanson, radio engineer; Frank T. Davies, physicis, and Sergt. Kennard F. Bubier, all members of the expedition, also were guests of the society.

Mr. Berkner declared that the preparations for the expedition and its aftermath were far greater ordeals than the trip itself. He paid high tribute to Admiral Byrd, describing him as a "wonderful shipmate and leader." The photographs shown on the screen were reminiscent of the moving picture story of the exploration.

Lieut. Hanson told how he had built up his acquaintance with his 2-year-old son over the radio. The child was born while the radio expert was on the trip. The speakers were introduced by Miss Bede Johnson, president of the society.

Motorist Who Killed Trio Gets Four Years

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 29.—John T. Kidner, automobile salesman, of Keyser, W. Va., was sentenced today to serve four years in the house of correction, following conviction by a jury of manslaughter in the deaths of Mrs. Fay Walner and two of her children, while walking on the McMullen highway, near Rawlings.

Kidner's car ran into the family, injuring six others. A native of Canada, he served in the United States Army during the World War and is a naturalized citizen. Judge Doub, in imposing sentence, spoke of the rights of pedestrians and added, "Manslaughter growing out of automobile accidents must not be treated lightly."

Peoples National Bank Of Brookneal Closed

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 29.—A telephone message from Brookneal today brought word of the closing of the Peoples National Bank there, one of the largest institutions in that section, with resources approximating $500,000.

Action was taken by the board of directors. E. W. Motter, national bank examiner, is now engaged in an audit of the books, concerning which he could say nothing today. Motter blamed the business depression for the closing of the bank.

Relatives of Noose Victim Sought.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 29 (Special). Nicholas County officers are trying to find friends or relatives of James Smith, 60, lumberman, whose dead body was found hanging in woods near Richwood Monday night. Suspicious circumstances were dispelled last night when a coroner's jury decided the man was a suicide. The body will be buried in the potter's field unless claimed.

Compressing Machine Shocks Worker.

While working on a building at 1335 F street northwest yesterday morning, August Roderman, 56 years old, of Capitol Heights, Md., received severe shocks from an electrical compressing machine. He was treated at Emergency Hospital and later allowed to return to his home.

25 Challenged Voters Given Maryland Ballot

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 29.—Out of 325 persons whose right to vote in Anne Arundel County had been challenged, Republican attorneys today found 25 names which will remain on the voting books because their residences in the county are legal. The other 300, most of whom are said to be Washington residents who also own homes in Maryland, will be denied a vote at next Tuesday's election, it appears.

A ruling by Chief Justice Francis Neale Parke, of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, Tuesday, held unconstitutional an act of 1929 repealing the existing law, which requires a declaration of intention of one year's residence before exercising the franchise. Democrats may appeal to the Court of Appeals, but no action has yet been taken.

Prosecutor Drops Strike Riot Cases

Action Follows Attempt to Obtain Hearings in Danville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 29.—Seven warrants, charging fourteen Schoolfield residents with acts of intimidation toward nonunion workers in the textile mill, were nolle prossed in police court this morning when Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Carter said he could see no reason why such cases, developing in Pittsylvania County, should be transferred to the city court.

The defendants were cheered by this development, since only last week Magistrate C. K. Carter, who was on the bench this morning, had said he would impose jail terms in proven cases of intimidation.

J. B. Hodnett reported today that late last night his home was visited by six men, who threw rocks at it. His wife, he said, who works in the mill, had been threatened yesterday. Hodnett seized a shotgun and pursued the marauders, firing at them ineffectually. Later he was found in the city with his repeating gun fully loaded and several buckshot shells in his pocket.

He was taken to police headquarters. This afternoon a lunacy commission held he was insane and ordered him taken to Staunton.

Picket lines were reduced today under the pressure of the all-day rain, the first since the strike began.

New Rector Appointed For Church at Oakland

Special to The Washington Post

Oakland, Md., Oct. 29.—The Rev. David S. Trimble, of Baltimore, has been appointed rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church here. He will be in charge of the parish work for an indefinite period. He will be ordained to the Episcopal priesthood next month.

Mr. Trimble is a son of the late Dr. Trimble, a prominent practitioner of Baltimore some years ago.

Alleged Baltimore Thug Forfeits $30,000 Bond

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—James "Fur" Sammons, wanted for trial in Baltimore on a pay roll robbery charge, forfeited $30,000 bond today by failing to appear before Judge Edgar A. Jonas on the fugitive charge of vagrancy.

Sammons is accused of participating in the holdup of the Henry Sanneborn & Co. paymaster at Baltimore, October 1, 1926, a crime for which Willie Niemoth already has been returned from here and sent to prison.

Woman Pays Fine For Using Water

Situation in Frederick Makes It Against Law to Sprinkle Lawn.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 29.—With its reservoir water supply cut off entirely, Frederick is taking drastic steps to restrict the use of water. One arrest already has been made in the case of a housewife using water to sprinkle flowers. William H. Knock entered a plea of guilty of violating the emergency water act and paid a fine of $5. An officer found Mrs. Knock sprinkling some flowers and ordered her arrest. Her husband appeared for her, because the wife is an invalid.

The regular source of Frederick's water supply, Fishing Creek, has been off for several days, and water now is being pumped from emergency supplies at Ox Creek, Tuscarora Creek, Grove Lime Co. springs, and springs at Montevue.

A special meeting of the city council has been called for the purpose of considering a plan for adding 5 feet to the top of the Fishing Creek reservoir, which will add about 17,000,000 gallons to the supply, at a cost of about $29,000.

Hagerstown Finds 300 Without Job

First Day's Registrations Show Relief Action Will Be Needed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 29.—Approximately 300 unemployed were registered during the first day of the one-week registration being conducted by Hagerstown's two newspapers, indicating widespread idleness here.

The request for such a canvass was made by the Washington County Welfare Federation, recently organized here with Judge Frank G. Wagaman, of the circuit court, as its head.

If a large number are found without jobs, the federation, soon to launch a drive for funds to be used in dispensing charity, will endeavor to have the city start several large construction projects. One would be the completion of Hagerstown's sewerage system, which will require about 6,000 man days, engineers estimate.

A number of manufacturing plants here already have adopted relief methods, one operating six hours daily, another three weeks on and one week off each month. The city itself is on a nine-hour day, five days weekly, instead of ten hours for six days.

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound through a pamphlet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks.

KIDNAPERS RELEASE BANKER UNHARMED

Yocum Refuses to Disclose Amount Paid Thugs for Freedom.

WAS WELL FED BY GANG

Galva, Ill., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Returning home unharmed today after being held blindfolded for three days by kidnapers, Earl Yocum, banker, refused to divulge who had held him captive or what ransom he had paid for his release.

He admitted he had been a prisoner of an extortion gang since Sunday, but refused to lend any aid toward tracking down the kidnapers.

"I'll let some one else save the country," he said.

Mr. Yocum was returned to his home early today by a motorist, who found him walking on a lonely road near Atkinson, Ill., about 15 miles from here. He said he had been dropped from an auto there a little earlier. He did not know where he was held prisoner, because he had been kept blindfolded, but he believed it was near Atkinson.

His blindfold was removed long enough for him to write two notes to his wife, he said, and once he managed to slip it off long enough to read a newspaper account of his kidnaping.

The letters he wrote to his wife, he said, were "sort of suggested." During his absence his wife steadfastly refused to divulge the contents of the notes or to give any information about arrangements for obtaining her husband's liberty.

Mr. Yocum said he was well fed by the gang.

Despite his declaration that he would not disclose the details of the kidnaping to officials, Sheriff Charles Nash said he would make an investigation.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Marion Bilbry, 35, who was brought here today from West Liberty, Iowa, where he claimed he was taken by three kidnapers, confessed this afternoon to W. P. Coombs, vice president and manager of Davidson Bros., wholesalers, by whom he was employed as a truck driver, that he had not been kidnaped, but that he merely wanted to travel and see the world.

Mr. Coombs said that Bilbry made a satisfactory settlement with Davidson Bros. and that he would not be prosecuted.

Eight-Hour Law Violation Charged.

Violation of the eight-hour working law for women was charged against the Arcade-Sunshine Co., Inc., in Police Court yesterday by J. W. Millspaugh, District eight-hour inspector. He alleged Elizabeth Larrimore and Gertrude Johnson, employes of the company, had worked more than eight hours without extra compensation. The hearing was continued before Judge Gus A. Schuldt until November 6.

REBEL LEADER OUTLINES AIMS OF BRAZILIAN REVOLUTION

oial powers from the federal executive.

"Under Washington Luis' regime there was no other power in the nation but his. The people of Brazil have been for many years anxious to see a return to constitutional government, and under the new government measures will be taken to severely punish those responsible for the violation of our inalienable constitutional rights.

"Those people will be called to account. And we hold that those members of the legislative body that so passively submitted to the will of one man, are equally responsible with him for this travesty of justice and this violation of their constitutional oath.

"For this reason the provisional government had dissolved both legislative chambers, the House of Deputies and the Senate. In the new elections representatives of the people will be elected to the new congress, and in order that the free will of the Brazilian people can be expressed without coercion or fear, the electoral law will be reformed and the dishonest group which conducted the administration under the protection of the fallen government will be punished as well as all those persons who were directly contributors to the mismanagement of affairs.

"In the presidential election of March 1, 1930, Washington Luis imposed the candidature of Dr. Julio Prestes, former president of the State of Sao Paulo. In order to procure Prestes' election the government put into practice all sorts of corrupt electioneering means, and as a consequence, the opposition to Prestes who, from the very beginning was unwelcomed by the people of Brazil, was drowned in the sea of illegalities.

"Washington Luis interfered in the State of Parahyba, provoking disorders in several towns. The same thing happened in the State of Minas Geraes when * * * Luis imposed the recognition of all his candidates. Then followed disorder which brought about the assassination of one of the principal opponents to his maneuvers —the then president of the State of Parahyba, who had been a member of the supreme military court of the republic. * * *

"Dr. Vargas, desiring to prevent a civil war which he foresaw in surveying the popular wave of discontent with the result of the election, although he knew he had been legally elected by a tremendous majority, accepted the election of Prestes and let it be known that he was satisfied with the election of Prestes.

"But the Brazilian people would not be thus fooled, and spontaneously rose against their oppressors. Tired as they were of suffering the humiliations to their dignity and in order to prevent a continuation for four years of the system which had brought so much dishonor to the country, they took arms against organized government.

"The war promised to be bloody, indeed, and the Brazilian people were prepared for a long battle for their liberties. Suddenly, the 24th of October, the armed forces of Rio de Janeiro decided spontaneously to cooperate with the people and bring about the end of the war.

"With the situation entirely normal, Dr. Getulio Vargas will assume the presidency of the country, and judging by his past, it is possible to assure the entire world that Brazil will have a new era of administrative morality, where order will be the watchword, and peace will be assured."

(Copyright, 1930, by the Associated Press.)

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson said yesterday insufficient information regarding the new administration in Brazil had been received at the State Department to justify the shaping of any policy regarding recognition.

He added the question had not yet been under formal discussion or consideration.

Three Lose Lives In Raid on Store

Merchant Commits Suicide After Shooting Down Two Officers.

Cameron, Tex., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A Texas storekeeper today opened fire on two officers investigating the theft of merchandise from a railroad and during the melee which followed three men lost their lives and a fourth was wounded.

R. B. Brady, the storekeeper, took his own life with a shotgun after slaying J. E. Donman, Temple, Tex., a Santa Fe detective, and Guy Pope, a deputy sheriff. Ray Robinson, deputy city marshal, was wounded in the hand.

Robinson said the merchant greeted the officers with rifle fire when they dismounted from an automobile in front of the store. Brady then killed himself with the approach of Gene Smith, city marshal.

"Gene, I do not want to kill you, but I did not want to be taken by them," Smith said Brady called as he drew near. Then he put down the rifle, picked up a shotgun, placed the muzzle under his chin, and pulled the trigger.

DEATHS OF EIGHT AT SEA REVEALED BY SIX SURVIVORS

its first voyage to the islands Friday night with a small cargo.

"We ran into bad weather after passing Scotland lightship," Capt. Hough said. "Toward morning Saturday it grew worse and things began to look bad.

"Saturday afternoon our steam began to give us trouble. I decided to run her before the gale, with the idea of making the Delaware breakwater.

"By this time the bolts of the boiler began to give way, because the ship was straining herself so. We began to take on water through our seams. Our pumps gave out. The water began mounting in the hold.

"Early Saturday night we sighted a tanker, and we sent up flares, but there was no response. Later still we saw the lights of another ship. We'd exhausted our flares, but we set up cries. She didn't hear us. When I was up to my waist in water I gave orders to abandon ship. But while we were launching our lifeboat the ship abandoned us."

The captain and the other eight jumped and managed to clamber into the lifeboat, which was floating free.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A wireless message picked up at Coast Guard headquarters here today said the schooner Rebecca C. Scott, which left Newport News Monday with a cargo of coal for Hamilton, Bermuda, sank Monday night about 60 miles east of Cape Henry.

Allan R. Hoffman, of Newport News, agent for the ship, said he had been informed by her owners that the crew was saved. Hoffman said the vessel was commanded by Capt. P. L. McCoy, Negro, and that the crew of eight was composed of Negroes.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The schooner Rebecca C. Scott, reported lost off Cape Henry, Va., was owned by L. A. Scott, of Shamrock, Fla.

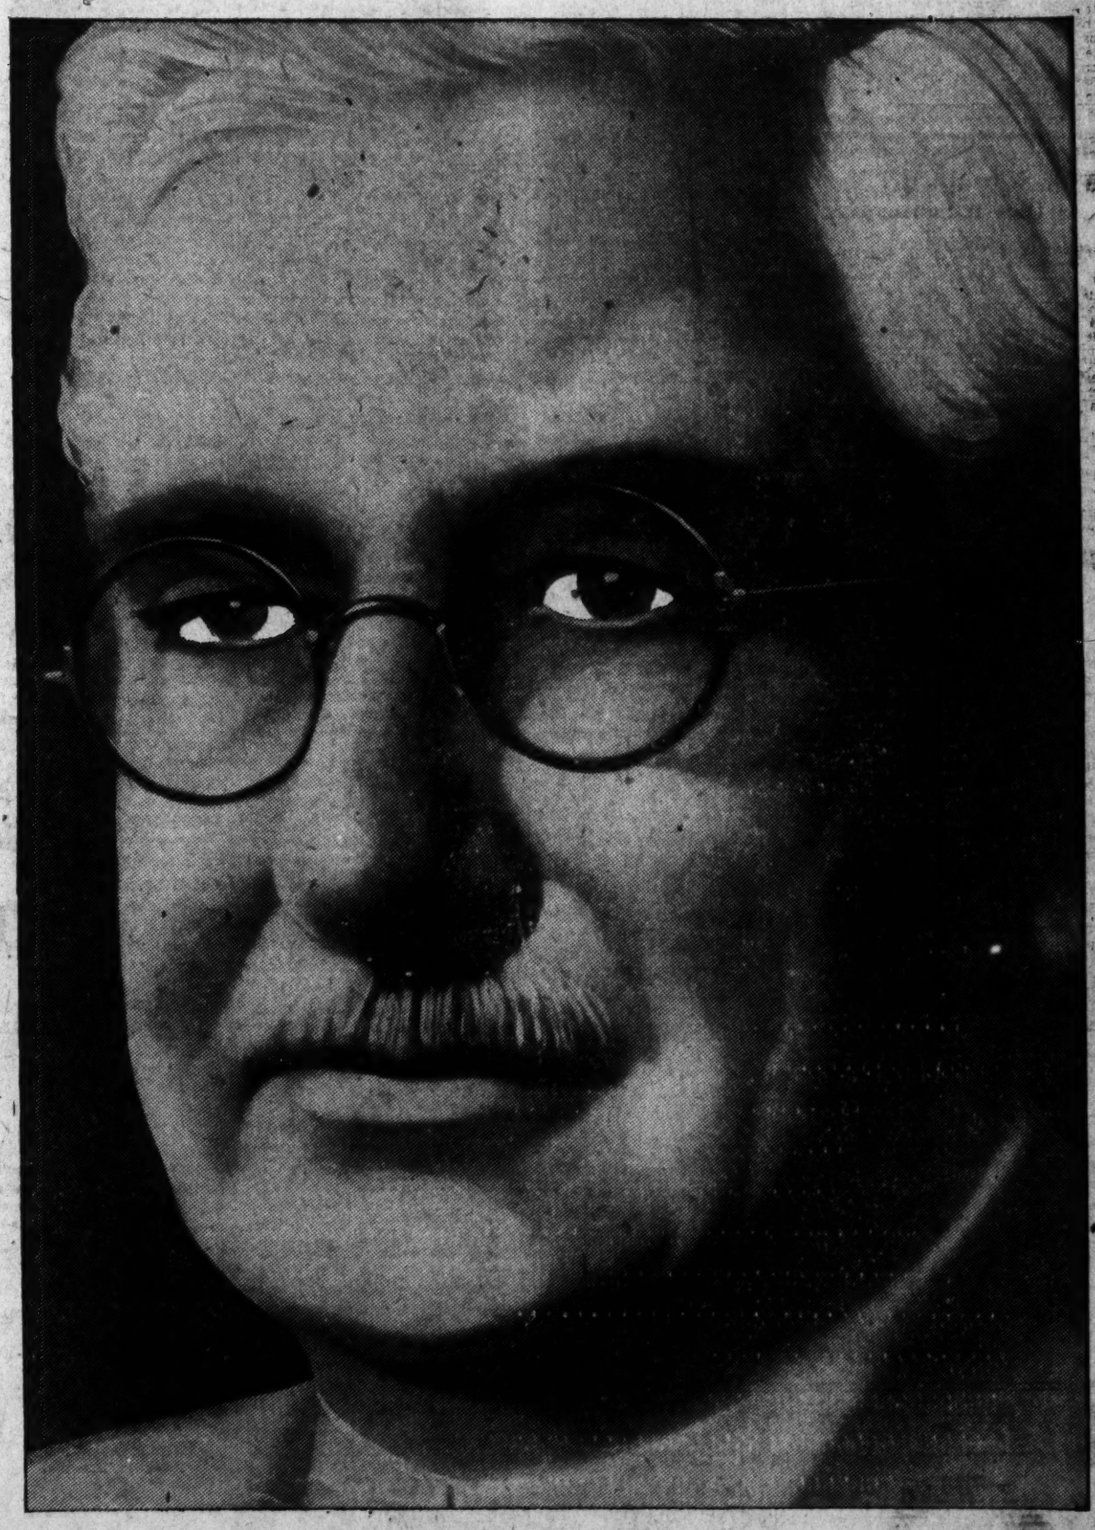
About

LUCKY STRIKE'S

Famous Toasting Process which includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray



"People are eager for products of fine quality—and to satisfy this need every business leader must devote all his time and resourcefulness to developing an even finer quality in his product. You have recognized this great demand by your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos—it is a stroke of modern business genius."

Geo S Parker

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. George S. Parker to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Parker appears on this page.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

SAFEGUARDING AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

The first hearing under the flexible provision of the 1930 tariff act brought forth a protest from the American Wage Earners' Protective Conference. In behalf of this labor organization M. J. Flynn made a plea to have all such hearings before the Tariff Commission stopped on the ground that they tend to unsettle business and contribute to unemployment. No American industry, he said, will make any constructive move while there hangs over that industry the continued threat of more drastic foreign competition.

The wisdom of this protest is open to question. When the tariff was before Congress there was reason for business and industry to be cautious. The Democratic insurgent coalition was making an organized drive against protective duties. But these hearings before the Tariff Commission are quite a different matter. No manufacturer need fear that a flood of foreign competition will be unloosed upon him. The Tariff Commission will decide each issue on the basis of facts. It is the duty of the commission to find out the difference in competitive conditions here and abroad, and to determine what duty is necessary to equalize production costs.

Most of the protests now before the commission came from the Senate coalition. They represent nothing more than the dissatisfaction of the insurgents with the duties written into the 1930 tariff act. Since the commission is instructed by law to apply the flexible provision so as to carry out the general policy of Congress, the danger of any wholesale reduction in duties is negligible. Under any circumstances American producers may rely upon ample protection, based on a scientific study of the facts involved in each case. Nothing more can be asked for.

The case of the straw hat manufacturers, which was first to come before the commission, is a good illustration. Imports increased from 24 per cent of the total demand in 1927 to 48 per cent in 1929, while domestic production fell off. Congress took note of this undue competition and provided a substantial increase in the duty. Whether the rate is too high or not high enough is for the commission to decide. But with the policy of protection prevailing, the commission and President Hoover may be relied upon to maintain a duty that will safeguard the domestic industry.

In a bill containing thousands of rates it is probable that some are higher and others lower than conditions warrant. If a rate is excessive, nothing can be gained by allowing it to remain so. The process of testing rates on this basis ought not to be construed as an attack upon the protective system. The protective policy and the great body of the tariff structure remain secure, and, in spite of Democratic threats, there is little chance that any onslaught against them will succeed. The protest of the Wage Earners' Conference against ironing out any rough spots that may remain in the act is based on unwarranted conclusions and unjustified lack of confidence in the Tariff Commission.

NO DEPRESSION CONFERENCE.

An international consultation among business, industrial and financial leaders is suggested as a means of combating the economic depression. There is considerable speculation in Paris and other European capitals as to the benefits that might be derived from such a conference called by President Hoover. It is pointed out that since the depression is world-wide, international cooperation to deal with it is necessary.

One of the foremost problems this proposed conference would have to deal with is overproduction. Apparently European interests hope to work out an understanding that would limit the output of goods on the world market, thus creating a scarcity to bolster up the demand. Europe's favorite method of holding production in check—the international cartel—has failed during the hard times, and some other method is being sought.

This one suggestion indicates how futile it would be for American and European interests to try to cooperate in a general program for ending the depression. In Europe hard times are being fought by reduction of wages and limitation of output. In America the general policy is to maintain wage scales, in spite of declining prices, so that the buying capacity of the public will not be diminished. Europe is still working on the threadbare theory that economy consists in working men as hard as possible and paying them as little as possible. Mass production under such a system is, of course, impossible. Therefore, the output of European factories must be limited until there is a dawning of new economic light.

The United States is more interested in increasing consumption than in curtailing production. The assumption that more goods are being produced than can be consumed is the greatest economic absurdity of the age. The need is for increased buying power. No important American concern would be willing even to discuss overproduction according to European theories. Europe could make a great contribution to the prosperity of the world by increasing the efficiency and the purchasing capacity of its working classes. But an international conference to curtail overproduction would be a step in the opposite direction.

NEW POSTAL JOBS.

The Postoffice Department will make a notable contribution to the relief of unemployment. During the Christmas mail season work will be given to 224,000 jobless men, which means that $6,720,000 will be released to families in distress. Regulations governing the employment of extra help will be suspended. Jobless men with dependent families will be given preference.

Postmasters have been instructed also to use extra men wherever possible rather than to allow regular employes to work overtime. The tendency will be to divide the total income from postal work among more families, and to relieve much want and suffering. The program will entail a sacrifice on the part of the regular employes, but it is justified by the nature of the emergency.

Private industry may find an excellent suggestion in the Postoffice Department's program. It is both more equitable and more advantageous to the employer to divide work up than to dismiss some employes and work the others harder. Business is better when 1,000 men have $100 than when 100 men have $1,000. Shorter hours and sustained purchasing power encourage stability, while long and hard work for some and unemployment for others give rise to unrest and distress. The movement to distribute jobs among as many families as possible will hasten recovery from the economic depression.

BANKER YOCUM.

Earl Yocum, a banker of Galva, Ill., has returned safely from a ride upon which he was taken by kidnapers. His wife received a communication from them and arranged for his release, presumably paying a ransom of $50,000. She refused to furnish information to the police, and Yocum himself is silent. Apparently he fears that if he should set the law upon his abductors he might be murdered.

What a commentary upon conditions in that section of the United States!

If Banker Yocum should fail to cooperate with the authorities in trying to run down and punish his abductors he would be encouraging crime of a peculiarly dastardly character. It is his duty to furnish immediately all the information at his command, in order that no time may be lost in rooting out a nest of criminals. The American Bankers Association and other organizations ought to be willing to spend any sum necessary to run down these kidnapers.

BRITAIN'S TARIFF TROUBLE.

Discussions at the imperial conference in London have reached a point where an economic agreement between the old country and the dominions seems hopeless. The last straw which broke the back of Lord Beaverbrook's scheme for empire protection was added by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer. Mr. Snowden shuddered at the thought of the curse that might descend upon Britain under a protective system, and washed the hands of the Labor government of all taint that might have been acquired in discussion of the subject.

No doubt Mr. Snowden's eyes were turned westward across the Atlantic when he pronounced his anathema upon protective systems. "Introduction of a tariff system would strike at the purity of the political life of this nation," he cried. "Parliament would become a sink of corruption. Members of Parliament would go there not to represent national interests but pledged to support the selfish interests of particular industries." It may be inferred from these remarks that the chancellor of the exchequer, would rather see England starve than be "corrupted" by the policy that has made America prosperous.

Mr. Snowden's left-handed jab at the United States was meant to cover up the failure of Britain and the dominions to agree on an economic plan of mutual advantage. Of course, the reason for this failure is because the Labor government is afraid to put a duty on foodstuffs, and because the dominions refuse to guarantee a market for British goods unless they are given a preference in the English market for raw materials and agricultural products. No doubt Mr. Snowden considers it a master stroke to pretend that the Labor government rejected the protective idea to keep Britain pure.

It is apparent, however, that he handed his own party a doubtful compliment. If the Labor party is too vulnerable to trust itself with levying tariff duties, the people may find compelling reasons to return a Conservative majority in the election that is believed to be pending. The Conservatives are quite willing to accept the responsibility of protecting British industries. While Mr. Snowden looks across the Atlantic with his "holier than thou" attitude his party may be replaced by men who have the courage and vision to keep the British Empire together by the only method that will accomplish that end—the consummation of a tariff agreement with the dominions.

BETTER POPULAR HEALTH.

Evidence that the American people are becoming more healthy is embodied in statistics on mortality collected and made public by the Department of Commerce. In 1929, among 95.7 per cent of the total population of the United States, there was a total of 1,386,363 deaths, corresponding to a rate of 11.9 per 1,000 population as compared with 12.1 in 1928. The death rate from all causes per 100,000 population decreased from 1,207.1 in 1928 to 1,192.3 in 1929. This net decrease was almost entirely balanced by increases in deaths from influenza (from 45.3 to 55.5), diseases of the heart (208.3 to 210.9), and meningitis (2.6 to 4.5). Deaths from these diseases alone caused 21.2 per cent of all deaths in 1928, and 22.7 in 1929.

The rapid strides that have been made in the treatment of such diseases as pneumonia, typhoid and paratyphoid fever, diphtheria and others, together with the increased emphasis that is now placed on preventive medicine, was reflected in 1929 by decreased death rates. It is gratifying to note that the tuberculosis death rate decreased in the year from 79.4 to 76 and that deaths from cancer were decreased by 0.1 per 100,000 population. On the other hand, largely due to a 3.5 per 100,000 population increase in deaths from automobile accidents, deaths from accidental and unspecified external causes increased from 79.4 to 80.9 per 100,000 population.

The trends indicated in the comparison between 1928 and 1929 probably will continue to manifest themselves this year. There will be increases in deaths from accidental causes; there will be decreases in deaths caused by diseases of which science has gained positive knowledge, or for the treatment of which satisfactory empirical methods have been evolved; while the death rate from such diseases as influenza, of which medicine has little positive knowledge, will depend upon natural conditions. The drought may result in increases in the death rates from certain diseases of the respiratory tract. If this turns out to be a hard winter it is almost inevitable that it will be reflected in the mortality statistics. But the trend toward better health and greater longevity will continue. The war against death and disease is making steady progress.

BRITAIN IN PALESTINE

By JACOB DE HAAS,
In a Letter to the New York Times.

I spent the winter of 1924-25 in Palestine, and though I am a Zionist, I endeavored to study the country, its problems and administration as objectively as possible. I moved freely among the Arabs, met many of them and felt that, on the whole, while there were naturally many difficulties to overcome, none of them were insurmountable. On the other hand, I did find that the Palestine administration was endeavoring to bring Palestine within the framework of the British crown colony system. Convinced that the mandatory system was evolved to establish an entirely different concept of government, I devoted some attention to this matter, and did not hesitate to discuss my observations both with the high commissioner, then Sir Herbert Samuel, and the attorney general, Norman Bentwich.

Investigation proved to me that my surmise as to the organic source of the prevailing difficulties was correct. It was admitted as a fact, by high officials, that the administration was not only being directed from London and that even comparatively trivial local and municipal questions were being referred to London—such as Jerusalem building ordinances—but that as a matter of recorded fact the crown colony code as prescribed by the colonial office was the law of the land.

Since that time I have urged that the mandate for Palestine be taken out of the colonial office and operated by the foreign office—that is, by men who by training can appreciate that they represent a foreign interest in Palestine and are not its masters or prospective owners. The Simpson report and the government's White Paper, just issued, make abundantly clear, even in the summaries published, that the colonial office spirit permeates these documents, and that spirit, which can no longer exercise itself in the dominions, is the narrow and harsh crown colony attitude dealing with "natives."

American Jews have invested $30,000,000 of capital, and, as some hundreds have done, made their homes in Palestine, not for the purpose of aiding even in the remotest way in the creation of another and additional British crown colony. If Jews desired to aid in the establishment or furtherance of the British crown colony system, other lands, nearer to these shores, are far more attractive from the purely economic viewpoint.

This situation is the more disheartening because the proposed plans of government and of administration in Palestine constitute a very real breach of faith to the Jewish people. There can be no question that in issuing the Balfour declaration and in soliciting the mandate, and in urging that the mandate contain the special terms of reference that constitute the particular reason for British presence in Palestine, the British government, and the colonial office officials in particular, were thoroughly informed of the nature of the difficulties involved in the fulfillment of the promise expressed in "Jewish National Home."

British military and civil engineers have been in Palestine since 1858. The British studies of Palestinian conditions are the most elaborate in existence. Observations by British officials of all the phases of the Zionist movement since 1900 have been painstaking in their details. The document made public recently as to the development of the various phases of the British attitude during the war demonstrates that the issuance of the Balfour declaration was a very conscious and carefully thought out and slowly developed act. As one of the parties to the writing of the text of the declaration in its final form, I know that British officialdom in 1917 and 1919 clearly recognized the implications of the phrase "Jewish National Home," and foresaw many of the difficulties.

To yield to Lord Passfield at this moment would be not only to ruin the Jewish cause but also to injure the Arab rights, whatever these may be, and to abolish the whole theory of mandatory administration, thus destroying that high ideal in political government which was conceived when the League of Nations was made trustee for the lesser peoples.

WHAT IS IT?

What this country needs is a satisfactory definition of small-scale golf, says the New York Times. It should have a name of its own. It has been variously called miniature golf, "Tom Thumb" golf, pony golf. Variety has hit it off as the "golfies." Some authority—the Oxford dictionary or the Encyclopedia Britannica or Bobby Jones—should be requested to settle the matter once and for all.

Then there is the question of how the golfies should rank as sport. In some places they are operated on Sunday afternoons until 6 o'clock, rating as Sunday baseball, while not far off they are classed as amusement and keep open until 11 at night.

Property owners who do not wish to have baby golf links built in their neighborhood are all for interpreting zoning laws to that end.

Whatever it is, one thing is certain—miniature golf is not golf. Supreme Court Justice Witschief has so ruled. But if miniature golf is not golf, what is it?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

TELLING BOBBY JONES SOMETHING.

Bobby Jones says he wants to play golf for fun and take an occasional six or seven without worrying.

Oh, master golfer that you are,
Forever shooting holes in par,
You're in a dreadful fix.
You think it would be fun once more
To disregard the total score
And sometimes take a "six."

But you've forgotten, Bobby Jones,
How dolefully the duffer groans,
And oft is heard to swear,
He thinks his life supremely hard
Because upon the medal card
That "six" is always there.

That friendly match you sigh to know
Is filled with misery and woe
A few good holes can't leaven;
For every duffer plods his way,
And knows before he ends the day
Somewhere he'll take a seven.

Oh, take it from a duffer who
Has freedom golf denies to you,
And with the gang may mix,
No golfer underneath the sun
Believes he's having any fun
When piling up a six.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ANXIOUS parents, unable to control or guide sons and daughters who are no longer children, often appeal to writing men for advice.

Their faith seldom is rewarded, for advice given at such long range must consist of generalities and platitudes that may be found in a thousand books, and the wisdom of Solomon himself could not avail to reshape a pot spoiled by the potter.

The appeal of the parents is fifteen years too late.

There is only one way to train a child.

There is only one method by which parents can teach courage, patience, kindness, frankness, honesty, truthfulness, courtesy, good manners and faith in God, and that is by providing the right example.

Make no mistake about it. Let the child psychologists and the child-training experts say what they will, all human experience establishes the truth that a child builds character and acquires virtue by absorption and in no other way.

You can teach a child rules of conduct as you teach it the multiplication table; you can teach it to obey the rules under threat of punishment. But obedience prompted by fear or discretion is no indication of virtue or sound character.

It is the desire to do right that makes character. It is a preference for decency that makes virtue. It is a feeling of kindness that makes courtesy. And desires, preferences and feelings are not developed by threat of punishment.

The world is learning that adults can not be made religious or righteous by means of laws. It must learn, also, that children can not be transformed into fine men and women by means of rules and punishments.

Rules are necessary; discipline is necessary. Only by such means can a child be prepared to live in an organized society where each must respect the rights of all.

But a man can obey all laws and still be a coward, a liar, a sneak, a bully. The mere letter of the law is not enough. Lip service is not enough.

It is the spirit of righteousness that matters. It is love for decency that makes a gentleman. It is feeling, not form, that makes character.

And these things are not taught. The child must acquire them as it acquires the fear of snakes—by watching its parents.

The way to make a child be what you want it to be is to be what you want it to be.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Borah and the Reds.

Atlanta Constitution.

Recalling some of his past utterances of tolerance for the Russian Soviet regime a great part of the American people will, nevertheless, be somewhat surprised at Senator Borah's latest declaration in favor of the unqualified recognition of the bolshevik government by our government.

He says bravely, "I am not afraid of communist propaganda," but the mass of the American people are afraid of it. They have had too recent experiences with the results of that propaganda in Massachusetts, in New York, in New Jersey and in North and South Carolina.

Senator Borah may profess his faith that Russia, "in pursuing her present policy, will work out something in the nature of a sane democracy," but no such faith is vocal among the morally and mentally balanced majority of American republican democrats. They see no "sane democracy" in the iconoclasm that wrecks religion and penalizes worship of the Great Father of Mankind. Senator Borah should know that the Christian people of his democratic country, believing in and practicing religious freedom, will never consent to associate their government with one that sanctions the burning of an effigy of the Christ in the public square of its capital city.

Applejack Helps Education.

Dry agents went down to South River, raided what they thought was a still, and grabbed off 1,000 gallons of New Jersey applejack. What real applejack was doing in anything that even looked like a still we do not know, and why anybody should call New Jersey applejack an intoxicant we can not understand. New Jersey applejack is not a drink, anyway; it is an institution. People do drink it, but not for the purpose of getting intoxicated. They drink it mostly as an aid to conversation. There is no alcohol in real Jersey applejack, but there are plenty of words, made up into rather brilliant sentences, in it. It is used in this State largely for educational purposes.

Republicans Concede Losses.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Sweeping changes of political sentiment and election prospects in this country are not new to its history. Both parties, after winning presidential victories, have suffered severe setbaks in congressional elections next following those triumphs. The swing-away from the Republicans this year—which had its beginning not many months after the Hoover landslide, so called, of 1928—is set, however, in a class by itself by the frank admissions from Republican newspapers and leaders, well in advance of the election, that their party is in for a drubbing. In the past partisan campaigners usually maintained a bold front and persisted in claiming victory up to the very last minute. There have been occasional individual exceptions going to prove this general rule; but this year the exceptions are grown so numerous in the Republican camp that the rule is reversed or broken.

Milwaukee Journal.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Attention, Senator Pat—A Few Facts From a Former Victim of Democratic Tariffs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If there be such a thing as extravagance of statement in a political campaign, no one need enter the contest for first place against Senator Harrison, of "Missippi" (common pronounciation). He claims that the tariff act of 1930 is largely responsible for the present business depression and insists that had the party in power listened to the wisdom of the minority and produced a "relief measure," the country would have been saved.

If Senator Harrison will consult congressional history he can easily find why Democratic wisdom was not invoked. In 1857 some amendments to earlier laws were made, to improve deplorable conditions, but even then an empty Treasury faced Mr. Lincoln in '61, and the Secretary of the Treasury was empowered to make a loan of $10,000,000 to provide for running expenses. The Republicans provided a tariff for protection and the Nation emerged from the war period with a rehabilitated dollar and growing industries, which is another name for a growing market.

When the Democratic Wilson bill became a law, mills shut down and cheap wool from abroad drove American flocks to the shambles. A bit of verse describes the situation:

Mary had a little lamb, she loved it every minute.
She washed it in the springtime and sheared the wool to spin it;
But Grover took the tariff off, and then she had to skin it.

Owning a flock of sheep at that time, the writer "had to skin it," and as there was no market for mutton, the carcasses were buried or burned and the skin sold for $1.20, when a fleece worth $4.50 to $7.00 had been clipped from it on a protection tariff. That is a fair sample of Democratic wisdom on tariff matters.

The McKinley law put us on our feet again, but the Mills law came along and the flocks were dispersed. In 1897 Mr. McKinley's special Congress gave us the Dingley tariff, and the "full dinner pail" was once more in service, and in spite of the objections of minority wisdom.

As soon as it had a chance to operate, however, the Underwood law destroyed our markets, closed our factories and spread dismay broadcast. Then came the war, and the Democrats, even yet, have the effrontery to claim as "prosperity" the inflation brought upon us, and was only dissipated by the return of the Republican party, which gave us a law in 1921 that resulted in such prosperity as no nation has ever enjoyed. The alarming depression of 1919, '20 and '21, which greeted the Harding administration was effectively overthrown by a Republican majority that was unhampered by Democratic wisdom, or renegade partisans.

In view of these facts, why should a minority opinion on tariff matters be sought by the administration? The present law may not be perfect; few laws are. But given time to operate there is every reason to believe that it will prove helpful, especially to agriculture.

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

Parents to Blame if Young Hoodlums Destroy Property on Halloween.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every Halloween hoodlums visit different neighborhoods and destroy private and public property. Though all police details are increased on this night each year, the law can not cope with the elusive young ruffians.

Why do these youngsters enjoy wrecking valuable property? It all goes back to the parents. Children who have been properly raised will not spend Halloween destroying property. There are many good ways to celebrate this occasion; as, for instance, getting into costume and parading the streets, holding parties for the children where they duck for apples, play games and have a hilarious time in general.

Parents should give their children sound advice regarding the destruction and marring of public and private property and make it clear to the youngsters that there are ways of spending an enjoyable evening without causing trouble and grief to the neighbors. ALFRED SANDBOY.

Veteran Wants Relief Right Now, Not Twenty Years Hence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is exceedingly encouraging to hear from you in your way of expressing your approval and voicing the opinion of hundreds of thousands of veterans who are holding Government certificates due 20 years after date or as soon as poverty or some other misfortune commands the cessation of respiration. Payment of these certificates would be appreciated most now. Thousands of us with families are facing a crisis. Talk and promises are not going to remedy conditions.

We need money. To get these certificates cashed would be honorable, clean money—money that we would be justly entitled to, and would help things in general.

I hope that you will continue to use the prestige of your powerful paper to help remedy conditions that are growing worse daily.

FORMOSA SAVAGES ATTACK JAPANESE

FEARS HELD FOR OTHERS

Tokyo, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Reports to the war office tonight indicated Formosa savages, who went on the warpath Monday killing scores of men, women and children, were concentrating heavily eastward of the village of Musha.

The tribesmen evacuated Musha today without fighting, leaving behind many mutilated bodies. A dispatch from Taihoku, Formosa, said 86 bodies, including 38 children, were found in the ruins of Musha.

Fears that scores of other Japanese in isolated police stations and small settlements north and east of Musha had met a similar fate were expressed in official and newspaper dispatches from Taihoku. Effective search for them must await further military advance into the savages' territory in mountainous interior.

308 Persons Injured.

Tonight's reports also mentioned 308 persons injured, but it was not clear whether these injuries were suffered in the first savage attack Monday or in later clashes.

Facing despertae aborigines, many of whom possessed modern weapons seized when police stations were wiped out, the Japanese force of 300 policemen, which occupied Musha, today awaited infantry reinforcements for fierce fighting believed to be imminent, as the savages were within 500 yards of the Japanese lines.

Fifty-seven Japanese escaped the Musha massacre, some fleeing and some hiding.

Motives for the uprising were still obscure, although fundamentally it was another case of primitive man losing in desperate resistance to the steady pressure of civilized exploitation.

Power Project Blamed.

Despite semidenials, the theory seemed likely the revolt was caused by an electric power project at Lake Jitsugetsutan, since it transpired the savages had been told they must vacate tribal lands.

Construction of a dam at the lake would flood a large area belonging to the tribemen. Negotiations with the J. P. Morgan Co., of New York, for a loan of $27,500,000 were said to be proceeding in behalf of the semi-official Formosa Electric Power Co.

As further reasons, Tokyo newspapers asserted there was trouble between Japanese and aborigines over the latter's women, and there were instances of Japanese officials running afoul of ancient savage customs.

Decree Injures Packers, Armour Chief Declares

Change in Conditions Calls for Broader Outlet, White Maintains.

A comprehensive view of the packing industry was given yesterday in the District of Columbia Supreme Court when F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., testified on behalf of his firm which, with Swift & Co., is seeking modification of the packers' consent decree, entered into in 1920.

Mr. White depicted the packing business as now constituted, also as it has been during his 40 years in the industry. He explained the situation which led to signing of the decree and told of the changes in merchandising conditions which have arisen during the last decade.

He recounted how the business had been built on the theory producers of live stock must be furnished a daily cash market and questioned whether any other group of producers have the same opportunity to sell that live stock producers enjoy. He pointed out the inability to control shipments of live stock and declared that the packing industry must be equipped to handle peak loads when they come, whether regularly or irregularly. He stressed that the larger packers are best equipped to handle the supply when the market is flooded, and declared efficiency in this connection is handicapped by the restrictions of the consent decree.

Mr. White told how the Food Administration had absorbed at least 65 per cent of the output of the big packers and pointed out that to keep distributive organizations in the United States profitably employed the packers had begun handling goods other than meats.

After the armistice, Mr. White declared, the big packers had believed they would have their distributive systems full in handling exports of meat products and had agreed to divorce themselves from the handling of other foodstuffs. He then went into the manner in which merchandising conditions since had changed.

In asking modification of the decree, the packers seek to handle other food products, also to engage in retail trade.

Lawyers in Cuba Hit Embassy Here

Resent Statement Island Divorce Courts Are Not Open to Americans.

The denial by Dr. Jose T. Baron, charge d'affaires of the Cuban Embassy here, that Americans may avail themselves of the liberal divorce laws recently enacted by the legislature of the island republic has brought vigorous attack on the embassy here by members of the Cuban Bar Association, according to reports from Havana.

The possibility that Cuba may become the mecca of divorce seekers from the United States would seem enhanced by articles of the Cuban constitution and organic law which state that such action by foreigners is permissible, according to the lawyers. They declare that interpretation of the republic's law is beyond the scope of the duties of the diplomatic corps.

Dr. Mario Font, a prominent Havana attorney, who is leading the fight to throw open to Americans the legal resources of his country, is reported to have obtained more than a dozen decrees for American citizens.

Inquiry Discounts Alleged Lynching

Georgia State Prosecutor Calls Man Murdered by Two or Three.

Atlanta, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Hardman has been informed by Joseph T. Grice, solicitor general of the Atlanta Superior Circuit, that George Grant, Negro, was not lynched in Darien Jail on September 8, "but was murdered by two or three men."

His death resulted from, "divided responsibility," between civil and military authorities, Mr. Grice told the governor, and suggested the manner in which troops were called for service at Darien was not according to law.

Mr. Grice investigated the slaying of Grant, and his report was made public late today without comment from Gov. Hardman. Adj. Gen. Homer C. Parker said he had investigated the affair, as it affected the military. Grant was killed in his cell while National Guard troops were on duty at Darien, under order of Gov. Hardman.

CHINESE, RUSSIANS CLASH AT RAILWAY

EXTRA PATROLS ORDERED

Shanghai, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The breakdown of negotiations at Moscow for settlement of the dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway has resulted in armed demonstrations by China and Russia along the Manchurian-Siberian border.

These were similar to demonstrations which caused fighting and invasion of Manchuria by Russian soldiers in November and December last year, Chinese press dispatches from Harbin said.

Two battalions of infantry and one of artillery were reported ordered by Manchuria to patrol the Siberian border near Manchuli, northwestern Manchuria.

The movement was said to have been ordered because "for several days Soviet troops with bombing airplanes have been demonstrating and new barracks are being erected in border towns."

Russian Demands Refused.

Chinese envoys were said to have refused demands of Russia for observance of the Khabarovsk protocol of last December for joint management of the Chinese Eastern Railway across Manchuria by Russia and China, and to be about to depart from Moscow.

Forced to yield at Khabarovsk to Russian terms after Soviet troops had occupied several Manchurian border towns, the Chinese delegate, Tsai Yun-Shang, signed the preliminary agreement. Later this was repudiated by Chinese Nationalist officials, who asserted Tsai had exceeded his authority.

The denounced agreement provided Russian officials and railway employes be restored to positions from which they were ousted by Chinese troops in July, 1929. China had charged the Russians with using their positions to flood China with Soviet propaganda.

Communists Are Defeated.

Under the protocol, Chinese were reported on the railway board of management, but Russians virtually controlled the road which was a short cut across Manchuria from the Russian trans-Siberian Railway to Vladivostok, Soviet port on the Japanese Sea.

(Associated Press.)

Chinese government successes in the field against Communist forces, which have recently seriously menaced American lives and property, were reported to the State Department last night by American Consul General Frank P. Lockhart, at Hankow.

Mr. Lockhart's message said that it was definitely established that Tungkwan, Honan Province, was occupied October 25 by Nationalist forces with considerable movement of troops down the Yangtze River from Hankow. Twelve Communists were executed Tuesday, he said, at Wuchang, across the river from Hankow.

100 to Go in Final Navy Yard Slash

Cut on November 22 Will End Reduction of Personnel.

Dismissal of approximately 100 more navy yard employes in the next few months is expected to bring to an end the personnel reduction which followed curtailed cruiser orders last spring, according to navy yard officials.

Twenty-nine machinists and helpers now at work in erecting shops are the first slated to go. They will be laid off on November 22, Capt. P. W. Foote, assistant to the commandant, announced yesterday. Other discharges to follow are to be announced at a later date, he said.

Records at the navy yard show that 740 men lost their jobs from April 30 to October 20, Capt. Foote said. On the latter date there were 4,087 men employed at the yard. He predicted that conclusion of the employment reduction program will mark a return to stability on the new basis.

Picturesque? Yes, but not practical.

It is difficult for us today to realize that for years clothes were washed in cold river waters. In place of hot steaming water a good stout club was used to beat the dirt out of the linen.

And clothes took some beating, too. It was all very picturesque but not very practical.

Hot water, and lots of it, has put an end to this ancient method of cleaning clothes. Not only is laundering a much simpler process with hot water but clothes last longer.

Of course there are many other uses to which hot water can be put. Every home should be equipped with a Self-Action Water Heater which will supply instant hot water at the turn of a tap.

Turkish Envoy Host in Honor Of His Country

Mr. Muhtar and Daughter Receive at Fete in Embassy.

THE Turkish Ambassador, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar, entertained at one of the first official receptions of the season yesterday afternoon at the embassy on Massachusetts avenue in celebration of the proclamation of the Turkish Republic. Ranking Government officials, members of the Diplomatic Corps and smart resident society crowded the great drawing rooms where the ambassador was assisted in receiving by his daughter, Mrs. Enver, who was hostess for the first time at a large reception here.

The reception rooms of the embassy recently completed, were thrown open for the first time and formed a charming setting for the throngs of guests there to do honor to the envoy of Turkey and to his country. The new rooms were created from the old chancery offices, which have been moved to the Hay-Adams House.

In the gold tapestried drawing room where the Ambassador and Mrs. Enver received were large bowls of roses and carnations as lovely as the masses of white chrysanthemums combined with autumn foliage which decorated the adjoining reception rooms. Palms and great vases of the chrysanthemums made a background of beauty in the hall.

Washington society turned out in great numbers to join in the celebration of the occasion and to do honor to the "Savior of Nations," as the countries of Asia Minor call the President of Turkey, Gazi Mustafa Kemal.

The party was one of the gayest of the season, the guests lingering to chat around the great table in the dining room where were refreshments, or going on to the large rooms on the second floor to mingle with other friendly groups. An orchestra played favorite Turkish and American airs throughout the afternoon.

Among the guests were glimpsed the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel; the Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay; the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, the Minister of Greece, Mr. Charalambos Simopoulos; the Minister of Norway, Mr. Halvard H. Bachke; the Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite; Princess de Ligne and her daughter, Princess Elizabeth de Ligne; Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

Also Mr. Ronald Ian Campbell, counselor of the British Embassy; Mr. Charles H. March, Federal trade commissioner, and Mrs. March; the Commercial Counselor of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Witold Wankowicz; Senor Don George de la Barra, First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation; Mr. Eugene Kevin Scallan, Secretary of the South African Legation; Col. Campbell B. Hodges, Maj. John M. Eager, Mr. Leo S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Union; Capt. Gust Van Lennep, Mr. Herbert C. Hengstler and Mr. Richard W. Flournoy, jr., of the State Department.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mr. W. B. Kent, former consul at Dresden, and Mrs. Kent; the former consul at Leeds, England, Mr. Ingram; Mrs. Sidney A. Cloman, Mrs. Wilson Pritchett, Miss Peggy Burch, Mrs. Peter A. Drury, Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney, Mrs. Sidney Talaferro, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake, Judge and Mrs. Oscar Bland, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wallace, Mrs. Edgar J. Orme, Mrs. Mark Reid Yates, Mrs. Alan E. Reeside, and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Healy.

Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, has received announcement of the marriage of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Katherine Adams McCain, to Col. Geoffrey Francis Evans Wardell, of London and Beaconsfield, England, which took place at the home of Sir Francis and Lady Wullie in Oxford, England, on October 25.

Col. Wardell and his bride will live in London this winter.

Mrs. Wardell is a member of a widely known family in Arkansas. She is the daughter of Capt. Samuel B. Adams and granddaughter of Maj. John D. Adams and great-granddaughter of Gov. Samuel Adams. Her son, Mr. Samuel A. McCain, of New York, recently was graduated from Oxford. Col. Wardell was an officer in the British army for many years.

Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, wife of Senator Keyes, of New Hampshire, left yesterday to visit her home and will remain until after the elections.

The Financial Attache of the French Embassy, Mr. Emmanuel Monick, of New York, is a guest at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Walter Lineberger Visits Her Daughter.

Mrs. Walter F. Lineberger, wife of former Representative Lineberger, of California, has gone to Massachusetts to visit her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lineberger, who is at Wellesley College, and her son, Mr. Walter Lineberger, jr., who is at Phillips Academy, Andover. Mrs. Lineberger has just returned from California, where the family spent the summer.

Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich left Washington yesterday for Providence, R. I., to be there until after election.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Joerissen, who arrived in the United States last week on the Ile de France, have taken an apartment at the Hay-Adams for the winter. They returned from Paris, where they have been living intermittently for some years, for the benefit of Mr. Joerissen's health. He is now at Garfield Hospital for treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Joerissen gave up their Massachusetts avenue home last year, leasing it to Sir Charles Ross for a term of years.

Mr. Samuel Crowther, of Bayside, N. Y., is at the Willard, where he will be for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Return to Capital.

The former Attorney General, Mr. A. Mitchell Palmer, and Mrs. Palmer returned yesterday from Virginia Hot Springs, where they have been for several days, to remain in town until the first of the year when they will go to Florida.

Mr. Woods Resigns Pennsylvania Post.

Mr. Cyrus E. Woods, former Ambassador to Spain and Japan, and Minister to Portugal, has resigned as attorney general of Pennsylvania and will return to private life. He will be succeeded by Mr. William A. Schnader, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Woods accepted the appointment as attorney general after his nomination to the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Coolidge failed of approval by the Senate.

Hines-Wall Wedding Is Solemnized

The wedding of Miss Frances Winthrop Wall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Stiles Wall, and Mr. Frank Thomas Hines, jr., son of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veteran affairs, and Mrs. Hines, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents on Wyoming avenue at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, D. D., and was followed by a small reception for the bridal party and intimate friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore an ivory white satin gown trimmed with duchesse lace. Her veil was of old lace over tulle, held by a circlet of pearls forming a cap. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Perdue Ruden was maid of honor and Miss Mary Bennington Shinn and Miss Clara Bolling were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of pastel shades, with large hats in darker tones, and carried bouquets of roses.

Mr. Harry Fowler was best man and ushers were Mr. Paul Lutes and Mr. Louis Peak.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hines will live in Washington.

The Minister of Bolivia, Senor Don Eduardo Diez de Medina, will speak in the Conclave of Nations program on the radio on Sunday from 1:30 until 2 o'clock. The minister will be introduced by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director of the Pan American Union. The Bolivian national hymn and other native music will be played.

Mrs. Allan Dougherty Is Hostess at Dinner in Capital.

Miss Helen Lee Eames Doherty, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, of New York, who will make her debut in Washington at a large ball to be given on December 26 at the Mayflower, was the guest of honor at a dinner given last evening by Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, preceding the debutante ball.

Mrs. Dougherty's guests were Miss Laura Tuckerman, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Carter Bowie, Miss Loranda Prochnik, Miss Margery Sperry, of New York, who accompanied Miss Doherty to Washington; also Miss Katharine Phillips, Miss Engracia Freyer, Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman, Miss Marguerite Wright, Miss Alice de Peyster, of New York, and Miss Edith Blair Gaines, of Georgia.

Also Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Counselor of the Legation of the Netherlands; Senor Don Ramon Padilla, Second Secretary of the Spanish Embassy; Mr. Daniel Thew Wright, Mr. W. Waverly Taylor, jr., Mr. Kenneth Watson, Mr. Rodney Fiske, Mr. William Laird Dunlop 3d, Mr. Paul Lootes, Mr. John Diebert, Mr. Donald Kohler, Mr. Hugh Hutchinson and Mr. Sheridan Biays.

Mrs. Frederick Coudert Bellinger and her small son, Frederick, jr., who have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William LaVarre, have returned to thir home in New York.

Miss Creque Is Wed To Capt. Wagner.

At high noon yesterday in Bethlehem Chapel, in Washington Cathedral, Miss Dorothy Kinsey Creque, daughter of Mrs. Alice V. Creque and the late George E. Creque, became the bride of Capt. Herman Uth Wagner, U. S. A., son of Mr. George H. Wagner, of Philadelphia.

The Rev. G. Freeland Peters officiated at the ceremony, which was attended by the immediate families and a few close friends. Yellow chrysanthemums formed the background for the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, was attired in a gown of wine-colored chiffon velvet fashioned on long lines, with hat and slippers to match and carried a bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. Miss Viola Virginia Creque, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of golden brown chiffon and carried a bouquet of rust chrysanthemums. The mother of the bride wore a gown of black chiffon and lace.

Capt. Walter C. Hamilton, of Philadelphia, was the bridegroom's best man. The bride is a former resident of Martinsburg, W. Va., and is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School of that city. The bridegroom is a graduate of West Point Military Academy, class of 1918.

The bride's traveling costume was of dark brown crepe. After a trip through the North, Capt. Wagner and his bride will reside in Philadelphia, where he is stationed at Frankford Arsenal.

Mrs. James E. Countess Matuschka And Mr. Hyde to Wed.

An engagement of international interest which has been announced in Paris is that of the Countess Ella Matuschka to Mr. James Hazen Hyde, of New York and Paris.

Countess Matuschka was the former Miss Ella Walker, daughter of Mr. Franklin H. Walker, of Detroit. Her marriage to Count Manfred Matuschka, of Silesia, Germany, an officer in the former Kaiser's bodyguard, was ended by divorce.

Mr. Hyde is the son of the late Henry Baldwin Hyde, founder, and for many years president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. He became vice president after his father's death, but resigned his position in 1905 and since then has lived in France. In November, 1928, the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest decoration of that organization, was awarded Mr. Hyde for his many philanthropic works in France and for his interest in the French language.

Mr. Hyde's marriage to the Countess de Gontaut-Biron, widow of the Count Louis de Gontaut-Biron, and daughter of the late John G. A. Leishman, who was American Ambassador to Berlin, was ended by divorce in Paris.

NEW SHOREHAM HOTEL

On this, Your Formal Opening

YOU have selected the section of the Nation's Capital that is preferred by increasing numbers of discriminating people. The wisdom of your choice has been demonstrated in our own experience.

Two hundred and eighty-six new residents have joined the Wardman Park colony during the past year, and more than ten thousand new guests have signed our registers. The popularity of this section is growing rapidly. There is a definite trend in this direction.

"Ten minutes from the White House" and yet sufficiently removed to escape the noise and confusion of the congested areas, this locality offers the ideal situation for progressive people who appreciate the importance of living in the most comfortable and attractive environment.

We welcome you as neighbors, and extend our best wishes for your success.

New Mattresses for Old Ones

A mattress that cushions every curve—that croons taut nerves to sleep—is what women now insist upon.

They have discovered that mattresses will in time flatten and become no longer exquisitely soft and sleep-provoking. Thousands of them now send their mattresses here at regular intervals to be made into new ones.

The work is done in one day—the cost, only $4 to $9. Many also send us their box springs and pillows, which we renovate at surprisingly low cost.

We specialize in beds and bedding that make for restful sleep. Simmons beds, wooden beds, springs, mattresses. Zaban box springs and mattresses made to order at factory prices. Pillows and nursery equipment.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

HALLOWEEN really means something to the knights and ladies of the microphone and there will be much crossing of fingers and knocking on wood when artists take their posts tomorrow night. Probably the outstanding radio superstitions are connected with musical numbers believed to be forerunners of bad luck when played or sung.

Mayhew Lake, band leader, will never play "Asa's Death," from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite. It is impossible to persuade Vincent Sorey to play Schubert's "Serenade." Sorey heard this number the night he parted from his fiancee years ago in Italy. Since then it has been taboo with him.

Emery Deutsch finds that "Ye Who Have Yearned Alone," fills him with unexplainable fear.

"The Volga Boatman" is never played by Claude MacArthur, who says that it portrays too much misery and suffering to bring anything but ill luck. As with many superstitious theatrical folk, who will not tolerate whistling in the dressing rooms or back-stage, MacArthur bans whistling in the radio studios.

To the Crockett Mountaineers the playing of "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt" is a forewarning of an impending disaster.

IN anticipation of nailing eleventh hour canards, political candidates in all sections of the country are buying time on radio stations for election day eve so that they may be in a position to reply to any attacks or whispering campaigns.

Here's hoping the Press Club steward who invited the Prince of Wales, when at the club, to have a little snifter (with the prince accepting), is listening in to his old friend this afternoon. (WRC-WMAL, 4:45.)

Also that Lew Fields will not forget himself when broadcasting in the Schwartz Radio Follies tomorrow night and grab little Joe Weber by the front of the collar, a Weber-Fields choking practice which was in vogue long before anybody ever thought of adapting custard pie to comedy.

SIGNALS from Arlington are regularly heard by the Naval Radio Station at Peiping in China.

Apropos Pittsburgh's naming its newest street after its famous broadcasting station, a New York editor inquires:

"If KDKA boulevard, why not BVD alley?"

Brass instruments must be kept "hot" while they are not being used during a broadcast or they contract and become "sharp;" that is, get one-half note out of tune. Since the studios are usually kept fairly cool, musicians blow through their horns continually to preserve the tone.

Billie Burke, native Washingtonian, who received her first name because they expected her to be a boy, is to tell what she thinks of her husband (WJZ, 10:30 p. m.).

THE dispute over the rights to "Arabesque," formerly written and presented by Yolande Langworthy over the C. B. S. has been carried to the Supreme Court of New York.

Miss Langworthy created this broadcast several years ago and it was heard through Columbia stations as a sustaining feature.

Last summer an offer for "Arabesque" was made the C. B. S. by a commercial firm, which was turned down. Miss Langworthy declared she had rights in the matter, that she had worked hard to build up the program and that if it had commercial possibilities she should have been considered before the refusal was made. As a result of this decision she severed her relations with the C. B. S.

Instead of dropping the feature the broadcasting company assembled another cast of characters, found another continuity writer and continued it, using Miss Langworthy's basic idea of the serial, comprising a play within a play.

There are announcers on the networks in New York, retained for their good voices, who are so nervous that a second announcer has to stand beside them to throw the switches when the program is put on and taken off the air.

This arrangement was found to be necessary after several programs failed to reach the proper audience at the regular time, due to careless switching.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Bright green tulle with a large dot woven into it makes this gracious evening gown of simple lines. (Courtesy of Jane Regny, Paris.)

New York, October 29.

IN days gone by the reigning monarch or "monarchess" set the mode. And because Paris has always had the reputation for chic, unexcelled by other courts, it was usually the tastes of the reigning Parisian court favorite which set the mode for the world.

But occasionally, as in the case of "Good Queen Bess," or the incomparable Catherine, a stronger personality outside of Paris would make its taste in clothing felt throughout the world.

* * * *

At a later date, as you know, the favorites of the theater and the screen set the mode. Who doesn't remember how Valeska Surratt's coiffure rested upon every chic head in styledom, or how Anna Q. Nilsson's shorn locks in "Ponjola" set literally millions of barbers' shears into motion?

What, then, will we do when our intelligence precludes our copying the personal tastes of the cinema star, and there are no more queens or court favorites?

We will do what all intelligent women are doing, and what all personalities have always done. We will establish lines and modes of our own, those that best suit the lines of the figure they are covering, those that best frame the personality they surround.

* * * *

Do you know by now whether or not the court shoe suits your foot? The court shoe, by the way, is what we call the "opera pump."

If it isn't as becoming to your foot as the sandal type of shoe, don't wear it. Her Majesty Marie Antoinette will not frown upon you if your feet are not shod in the type of shoe that was her fancy!

* * * *

"Let it rain—let it pour!"—don't you envy the lady today who can say that, and mean it, with the lightest heart in the world? You know, you can go out in any old kind of weather, and wear a most becoming and attractive and unspoilable hat—that is, if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dare's department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that explains so clearly the basic idea from which any number of chic berets can be made out of ribbon or felt or velvet that can be steamed free from rain spots so easily.

* * * *

Sometimes it is the material which literally makes a dress—and it is the clever couturier who takes this into consideration in designing his models. A vivid green tulle, for instance, with a large dot design of the same hue woven into it, could scarcely lend itself to anything but the most simple silhouette, now could it? But a simple silhouette with a certain art, because the days when simplicity meant plainness are gone for ever.

Thus Jane Regny offers the evening gown that I sketched for you today.

* * * *

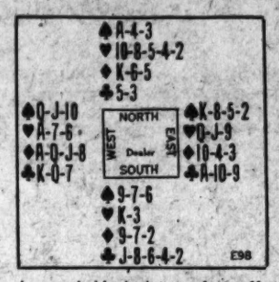
A SURPRISE PLAY.



A remarkable instance of an effective surprise play occurred in the following Contract hand which was played in Boston early this fall:

South passed, West bid two No Trumps, and East bid three No Trumps, which ended the contracting. At Auction, West would have obtained the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

The opening lead was the Four of Hearts by North. As North's lead presumably was his fourth best, he must have three Hearts higher; Declarer's two hands contain six Hearts higher than the Four, consequently South must have just one higher, which may be the King. If so, Declarer apparently can make sure of three Heart tricks by playing dummy's Jack. South, however, could see that too. Two No Trumps having been bid by West, the Ace of Hearts probably was in that hand; and it was plain that dummy's Queen-Nine would take two more tricks if South played the King on the first round. So South played the Four of Hearts (the "surprise" play to make the Declarer place the King in the North hand), and West played the Six.

Being in the dummy and desiring to finesse Diamonds, Declarer led the Ten of Diamonds and North's King captured the trick. To avoid a lead that might be more harmful, North continued his Hearts, thinking West had Ace-King, and Declarer, fully convinced that North was leading from the King, played the Queen from dummy. South's King fell perforce, and West was so surprised by the unexpected appearance of the King from that hand that he played his Ace.

Declarer then ran three Diamonds and tried to establish the Spades, but North's Ace interposed to cash three Hearts and save game. If Declarer had held up his Ace of Hearts for one more round, he would have made game without difficulty as South winning with the King, could not continue Hearts.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

Shall I permit zinnia seed to remain on the plants until all the petals fall off? When must I gather larkspur seed? Will cutting back phlox plants cause them to bloom a second time? MRS. M. M. M.

Do not attempt to gather any seed until such time as it is dry enough to be shaken from the seed capsules. Gather delphinium seed as it ripens. Seed over a year old will not germinate; usually fresh seed is sown in August, in which case the plants will bloom the next year. If the first display of phlox flowers is cut back as soon as the blooms have faded a second crop of bloom will come on before fall.

Please tell me what to do for my water lily. Have had it about three weeks. It has so far put out three new leaves and two more are coming, but all seem to be eaten or deformed. Can detect no insects in water or on plant. NORMAN L. M.

Better add some goldfish to your pool, as these will keep the lily clean of plant lice. Be sure to wash the lice into the water with a garden hose, so that the fish can get at them.

I purchased a tiny geranium three months ago and at that time it had a small flower. The flower lasted about two weeks and there have been no more blooms. The plant is now 20 inches high and still growing. I have started three others from slips and they, too, are growing very fast. Will the large plants and three others produce flowers or will they just continue growing? The large plant has about four new shoots starting near the root. Would you advise me to cut these off? R. Y.

These young plants will bloom between Christmas and Easter. Keep them on the dry side and in small pots, as they always bloom more profusely when a trifle potbound. They demand sun at all times. It is quite unnecessary to prune or cut back plants so young. If you have them growing in a soil composed of good garden loam, sand and well-rotted manure in equal parts they will require no additional food.

Will you kindly tell me the name of the shrub from which I am inclosing a leaf? L. A. L.

The leaves were in such a dry condition when they reached me that I can not definitely identify the shrub. I think, however, that it is a species of snowberry (smyphoricarpus).

I have cut back my poinsettia and it now has a fine large shoot which I hope will bloom. Please tell me how to care for it until such time as it sets buds. MRS. J. S.

Keep poinsettias in strong sun in a place where it will have plenty of sun at all times. Spray the foliage once a week with cold, soapy water and water the plant every day, giving a sufficient quantity at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot. When the buds show color, give the plant some stimulation in the form of liquid manure.

What has caused some of my evergreen to turn a grayish color this last summer? I keep them well watered and as they were planted by a landscape architect I know it is not a case of crowded roots. JULIA McM.

They are evidently covered with red spiders. Constant spraying with cold water, provided the stream is directed toward the under side of the foliage, will soon rid evergreens of these pests.

(Copright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Forceful Feeding.

Visiting recently at the home of a usually delightful 3-year-old, I observed each morning a scene, which is, I fear, a counterpart of one enacted regularly in many a home.

Betty at the breakfast table, all smiles and dimples, changed suddenly into a picture of screaming, enraged resistance at the approach of her bowl of cereal. Her feet beat angrily against her chair, and she fended off her mother with both hands.

For twenty minutes she held out, her lips tightly closed or emitting furious screams when there was no imminent danger of her mother's taking advantage of her open mouth to thrust the cereal into it.

But Betty got tired first and mother's will prevailed, the hated cereal being gulped down at last with sobs and tears.

Having witnessed the scene for three consecutive mornings, I finally asked whether this was a regular performance.

"It certainly is," was the reply, "but you see," with a rising note of triumph, "she does eat her cereal! No child of mine is ever going to get away with willfulness like that."

Obviously, Betty's morning cereal is something more than mere cereal. It is a contest of wills in which up to now the score has been in her mother's favor.

It is probably only a question of time before Betty learns successfully to resist this forceful feeding.

This is not all. The scenes in which Betty is forced to battle with her mother will establish a pattern of behavior which will tend to make her disobedient and willful in many other situations.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Few Real Troubles.

ALL the young wives who are sitting at home trying to think up things to worry over while hubby is hard at work, might ponder the contents of today's letter and then go and make a nice big pie and be glad that their troubles are imaginary ones. Most of the troubles that wreck marriage and break up homes are imaginary. Very few people in this world have enough to do. There is too much time today for dawdling over balmy ideas that mean nothing to any one. In the old days it was always wash day or ironing day or sweeping day or baking day. Now every day is day-dreaming day. Most divorces are the result of day-dreaming. When a woman has nothing to do she starts wondering about her husband and any woman could wonder herself into nervous prostration about any husband and still not even guess half the truth. The best thing to do with a husband is to feed him well and hope for the best, remembering that some really are worse than others, as this letter proves:

Dear Mrs. MacDonald:

What in the world is the matter with Martha? If the lack of money is the only thing she has to worry about, she should be ashamed of herself. There are many girls who had fur coats before they were married and could pay luncheon checks for 20. I was one of them. Four years ago I married the man of my dreams and had the prettiest wedding in town. He was handsome, extremely generous, and a college graduate. In less than a year's time, my eyes opened to the fact that I had married a drunkard and a loafer. Four months before our baby was born, I returned to my parents who were darling enough to give me their loving care.

He let me go down into the shadow of death alone, deserted. He pretends to be crazy about the child but has never shown it in the way of contributing one penny to its support. I have been separated nearly three years now and have lost all love, respect and admiration for the man I thought was my ideal. He has promised many times to improve, but never has. Of course, I could have him brought into the courts, but as he has never shown one spark of ambition, I know that it would do none of us any good. When I had gained sufficient strength to see things more clearly, I stuck my head into some books and prepared myself for a decent paying position, out of which I entirely support my baby and myself.

I have no maid now, have not had one since I have been married, but I do not spend my time cussing the world because my marriage turned out to be such a mess. I am not facing the world with a long face. I am cheerful because there are so many things that are wonderful. No one will ever know what my feelings are toward my husband, but I am telling you they are dead. So I wish that money was the only thing that I had to cope with. Snap out of it, Martha, stop being a crybaby and stop whimpering.

Have enough faith in your husband to know that he knows more about stocks than you do. By no means let your husband's employer know that you have so little faith in your mate. If you want to ruin your husband's future and your own, just do that. Smile at your husband, and stop nagging him and thank your God that you haven't more to worry about. C. M. K.

"SCORPIO."

IF OCTOBER 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Interests or undertakings dating from some time back are again to the fore on this date. A surprise, probably through a letter from the distance. No advance happenings of importance are indicated. Fate will leave you pretty well to yourself.

The child born on this October 30 will be reserved, sensitive, thoughtful and not very conflict. It will win esteem for its trustworthiness and common sense, and will win success through honesty and merit. It will suffer slightly from nerves, but will overcome any hysterical tendencies as it grows older. It will be exceedingly loyal and affectionate.

You are not an outstanding figure, not the one in a thousand, but are a normal being with normal desires, emotions, opportunities and capabilities. You might be called a typical suburbanite or "mainstreeter." In your smug way you are content with the narrow limitations of your horizon, and the sun traverses the tiny orb which encircles your environment. You feel no urge to seek your fortunes in distant lands, and should you travel, you will never cease to sing the praise of home in detrimental comparison to the places you visit. You are a hundred per cent loyal to your community, but you do not feel yourself a citizen of the world, nor are you interested in foreign missions.

You are capable of becoming a big frog in a very small puddle, and you will greatly enjoy the kingship or queenship of your self-appointed monarchy. Position and power quickly go to your head, and you soon try to "lord it over" your so-called inferiors. You have considerable self-confidence and are almost too cock-sure of yourself. You have no decided talents, but are naturally capable and do many things averagely well. You are slightly original and ingenious, and you are nearly always able to get yourself out of any muddle without assistance. You allow yourself to be carried away by envy, and to let jealousy prompt you to do things which are silly.

Successful people born October 30:

1. John Rogers, sculptor.
2. Charles A. Needham, artist.
3. Gertrude F. Atherton, author.
4. Frederick Bancroft, historian.
5. Fannie Heaslip Lea Agee, author.
6. Gambetta, statesman and philosopher.

IT WAS LOCKED

By JOHN HAWK.

CHAPTER 25.

Mr. Hanson paused again, and puffed reflectively.

"What time was that?" asked the inspector sharply.

"I can tell you to the minute," replied his companion with evident satisfaction. "I looked at my watch just before I started. It was 20 minutes past 9 o'clock."

"And where did you go from Alston Inn? Did you come here, to this place?" Linscott thought it was time he encouraged the fellow with a little prompting. To his surprise the other said immediately:

"That's exactly what I did. How did you know?"

"I didn't!" flung the inspector, coming to the point abruptly. "But suppose now you tell me what you were doing here, and how long you had known Lord Winston?"

The inspector moved his chair a few inches to better guard the door, and patted the little metal object in his pocket with a peculiar inward satisfaction.

"Why, bless your soul, inspector, I never heard of Lord Winston in my life until that policeman stopped me in London today, and began pelting me with crazy questions. * * *"

"Be careful what you say, Mr. Hanson. It may be used against you. * * *"

The Canadian sat up very straight. His eyes narrowed ominously.

"Look here," he said threateningly, "if you think you can bully Willis Hanson, I'll tell you right at the start you're on the wrong track, and Willis Hanson ain't the boy you take him to be. And if you want the information I can give you, keep a civil tongue in your head, my man. That's all I've got to say!"

The inspector controlled a sharp retort with an effort.

"If you have any valuable information, it's time you get to it," he said, succinctly.

"I'm not powerful good at telling a story. You'll have to make allowances for my lack of education, you know," returned Mr. Hanson, apologetically, but with a hidden note of sarcasm. "But, as I was saying, I never heard of Lord What-you-may-call-'im until today, nor of this here house where I'm sitting. I started, I'm telling you, from the inn below in the town, and I had it in me mind to spend the night at Merryville, but * * *"

"Yes. * * *?" The inspector waited breathlessly, torn between conflicting emotions. He couldn't decide in his own mind whether this man was a superb actor and consummate liar, or really innocent of any connection with the crime. He listened intently for the revelation he felt was about to come.

"Well, as I was saying, you see it was this way," the Canadian repeated for what seemed to the inspector the hundredth time. "I says good night to the landlord, all set to go to Merryville, and as soon as I'm on the road it gets darker and darker. The sky is just as black as ink. Then I see a flash of lightning, and I reckon I'm in for it. Well, I don't relish a good wetting, seeing especially it's my only clothes, so I decide to make a dash for shelter. I see some lights flickering, and I make for them, I turn in somewhere. I reckon it must have been just where we turned in this afternoon. Just in time, too. The rain has begun to come down, and the thunder is tremendous loud. I give up the idea of reaching a house, and decide to take shelter in the nearest clump of bushes and trees. I've been warned as a boy not to go near a tree in a thunderstorm, but when I look about this yard I decide the lightning couldn't hit all the trees, and I take a chance. It was about the millionth chance I'd taken during my life, and I always came out whole, as you can see. * * *"

He paused, and puffed at his pipe for half a minute. It seemed hours to the waiting inspector before he resumed.

"Well, it was while I am squatting in them bushes that I see something that I thought might help you. As I've said, before, I didn't take that dirty ride from London all for nothing. * * *"

"Well! What did you see?" interpolated the inspector sharply. His nerves, used as he was to all manner of men, were getting overstrung with this long-drawn-out account.

"Well, from them bushes I see two objects being thrown out of an upstairs window, and by the lightning I can just see a hand, a long white hand—then it's dark again."

"You saw that? What time was it?"

"Well," drawled the Canadian with a smile. "I didn't think to take out my watch and look. Anybow, it would have been pretty dark and wet. * * *"

"I mean about what time?"

"Roughly, 10 o'clock, I should say. I figure I'd been on the road about 40 minutes before I saw that apparition—it kind of gave me the creeps—for I did think it was an apparition, until I felt about the bushes, and with the help of matches—it had almost stopped raining—discovered that it was two objects that had been thrown away, rather valuable, too, I should say."

"The cigarette case and watch?"

"You found them, did you? You're a right smart fellow. I'll say that for you," replied Mr. Hanson, enthusiastically, but the inspector was too engrossed in this new revelation to be interested in compliments.

"Could you identify the window?"

"I believe I could."

"And you're positive it wasn't later than 10 o'clock?"

"Earlier, if anything."

"What you have told me makes a great deal of difference; yes, makes an incalculable difference in the case," the inspector assured his companion heartily. He felt still doubtful about the fellow, but was anxious to put him off his guard if possible. Certainly up to now there had been nothing suspicious. Except the fact that a Canadian should have by his own admission entered these particular grounds, and on that particular night. "Come into the garden with me, and see if you can tell which window. You say you saw only a hand, nothing more?"

"Only a hand. A man's hand."

"A man's? You are sure?"

"Unless there was an Amazon in the house that night!" returned Hanson jovially, as he followed the inspector into the garden, which lay so lovely and serene in the late June twilight.

Without hesitation, Mr. Hanson pointed to the first window from the wing. It was Lady Gwendolen's room.

Inspector Linscott scrutinized the big Canadian; it was strange that he should so easily choose that particular window from some half dozen others. His former suspicions about the stranger revived with renewed certainty. It surely was not Lady Gwendolen's room from which those valuables would have been thrown, but if thrown at all it would have been from Prince Pozolevsky's room at the other end of the house, separated from Lady Gwendolen's by four intervening windows. The inspector determined there and then not to let this fellow escape. He decided to detain him at Alston Manor for the night, and in the meantime wire the Yard for a man to shadow his future movements. Obviously there was no chance of arresting him at present, but he did not intend to allow the fellow to disappear. Not he!

"Thank you," he said politely, when Mr. Hanson pointed to the window. "Your certainty is very illuminating. I only wonder you did not notify some one at the house of your discovery. It is very strange that * * *"

"Strange, do you call it?" interrupted the Canadian, smiling broadly again. "Perhaps there are two ways of looking at it. This is how it appeared to Willis Hanson. There those two jeweled creations came tumbling down like rain from Heaven on me, a stranger. I ain't what you'd call a shark on jewelry, but just to look at them was enough to make Willis certain that they cost a mighty lot of spondulix. I did consider picking them up and taking them to the door. The watch was still ticking. Then I came to my senses. Says I to myself: 'No one here knows you, Willis Hanson; no one knows if you're an honest man or a thief. Better keep your finger out of this pie. It don't smell right to me,' and instead of touching them things, I took to my heels and returned to the village station, and jumped the first train for London, me mind made up to put space between me and the mysterious hand which was casting fine jewels into the garden all wild in that storm."

"You must have been annoyed when my man spotted you this afternoon," said the inspector genially.

"I'm free to admit I was!" was the prompt retort. "But as soon as I heard how serious the case was, I wanted to come down and tell you all I knew. Felt it was my duty to help."

"That's very fine of you," continued the inspector in the same friendly manner, determined to disarm any doubts of the stranger, and also, if possible, keep him overnight. "I'm certain Lady Dorothy Alston, who owns this place, will want to thank you personally, and keep you here until morning."

"That's mighty kind, but I could not impose on her. I must be getting back now I've done my bit. I was just going to ask when the next train for London leaves."

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

HOW FOOD SUPPLIES BODY NEEDS.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Food is useful to our bodies in at least three ways:

To build new tissues and repair old ones.

To furnish energy for work and play.

To regulate the machinery of the body so as to insure normal growth and health.

Our bodies are often compared to engines, and the food we eat to coal, wood or gasoline used as fuel. This is a good comparison, as far as it goes, but it does not tell the whole story. The engine does not use coal to build or repair itself, but our food must do that, as well as supply the energy or power for work.

Protein builds and repairs tissue and also supplies energy. Carbohydrates—fats, starches and sugars—furnish energy. Iron, calcium, phosphorus and other minerals are needed for teeth, bones, blood and other parts of the body. Roughage, the bulky material supplied by certain foods, helps to keep the food moving through the digestive tract. Still other substances, called vitamins, do their share in keeping up the normal growth and health. Also water is of great importance to our health. Our bodies are about two-thirds water, and to make up the constant loss through perspiration, breathing and body wastes, we use the water in our food as well as the five or six glassfuls we drink every day.

If our bodies do not get these necessary things in proper proportion, they can not develop normally. This may have a serious effect, not only on the shape and appearance of our bodies, but also on our work in school and elsewhere, and even on our dispositions.

The common signs of good nutrition are straight legs and ankles, and well developed arches; straight back with shoulder blades flat; full, rounded chest; strong teeth with thick enamel that protects against decay; clean tongue and sweet breath; firm flesh of healthy color; sparkling eyes with clear whites; glossy hair; a keen appetite for simple, wholesome food at every meal, and an alert, happy, energetic attitude toward life in general. Poor nutrition shows itself in quite the opposite ways in such signs as bowlegs and knock knees, winged shoulder blades; narrow chest; decayed, uneven teeth and bad breath; dark-circled eyes; rough, brittle hair; pale cheeks, a freakish appearance, or none at all, and a constantly tired or high strung feeling that makes everything harder. Proper food selection, therefore, is something that everybody needs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

INHERITING TROUBLE.

MANY persons are marked for hay fever or some one of the asthma disorders when they come into the world. They inherit the biologic peculiarities from some ancestor. Training away from the tendency should be begun in infancy. In a study of asthmatic children, Dr. G. W. Bray found that one-fourth of the total number had some disorder with asthmatic earmarks during the first year of life. A study of asthmatics of older years revealed that one-third of the entire number were rather definitely asthmatic when they reached ten years of age.

There are certain signs by which this tendency can be recognized in advance of the definite disorder, asthma. Children of asthmatic parents are apt to develop asthma. Sign posts reading, "Asthma two years down the road," are more dependable and should be given more notice, when there is a history of hay fever or asthma in the family. Among the signs of asthma tendency are certain skin troubles.

If a child has eczema, or hives, there is a likelihood that he will develop one of the asthmatic disorders in time. Children of this group are apt to complain of itching, especially night itching and itching due to exposure to heat, to dry air, or as a result of bathing. As a rule, skin is somewhat thick and scaly. A tendency to fish skin is noticeable. Children of this group are prone to rub the nose, to have snuffles, to sneeze, to catch cold readily. When they catch a cold they are apt to wheeze. Their colds hang on for a long time.

These symptoms referable to the nose cause physicians to look for enlarged adenoids and infected tonsils. In asthmatic tendency children there is a good chance that nose symptoms will not be accompanied by disease of tonsils or adenoids. Children of this group are apt to be tall and slender. The height is right for age and family inheritance, but the weight is below the proper level. The children with fitful appetites and idiosyncrasies supply a large part of the asthmatics.

The tendency having been diagnosed, prevention of asthma can be effected. The methods are principally matters of training.

MAY BE MANY CAUSES.

Miss M. writes:

1. Is a pain in the right side always appendicitis or may it be something else?

2. What is the cause of appendicitis?

REPLY.

1. A pain in the right side may be due to any one of a dozen disorders. A pain in the lower right quarter of the abdomen, colicky in character, is suggestive of appendicitis. If nausea follows, the suspicion is strengthened. If later tenderness develops in that region and the pain changes from colicky to cutting in character, the suspicion becomes stronger still. Later symptoms are leucocytosis, fever, vomiting, constipation.

2. Infection with some pus germ.

25c

The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

FOUR great scientists take the stand to talk about toothpastes! And all four publicly approve Colgate's!

Dr. Hardee Chambliss, world-famous scientist; Dr. Allen Rogers, research scientist of renown; Dr. H. H. Bunzell, analyst of modern dentifrices; Jerome Alexander, consultant. These and other outstanding American scientists have recently performed an unique experiment.

They have examined, tested, analyzed a series of modern toothpastes. And they have come to the unanimous conclusion that Colgate's is superior.

Let them say why. "Colgate's," says Dr. Hardee Chambliss, "has greater cleansing ability than other dentifrices."

"It has no equal as a cleansing dentifrice," Dr. Rogers announces after tests, "because it has the ability to get into crevices between the teeth and remove decaying food."

Dr. Bunzell finds that because it is made of "the most effective cleansing agents," Colgate's is to be preferred.

And Jerome Alexander speaks for his colleagues when he attributes this special ability to "low surface tension" ...which causes that penetrating power for which Colgate's is justly famed.

During its 30 years, Colgate's has been more universally recommended than any other dentifrice. More people use it than any other.

Scientific approval is reason enough for you to use Colgate's. The price is another reason—since this superior toothpaste sells for only 25c the tube.

GLASS SAND PLANT RAZED BY FLAMES

TELEPHONE WIRES CUT

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 29.—Fire, believed of incendiary origin, early today all but wiped out the glass sand plant of the Eastern Silica & Chemical Co., 12 miles west of here. The loss is estimated by John F. Penrose, president, at $100,000, partly insured.

He said the plant will be rebuilt as soon as insurance adjustments are made. The fire was within 2 miles of the village of Gore, half of which had been leveled by flames early in August, with a loss of $500,000.

Efforts to call Winchester firemen by Dewey Shoemaker, night watchman, were fruitless and it was discovered today that the telephone wires between the plant and the Gore exchange had been cut with snippers a quarter of a mile from the works.

Sees Blaze on Return.

Shoemaker said he saw the fire on returning from his boarding house, where he had lunched, and was not absent from the plant over 30 minutes. He declared the fire was in a corner of an old wash room, where sand is washed before grinding, and that no fire is kept there. It was then beyond his control. Employes living in the vicinity responded to an alarm, but could save nothing.

Altogether nine frame buildings were consumed, also eleven electric motors, an air compressor and all the machinery, most of which, of a modern type, had been installed only recently. The power house and dynamo alone escaped.

Buildings destroyed included two washrooms, two crusher rooms, wet bin, drier room, boiler and engine rooms, operating and drying room, and an immense drying bin. Two box cars loaded with glass sand also burned.

Boarding House Saved.

The large boarding house of Blair P. Householder, across the Winchester and Wardensville Railroad tracks from the works, was saved, the wind blowing the flames away from it.

However, the boarders fled, taking their belongings, and all the furniture was moved out.

The company is owned by Philadelphia and New York capitalists. The glass sand mined is said to rank second only to that of Switzerland for the manufacture of fine glassware and porcelain. Most of the local product has been shipped to Pittsburgh, Pa. About 50 men were thrown out of work by the fire, which is being investigated by the sheriff's office.

Daughters Dispute Late Officer's Will Claim Stepmother Exerted Undue Influence; Fight Admittance to Probate.

Contest over the will of Charles Stevens Root, Coast Guard officer, who died here August 8 as the result of an automobile accident, developed yesterday when two daughters, Mrs. Harriet R. Trainer and Miss Virginia Root, both of New York City, asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court not to admit their father's will to probate. Undue influence on the part of the widow, Mrs. Louise B. Root, of 1315 Clifton street northwest, the sole beneficiary under the will, is charged.

The daughters assert that their father's estate should have amounted to at least $45,000, instead of the $1,000 which was proclaimed in the widow's petition for probate. The widow is described as the testator's second wife, and the daughters, by a former marriage, claim that a large portion of their father's estate is in the name of his widow, since he sent her his pay from the Coast Guard to invest.

Charge is made that when the father was absent from the second wife that he often told his daughters that he intended to leave his property to them. Attorney D. L. Grantham appears for the daughters.

Boy Hit in Head by Stone.

Howard Tobinski, 14 years old, of 121 Rittenhouse street northwest, was struck in the temple by a stone thrown by a playmate while playing in the street at Georgia avenue and Quackenbos streets. He was treated at the Walter Reed Hospital then allowed to return home.

80 Join Y. M. C. A. Thus Far in Drive

First Returns Reported at Dinner Meeting of 150 Campaigners.

First returns in the annual membership week campaign of the Young Men's Christian Association, as reported at a dinner of 150 team members last night at the Central "Y" Building, showed a total of 80 new members enrolled.

A goal of at least 500 additional members has been set for the week, it was announced by Ed Morton Willis, director-chairman of the canvass.

Reports were received from each of the team captains. The three divisional leaders are John W. Hardell, Fred M. Nettleship, and Charles W. Pimper. The team captains are D. R. Potter, Paul Rapp, George W. Quick, H. F. Pellegrin, Dr. Everett M. Ellison, William Fry, George B. Kennedy, Dr. Edward Grass, T. J. Frailey, M. G. Randall, Dr. Homer J. Councilor, G. Luckenbill, E. C. Graves, S. Dee Hanson, Walter K. Handy, A. L. Thompson, B. G. McGinnis, and J. Sumner.

Similar dinner meetings will be held tomorrow night and Monday and Wednesday nights of next week.

MINE YIELDS BODIES OF 16; 29 ARE DEAD

RELIEF CALL IS ISSUED

McAlester, Okla., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Black depths of the Wheatley Coal Mine, tomb of 29 victims of a violent explosion Monday night which killed another worker on the surface, had yielded 16 bodies tonight. Rescue workers planned to complete the somber task of removal before daybreak.

Eight bodies were brought to the surface this morning from the eighteenth east entry, the farthest reach of the slope mine on the State Penitentiary Farm, a short distance northwest of the city. Five more were removed this afternoon from the seventeenth east entry, and the workers passed on to other levels where mine records indicated the other hapless workmen were on duty when the blast came.

Funerals were held today for several of the victims, and it was planned to bury others tomorrow. The Red Cross provided a maximum of $80 for each funeral.

Condition of bodies recovered indicated almost instantaneous death. Seared by the blast and mutilated by falling debris, the bodies were identified in most cases by numbered metal disks worn for that purpose.

Before the last of the victims had been removed, Red Cross headquarters in St. Louis issued a call to Oklahoma chapters for $25,000 for relief of the miners' families.

The cause of the explosion still was unknown tonight.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

Let it help pay your MILK BILLS!

THE General Electric Refrigerator will do more than that. It will help pay butcher bills and grocery bills besides.

Every day that it keeps a bottle of milk or cream from souring, it is helping you pay a bill. Every day that it keeps meat from spoiling, vegetables from wilting, it is helping you pay a bill. When it freezes your ice cubes, makes delicious, inexpensive frozen salads, desserts, ice cream—it is helping you pay a bill.

The General Electric Refrigerator is an economy which you can well afford. Prices now start as low as $205 at the factory, and very easy terms may be arranged. And the General Electric Refrigerator—saving food, eliminating spoilage and waste every day in the week—will help you pay the bill!

U.S. LAUDED AT FETE TO COSTE, BELLONTE

AVIATORS ARE HEARD

Paris, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Four hundred persons assembled tonight to eulogize Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, aviators who just have returned from a triumphal tour of the United States following their airplane flight from Paris to New York.

The French premier himself, Andre Tardieu, presided. He praised the fliers for their historic crossing, but emphasized especially one achievement which surpassed them all.

"That," said M. Tardieu, "was the bringing together of all Frenchmen for the first time since the war. Tonight is one occasion where I feel that I am interpreting the feelings of all Frenchmen, without distinction of politics or rank, when I say to Coste and Bellonte, 'Well done.'"

Toast to Hoover Drunk.

The premier presided with evident pleasure, and before any speeches were made he arose and shouted with enthusiasm:

"I wish you all to arise and drink to the health of the two chiefs of the great countries which Coste and Bellonte link together—the United States and France. Gentlemen, I want you to drink the healths of Herbert Hoover and Gaston Doumergue."

The entire 400 arose, cheered and drank to the health of President Hoover and President Doumergue.

Coste spoke three minutes, expending two of them in telling his compatriots of the wonderful reception he and Bellonte received in the United States.

"Airplanes swarmed up like bees to welcome us over every city we visited," he said.

Bellonte spoke for a few minutes, remarking:

"The reception we received in the United States is one thing that can never be forgotten. We feel that America's welcome was worth our trip."

U. S. Charge d'Affaires Cheered.

Another speaker was Norman Armour, American Charge d'Affaires, who made his remarks in French and was repeatedly interrupted by applause, his auditors appreciating the compliment of language.

When the premier concluded with an apotheosis to Coste and Bellonte as "personifying all the virtues, the courage and intelligence of France, a nation which does not believe it was born to give lessons to other peoples," the tremendous cheering aroused indicated that his hearers understood him to be referring to a recent speech by Premier Mussolini.

Do-X Scheduled to Try Hop to U. S, Nov. 12

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The German airplane DO-X is scheduled to begin a flight to the United States not later than November 12.

The flight will start at Lisbon, with stops scheduled in the Azores and Bermuda. In preparation the plane will leave Altenrhein for Amsterdam Sunday.

Man Shoots and Hangs Self to End His Life

Phillipsburg, N. J., Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Making doubly sure his suicide plans would not fail, John Wasko, 52, climbed to the limb of a tree, tied a rope around his neck and then shot himself through the head. His body was found today.

Wasko had been out of work for some time.

With NELSON B. BELL

QUITE as astute as those Chinese whose cleverness is so widely renowned are the gentlemen presiding over the major producing companies in Hollywood. At regular intervals they profess to descry the complete disintegration of the starring system and forthwith decline to exercise whatever options may be falling due within the immediately ensuing months. Stars of long standing and high salaries are cut adrift, ostensibly to cope with the new order of things imposed by the public. Usually the public has nothing whatever to do with it. But it makes a swell alibi.

A few years ago Paramount-Famous-Lasky quietly relinquished all claim to the services of Richard Dix, Bebe Daniels, Gloria Swanson, Thomas Meighan, Pola Negri and numerous others. More recently First National dispensed with Colleen Moore, Alice White, Corinne Griffith, Billie Dove, Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall. The same thing has been done on a greater or less scale by numerous others.

But the starring system on which the motion picture industry was nurtured and upon which it always has flourished seems to continue in operation just the same. Probably it always will.

Paramount has its stars today, much the same as it has had since the beginning, and First National, too, has recalled Dorothy Mackaill—after her conspicuous success with Lewis Stone in "The Office Wife"—and unobtrusively placed the names of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Fred Kohler, Walter Huston and Joe E. Brown on its stellar list.

Just the jolly old razzle-dazzle! When the stars' weekly pay checks become a little too obese, the star system suddenly becomes the bunk and all are let go. Then a new crop are taken on at stipends much more slender.

As Bill Haines would say, "It's the old army game, folks—it's never ended, it's never ovah; it's going on all the time!"

Something of this idea of economy may have entered into the selection from an army of applicants of the potential star who recently received the following message from a real star: "I wish you success in 'Tol'able David.' May it mean as much to you as it did to me."

The sender, needless to say, was Richard Barthelmess and the recipient was another Richard, yclept Cromwell.

Cromwell's first motion picture role will be the name part in the Joseph Hergesheimer story that elevated Barthelmess to the full rank of individual stardom nine years ago.

Richard Cromwell, just turned 20, is an art school graduate who has done rather better than moderately well with murals and portraits. His home is in Long Beach, Calif.

He says he has long harbored a desire to become an actor, but until he set his heart on playing David never had had the courage to cast his lot with the hundreds of others likewise ambitious to make the grade.

So he begins with stardom!

Una Merkel does much the same thing at the Rialto next week in "Eyes of the World." And that reminds me.

Jimmie Carrier and Rodney Collier, responsible for the successful operation of Universal's Ninth street house, are cooking up more innovations for the exploitation of their property than you can shake a fiddlestick at—provided you own a fiddlestick and are bent on shaking it at something.

Although, as I understand it, "Eyes of the World" itself does not go in for such things, in conjunction with its premiere presentation at the Rialto next week, the Messrs. Carrier and Collier have arranged with Dr. Jane B. Coates, of this city, to be present in the Temple of Apollo foyer of the theater and tell the fortunes of all feminine patrons entertaining a yen to know all about their pasts, presents and futures.

Dr. Coates is well known in Washington, where she makes her residence and pursues the practice of her occultism. Her doctorate, I believe, is of divinity and not medicine. From time to time her prognostications and divinations have had bearing upon cases largely in the public eye—the McPherson and Baker cases, for example. This may be where the tie-up occurs with "Eyes of the World."

At any rate, Dr. Coates will tell the fortune of any woman patron who wishes it, any weekday during the engagement of "Eyes of the World," between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

She is to demonstrate her powers to the ladies and gentlemen of the motion-picture press this afternoon at 2—which is why you will find me—if you must—at that hour hiding under the Bells' basement stairs!

Broadcasting is another thing the Rialto is going in for in a corpulent and rotund way. Every Thursday night the theater will be on the air from 11 to 12 and every Saturday morning from 9 to 9:45, through Station WRC.

The introductory broadcasts will be exclusively of pipe organ programs played by Otto F. Beck, easily the most popular organist, nationally, that has ever taken the air out of Washington. A little later other artists will be added to the Rialto's hours until a unit comparable to the old Crandall Saturday Nighters has been built up and established on the ether.

I don't know whether the management realizes it or not, but I can tell them from personal experience that some one is letting himself in for a lot of hard work.

For your information next week's attractions in the picture houses will be as follows: Columbia, Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee," all-Technicolor production; Fox, Edmund Lowe and Joan Bennett in "Scotland Yard" and stage show; Earle, Loretta Young and David Manners in "The Truth About Youth" and vaudeville; Rialto, Una Merkel in "Eyes of the World;" Palace, Norma Talmadge and William Farnum in "Du Barry, Woman of Passion," and stage show; Metropolitan, Bert Lytell and Patsy Ruth Miller in "The Last of the Lone Wolf;" RKO-Keith's, Amos 'n' Andy in "Check and Double Check," second week; Little, "Unguarded Girls," for women only, second week.

Play straight man a minute and ask me if I'm going to that opening tonight. It would be a swell spot to answer, "Shore 'am"—whether I am or not!

Governor to Push Gas Price Battle

40 Oil Companies May Be Proceeded Against in Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. C. Douglas Buck today announced he plans to ask Attorney General Reuben Satterthwaite, Jr., to prepare indictments against about 40 companies selling gasoline in Delaware, charging them with conspiring to stifle competition by maintaining a fixed price.

Gov. Buck said his purpose in asking the indictments was to bring down the price of gasoline in Delaware so that it would be on the same basis as in neighboring States.

The governor said a number of companies had informed him by letter that they stood ready to reduce the prices when their competitors also reduced.

Grand Jury Filled By Naming Talley

Vacancy Caused by Postal Worker's Elimination Is Ended.

The District grand jury, which was made incomplete Tuesday when Justice Peyton Gordon excused Paul E. Maher, a member, so that he could accept an appointment at the Washington Postoffice, was restored to full strength yesterday when Edward G. Talley, of 1206 Tenth street northwest, was named to fill the vacancy.

Talley was selected from a special venire of 25 jurors which was selected by order of Justice Peyton Gordon. It has been the custom to draw grand jurors from petit panels sitting in the court when vacancies occurred on the grand jury. This practice, however, was attacked in many pleas in abatement and apparently has been abandoned.

Maher was excused because under the law no employe of the Government may sit as juror or grand juror.

The Goofus Rabbit

The Goofus Rabbit has a very funny habit
Of falling asleep as soon as he's awake,
So he misses all his meals
And I understand he feels
That his somnolence is really a mistake.

He's done everything he can to break this habit;
He's even eaten peanuts in his bed,
But as he eats them shells and all
Perhaps it's just a stall
And he really should try dynamite instead!

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1930. 15

CITY FACES GREATEST WEEK-END OF GRID SEASON

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The de-emphasization of Albie Booth by several of the West Point cadets, who hit him simultaneously from various directions, evoked the angriest growl that has been heard at a football game in these parts since that lively afternoon in Cambridge when the people on the Harvard side of the stands threw off their famous New England reserve and booed the Princeton chaps for tossing their boys around with excessive vigor.

However, courteous representations now have been made back and forth between Maj. Ralph Sasse, the Army coach, and Dr. Mal Stevens, the Yale coach, and all is still amity, sportsmanship and respect between the two institutions. Maj. Sasse called on Dr. Stevens in the Yale dressing quarters, or undressing quarters, as soon as the game was over and stated that he and his athletes would rather have lost than to have seen Albie incapacitated for the afternoon. This protestation probably assays a high content of applesauce, because Albie has been treated no worse than the law permitted and the situation required.

Dr. Stevens assured the major that he regarded the incident as a mere mishap and did not question the Army's sportsmanship, thus disavowing the outraged cries from the Yale side of the bowl. In fact, if it were possible to ascertain the identity of those who did the booing it would develop, no doubt, that they were extraneous persons, unconnected with Yale, who had obtained their tickets by devious means. Once, down South, after a particularly interesting lynching, I telephoned the editor of the paper in the town to ask the particulars, and when I inquired whether he could identify any of the fiends in human form who had sullied the name of his fair city with this outrage, he said he could not as they were all strangers from out of town.

Whole Corps Hit Albie At Once, It Seems.

The Army squad broke training slightly over the week-end, attending a theater in New York Saturday evening and dawdling on the way home Sunday so as to arrive too late for the evening parade. Two players, Bowman, the quarter back, and King, a substitute end, were formally identified as the boys who tackled Albie, but there seems to have been an optical illusion out on the football field, because it did look as though the entire West Point corps of cadets had struck him at once. I thought I even saw Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, the superintendent, somewhere in the pile, yanking Albie by the leg, but, as I say, there seems to have been an optical illusion.

At any rate, the movement to de-emphasize Albie, which had been making no progress up to that moment, was much accelerated, although this will only mean that some one else will be emphasized. Possibly it will be Fred Loeser, the center, a tough, squatty little fellow, about Albie's height but thicker, who hurries out of the huddle and stands over the ball, grinning joyously as though clouts on the head and trephining operations were his idea of pleasure. This young man was a contemporary and rival of Albie's when they were playing football with boys' clubs in New Haven, and I recollect something about his having been in a hospital for an operation on his skull after an automobile accident between football seasons last year.

The duties of the center do not permit of such dashing display as Albie has made on a couple of occasions, but Loeser undoubtedly takes much more punishment than Albie, and he seems to be at the bottom of some pile on every play. The running back always monopolizes public attention, and the best way to obscure an athlete from the glare of pitiless publicity is to stick him up in the line, preferably at center or guard.

"Cheerio Boys, Do Be Fierce," Suggested as Cheer.

I am finding it hard to sort out Yale's emotions on the subject of overemphasis in football, because the one sure way to relieve the emphasis entirely would be to hold the games on Monday mornings on some open lot, which I am sure Yale would not be willing to do. In that case the attendance would be reduced to that informality which characterizes English college sports as described by Dr. Howard Savage, of the Carnegie Foundation, who tells of undergraduates strolling up to look on for a while and strolling away again. There is no organized cheering at these games, Dr. Stevens states, but now and again, in an exciting moment, some emotional student may become hysterical and exclaim: "Now, then; come along."

The thing will have to run its course, having got out of control a long time ago. Football, even at Yale,

Star Cleared By Kansas Board

Reply to Charges of Bix Six Says Bautch Is Eligible.

Received $75 Month for Insurance Job; Ouster Ignored.

LAWRENCE, Kans., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The University of Kansas replied to the Big Six Conference charges of subsidization and recruiting of athletes, today by declaring all its football squad eligible, including James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch, whose amateur status has been specifically questioned because of his $75 a month job as insurance salesman.

In a statement following a 2½-hour session, the university athletic board said:

"With the evidence as collected and presented today, the board feels that it is not justified in declaring any member of the present football squad ineligible."

Named Among 28 Men Taken to Penn.

Twenty-eight varsity players including Bausch, were named to compete in the Pennsylvania game Saturday in Philadelphia. The squad entrained tonight. Arrival in Philadelphia is scheduled for early afternoon Friday, in time for the Jayhawkers to practice on Franklin Field.

The board made no reference to the charges which formed the grounds on which the conference faculty council voted last week-end to schedule no more contests with Kansas after the expiration of present contracts, which would be at the close of the coming basket ball season.

The faculty council did not declare Bausch ineligible. Rather it left to Kansas the responsibility for determining whether he should continue to play.

Kansas has contended Bausch's amateur status is unquestioned, as shown by several university investigations. Today's statement bears out previous declarations.

Board Considers 45-Page Report.

The Kansas board considered a 45-page typed report of an investigation made for the board by Walter Thiele, Lawrence attorney, since the ostracism of the university. Part of the inquiry was personal questioning of varsity football players by Thiele.

Dean George C. Shaad, faculty council member from Kansas, who was present at the meeting at which Kansas was banned, issued a statement after today's session, in which he stated the board approved Thiel's investigation and "authorizes the continuance of the services of Mr. Thiele at the discretion of the chairman of the board." The chairman is Chancellor E. H. Lindley.

Action of the board indicates Kansas will go on its own, without any conference affiliation, after the expiration of existing contracts.

Giants Sell Roettger, Fitzgerald to Reds

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The New York Giants today announced the outright sale of Walter Roettger and Raymond Fiezgerald, outfielders, to the Cincinnati Reds. The price was not announced.

Roettger, traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Giants for Eddie Farrell and George Fisher last April, batted .279 for John McGraw. Playing in 121 games, Roettger made himself highly useful to the Giants, fielding well and banging out fifteen two-baggers, five triples and five homers.

Fitzgerald, acquired by the Giants last fall, was farmed out to Bridgeport, of the Eastern League, during the past season.

Ohio State, Wisconsin Teams Dine Together

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Ohio State and Wisconsin football teams will banquet together following tiheir game here Saturday.

Ohio invited the Badgers to dine with them the evening before the game, but Wisconsin requested the date be set back to Saturday because of the strain the players labor under just before the game. Then, too, it has always been Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite's practice to sequester his team the night before a game.

Last year the Ohio and Illinois squads dined together the night before the game here and Illinois won the next day, 27 to 0.

Michigan U. Captain, In Back Field 3 Years, Has Never Made Point

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—James O. H. Simrall, captain of the University of Michigan Football Team, has never felt the thrill of hugging a ball back of an opposing college goal line. Leader of a team in the thick of the fight for the Big Ten title, "Simmie" has never scored a point himself. Only the Harvard, Minnesota and Chicago games stand between the Wolverine's blond haired leader and the end of his college football career.

Simrall has been a back all three years at Michigan. He has started in eighteen games, all but the first two or three of his sophomore year. Every other regular back on the Michigan team in that time has scored touchdowns, some of them four or five. Twelve players of the present squad have made touchdowns, while a thirteenth has added goals after touchdowns.

Simrall has had a nameless share in Michigan's scores. It has been his part to kneel on the ground after every touchdown and for every place kick and hold the ball for the kicker. Michigan's coaches say that holding the ball properly is far more difficult than kicking, but the name of Gembis and Newman appeared in the summary as adding the points.

RECORD GOAL OF BUCKNELL ELEVEN

Win Over Penn State Would Make Bison History.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 29.—For the first time in the history of Bucknell, no student who has gone through his course regularly has seen the Bison Football Team bow to Penn State. If Bucknell can tame the Lions this week, it will be the fourth straight victory.

In 1927, Carl Snavely's first year here as coach, the Bisons surprised State by winning, 13 to 7. Naturally, Penn State felt that it was a "fluke." The following year, when Snavely's clan turned the trick, 6 to 0, the Lion followers were upset, and then when the 1929 Bisons plastered on a 27-to-6 drubbing the Lion was distressed.

It is not any wonder, therefore, that the Nittany Lion is preparing this week to avenge some of these recent hurts. The loss to Colgate is causing State to work the hardest she ever has for a major game. But the students at Bucknell, who have been here through the previous three years, feel that their chance is exceedingly good of being the first group in the college ever to go through their four years without knowing the feeling of losing to Penn State.

Coaches, Players Are Worried.

While the student body is confident, the coaches and players are not so optimistic. Coach Snavely has reiterated in every session this week, both in the dressing rooms and on the practice field, that the Penn State of this Saturday will be a roaring, tearing Lion. He pointed out that the Lion ace, Cooper French, played only 10 minutes against Colgate, and that reports from State College indicate that he will be in prime shape this week.

Snavely is as anxious as any one to win the game, for only Pitt has been able to handle the Lions more than three straight lickings. But the crafty Bison mentor knows that the job this year is doubly hard because for the first time in the recent series Penn State will enter the game in a desperate frame of mind.

ALA HORATIO ALGER.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—With 10 shillings, about $2.50, in a "double" on the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire Handicaps, two Londoners today reaped $33,000. Their double was completely successful. The couple betting on Ut Majeur in the Cesarewitch and on The Pen in today's Cambridge. The two races are coupled in a variety of ways but very few bettors achieve 100 per cent success.

Charity Game Is Demanded By Detroit

City Council Calls on Michigan to Accept Challenge.

Dares Big Ten to Refuse; Waiving of Rule Unlikely.

DETROIT, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Detroit council today adopted a resolution calling on the University of Michigan "as an institution supported by the taxpayers" to accept the challenge of the University of Detroit for a Thanksgiving Day charity football game.

Councilmen voiced the belief that if the University of Michigan stated it intended to play the charity game that the Western Conference "would not dare stand in the way."

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Possibilities for any postseason football games involving Big Ten teams are slim.

One of the most inflexible Big Ten rules prohibits such games, and a majority of Big Ten schools would have to favor exceptions before granted.

"Pressure has been great to compel the Big Ten to permit postseason games this fall and to change the site of the Northwestern-Notre Dame game," a high Big Ten official said today, "but I don't think there is a chance. Why, if we acceded to one request we'd have the players playing football all winter."

Challenge by Fordham Is Declined by Rockne

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Daily News says Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, football coach at Fordham College, has issued a challenge to Notre Dame to play a postseason game, providing both teams win all their remaining games.

Rockne may or may not have the best attack in the country, he said, "but I feel sure I have the best defense plus a pretty fair attack and if Notre Dame wants to claim any title they'll have to beat us first."

No Postseason Game For "Irish."

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Notre Dame will not play a postseason football game this fall with Fordham or any other eleven, Coach Knute Rockne said today when informed that Fordham planned to issue such a challenge if both teams finished their current campaigns undefeated.

"Notre Dame is not concerned with so-called National football championships," Rockne said. "We play a full schedule of games and let the matter rest at that. This fall we have 10 games on the schedule and that is plenty.

"Anyway, we may be beaten yet. We haven't played Southern California, Northwestern and the Army and from what I hear, they are plenty tough."

Michigan State Hiker Choice in Title Event

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Twenty-two colleges, including one Middle Western institution, have entered a total of 265 athletes for the twenty-second annual varsity cross-country championship to be run at Van Cortlandt Park here November 17, it was announced today.

The Midwest will be represented by two runners from Michigan State—Clark Chamberlain, who finished fourth last year, and Donald Conrad. The baby-faced Chamberlain is conceded an excellent chance to take the individual title away from the East for the first time in history, as the three men who finished ahead of him have wound up their college cross-country careers.

Francis Lindsay and Harry Richardson, the University of Maine boys who finished in a dead heat for the title last November, have graduated, and so has Lauren Brown, Chamberlain's former team mate at Michigan State, who came in third.

2 Undefeated Teams Here For Games

Michigan State Risks Record Against G. U. Tomorrow Night.

Marines Seek to Mar W. Maryland Slate on Saturday.

THE particular segment in the course of human events that concerns itself with college football has contrived to deposit in the laps of Washington devotees of the pigskin, a double-barreled week-end for their delectation, the choice morsels of the local football menu.

Georgetown vs. Michigan State tomorrow night under the flood lights and Western Maryland vs. the All-Marines on Saturday night were just a couple of football games when Phineas Q. Fan scanned the football schedules at the start of the season. And then, as the season wore on, presto! Michigan State is still unbeaten. So is Western Maryland, and their winning streaks are about to collide with wo of Washington's prime favorites. That's the dish.

Marines Brush Up On Passes.

Michigan State's engagement with the Hilltoppers had only intersectional flavor to recommend it to the discriminate fan w hen the game was announced last Winter. In 1929 the Spartans were swamped by Michigan, had been kicked about by Colgate and inundated by a flood of Detroit University touchdowns. Not an attractive opponent for Georgetown. But this is another year and successive victories over Alma by 28-0; Cincinnati by 32-0; Colgate by 14-7 Case by 45-0 and a scoreless tie with Michigan have fashioned Michigan State as an outstanding team.

In support of the Spartans' power, they can point to the fact that Michigan now leads the Big Ten with three victories and no defeats; and Colgate's 40-to-0 victory over Penn State.

That is the team that Georgetown will face and the present Georgetown team is smarting under successive defeats by Western Maryland and West Virginia, with a yearning to smash somebody's record and Michigan State's as acceptable as any.

Bruen to Stage Miami Bout, Says Florida Press

Miami, Fla., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Miami Daily News said today that Frank J. Bruen, who resigned Monday as vice president and general manager of Madison Square Garden, Inc., had agreed to promote a third "Battle of the Palms" here this winter with a major fight for the benefit of charity. Bruen will be associated with the paper and a number of Miami merchants in the project.

Officials of the paper made the announcement after talking over telephone today with Bruen in New York. Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott fought the second "Battle of the Palms" last February. Madison Square Garden, it is understood, faces a $2,000 forfeit if it fails to produce a major fistic engagement here this winter, under terms of a five-year contract entered with the City of Miami more than a year ago. The contract called for five major fights over a period of five years.

Cavanaugh Lauds Unsung Heroes in Line; Says Rockne Cohesion Demoralizes Foes

Majority of Credit to Backs Deplored by Coach.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The unsung heroes of the line, carving out paths for flashy backs who reap the glory, taking the batterings, missing the headlines—those are the boys to delight the heart of be-spectacled Frank Cavanaugh, football's "iron major" and head coach at Fordham University.

Defense is Cavanaugh's forte. He has builded a massive eleven at Fordham that has piled up fourteen straight victories and has yet to be scored on this fall. His teams boast forward walls of human concrete buttressed with steel. They are the front line trenches, throwbacks to the shrapnel-doused ditches he commanded during the war years in France.

So it isn't any wonder that he feels sports writers fail to give adequate attention to the linemen who make it possible for the backs to run and then despartely hold the fort when the other fellows bid to wipe out the advance.

Realizes Public Likes Sensations.

Cavanaugh suspects, though, that the reading public probably isn't interested in the niceties of line play and probably wouldn't know what you were talking about unless you stuck rather close to the sensational runs and spectacular passes, with the backs capitalizing opportunities given them by the perspiring linemen.

"Way back," he says, "when football was starting and there was only Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania, line play was based on the standing defense. Linemen stood erect or crouched, used their hands to keep the enemy off, and chased the play as soon as it developed. Kunte Rockne once wrote that a standing defense was the best. I think he hoped he'd get a chance to play against them.

"Then along came pivot plays, spinners, cutbacks and ruined that style of defense. A man who left his post to chase some back found another back tearing through the spot he'd left. Out of that came the charging defense, linemen hammering in to smash formations before they get started, backs coming up into the line to clear up what was left.

Spears, Oregon Coach, Was Greatest Guard.

"The greatest stand-up guard, the greatest lineman I ever saw was "Cupid" Spears, now head coach at Oregon. He weighed 250 pounds when I coached him at Dartmouth and he was stout, so he could not bend down in the line. Straightening up on each play, lifting that weight would have worn him out. But he was agile, fast and never made a mistake in diagnosing a play."

The good big man is always better than the good little man in the line, all other things being equal, Cavanaugh believes, and he likes to balance little fellows like Capt. Tony Siano, his great center, with players like big Frank Foley, a massive tackle. Intelligence and speed are the main requisites of a good lineman and he likes to get them young, 19 years old if possible.

Says Rockne's Cohesion Demoralizes Foes.

Cavanaugh thinks Knute Rockne's teams are most likely to demoralize a good defense because of the perfect cohesion of the Notre Dame offense. Knute will take the same play you are using and gain 8 yards with it after you have gained 2.

"Then," says the "Iron Major," "the morale of the boys goes to pieces. They can't help saying to themselves, 'Now, we're in for a licking.'"

Coach Shows 'Em How; But He Tells 'Em Now

Clarksville, Ark., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—It's one to teach and entirely another to demonstrate, George Cole, football coach of the College of the Ozarks here, has found.

Yale's Daily Regrets Army Game "Tumult"

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Yale Daily News, undergraduate publication, in an editorial today expressed regret at "all the tumult" created by Saturday's Yale-Army football game, and said "that as far as Yale is concerned, incidents and suspicions are forgotten, and the matter is closed."

"As a result of Saturday's game," the News said, "Yale is being featured in the press upon three counts. First, though accepting the decision as given, she believes herself to have been tied by an illegal touchdown. Second, she believes, or some of her spokesmen believe, that Booth was 'put on the spot.' Third, she made herself conspicuous in the above belief by booing the Army.

"The lamentable thing about the whole situation is that now, whatever we may have felt in the heat of unconsidered actions, most of us wish that all the tumult had never been raised. We have cast aspersions upon a long honored opponent, and laid ourselves open to the charge of bad behavior."

Clash of Unbeaten Rivals Big Ten Feature Saturday

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Minnesota drilled against Northwestern offensive plays today, scrimmaging in the rain against the yearlings. The first-string back field still consists of Broekmeyer, quarter back; Hiebeth and Swatz, backs, and Leksell, full back. Two elevens worked against the freshmen, drilling both offensively and defensively on forward passing.

The game here will have a definite bearing on the leadership in the Big Ten, with both the Purple and the Gophers unbeaten. Northwestern, with two victories and no defeats in the conference, is pressing Michigan for the lead, while Minnesota has won its only start in Big Ten competition.

Iowa Brushes Up for Detroit Clash.

Iowa City, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Final touches before the Hawkeyes invade Detroit were applied under floodlights tonight. The Iowa squad of 33 men will entrain tomorrow.

Final practice included work on kicking, forward passing, tackling, and pass defense. Krize did most of the punting for the Iowa Team.

Northwestern Drills On Fundamentals.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, gave his Wildcats a long drill on fundamentals tonight, starting with a session on the charging sleds and winding up with a lengthy blocking drill. Later a practice scrimmage was held against the freshmen, who were equipped with Minnesota plays, but who failed to make any headway whatsoever. Jimmie O'Mara, reserve half back, who scored the final touchdown against Illinois, will not accompany the squad tomorrow night to Minneapolis because the injury to his nose has failed to heal properly. Al Moore, half back star, rejoined his mates after a week's absence.

Captain Robinson, Illinois, Hurt.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Capt. Olaf Robinson, University of Illinois full back, was sent to the hospital today with a bruised hip. John Snook, strapping young sophomore, was sent into scrimmage in his stead and helped rout the first-year eleven with a series of line plunges. If Robinson is unable to get into the Purdue game Saturday, Snook appears a certain starter, as Art Schultz, sub full back, is out of the game with a bad knee.

Injuries Feared by Purdue Coach.

Rockne Gives Regulars Little Work.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Notre Dame first-stringers made their first appearance of the week on Carter Field today, but indulged in no

West Point's Films Refute Yale's View of Booth Injury

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Motion pictures of the Yale-Army game, shown here today, have just about put an end to the arguments as to what happened to Albie Booth. They also have served as a photographic rebuttal of the argument of some of Yale's supporters that other pictures had shown that Army's touchdown was scored illegally.

On the play where Booth was injured, the pictures show Albie coming in to intercept a pass intended for Jack Malloy and eluding the Army end. He made about ten steps toward the goal in a wide curve before Wen Bowman tackled him. Booth partly freed himself from Bowman's grip, but the Army quarter still was clutching at an ankle when Dick King came in to make a clean tackle and toss Booth back. Jack Price, Army tackle, making a flying leap into the play, struck King's back as they fell and dropped to the ground alongside Booth.

The pictures show that Booth's head struck the ground hard enough to bounce visibly and apparently it was this jolt that forced him to lose his grip on the ball. The pile up about which fans have complained, came in the attempt to recover the fumble and Booth was not in the mass.

The Army photographs show clearly that an unidentified Yale player, wearing No. 24, reached the ball first with the rest of the mass of players landing on top of him. Booth was lying some two or three feet to one side of this group with King on top of him.

On the disputed Army scoring play, the pictures show that Kilday hit the massed lines and came to a halt well across the jam, although the exact relation to the goal line is not shown. Stecker, coming up fast, rammed into the mass and Kilday rolled off to one side, a little behind where he had first come to a halt.

ARC LIGHT FLASHES NEAR END TO WIN $10,000 CHASE

Widener Star To Front at Last Jump

Vanity Beats Sun Beau in Upset in Sixth; Jim Dandy Third.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 29.—Joseph E. Widener's Arc Light, showing great speed in the stretch and scaling the last hedge to go to the front, won today's Laurel feature, seventh running of the Gov. Ogle $10,000 Steeplechase Handicap, by a length in a sensational finish, with Thomas Hitchcock's Actor second, a nose in front of the Sanford Stud's Tourist II. The race was 2½ miles and was run in 4:41 2-5. The winner's share of the stake was $9,040. E. Slate, a rider on the flat, but a beginner on the steeplechase branch of racing, had the mount on Arc Light, and he rode like a veteran.

Only one casualty occurred in the running. This was when Stephen Sanford's $75,000 English horse, Royal Falcon, fell on the back field in the second round. In the 2½-mile race the horses passed the grand stand three times, starting from back field, the finish being on the third time around.

Actor Leading at End of Two Miles.

Wayfair led the field. Tourist second, and William Kennet passing in the order named. Then Rigan McKinney, on Actor, moved into the lead. Gracie was then the contender and Tourist had dropped back, Arc Light not having made his move.

Actor held the lead at the 2 miles, Gracie second and Tourist third. Then Slate challenged the leaders with Arc Light, catching then at the last hedge and going to the front easily. At Belmont Park Arc Light had beaten Tourist II, but was disqualified. The winner paid $6.

E. J. Holland's filly Unusual won the first race for maiden 2-year-old fillies, leading all the way, with Brice up and finishing with a margin of two lengths. Ral Parr's The Marquise was second, a length and a half in front of the Nevada Stock Farm's Rosevolt. The winner paid $13.80. The track was slightly heavy by the first race post time. The start was good for all except Dawdle. Unusual went to the front and was never in danger. The Marquise was $21.80 a place.

Sun Craig Wins Second By Nose.

The Seagram Stable's Sun Craig got a nose decision over H. C. Hatch's Black Cloud in the second race for 3-year-olds, a claiming event. Mucker, Dixiana Farm's entry, was third, and Wave Top, a field horse, fourth. Alwyngton Dolly, as usual, showed early speed with Mucker close up. Sun Craig took the lead in the stretch, but was ridden out by Jockey Wells to hold his lead. Black Cloud came fastest of all on the outside in the stretch. The winner paid $8.60.

Platers went a mile and a furlong in the third race. Field horses ran first and second. H. G. Bedwell's Fair Folly winning by a length and C. F. Clark's Sometime second, Mainsheet, one of the favorites, was third, beaten four lengths. The winner paid $20.10 to win and the field place price was almost as good as the winning price, $17.80. The time was 1:55 1-5. Standard Bearer was the early leader. Oakland, the favorite, made a weak challenge on the back stretch.

Aegis, 2-year-old colt by American Flag—Florence Webber, won the Greenock Purse for 2-year-olds by two lengths. Admiral Grayson's Happy Scott was second and Soll Gills, from the Seagram Stable, was third. J. E. Widener's Priory was the favorite. He fell at the post, giving Mack Garner, making his first attempt at riding in several days, a heavy fall.

Vanity Upsets Dope by Beating Sun Beau.

Aegis delayed the start several minutes, but overhauled Happy Scot, the pacemaker, at the sixteenth, paying $14.80 to win. The time was 1:12 4-5. Novelist, coupled with Priory, was scratched.

The Cambridge Handicap proved quite an upset when W. R. Coe's filly Vanity led all the way, defeating Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, odds-on favorite, by three lengths. Her time for a mile and a sixteenth was 1:45 4-5, on a heavy track. Chaffee Earl's Jim Dandy, which earned some notoriety by defeating Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers at Saratoga, was third. Leishman had the mount on Vanity and kept her going through the stretch, when Sun Beau challenged and she was drawing away at the end. Jim Dandy showed improvement. Sun Beau had no excuse. The winner paid $7.40.

Druggist, a 13-to-1 shot, beat Torch, the favorite, in the final race of the program today, winning in game fashion by a length and a half, with All Blue, another outsider, third, a half length back of Torch. Eleven platers started in the 1⅛-mile event. Druggist paid $28.10 in the $2 mutuels.

All Blue was the early pacemaker, with Torch second in the early running and Druggist third. Before the race was half run it resolved itself into a three-horse affair. Druggist was rated off the pace by Thibodeaux and went to the front easily when ready. In the drive through the stretch the winner met the challenge of Torch, which came again to take place money from All Blue.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN CRAIG, $8.60, $5.30, $3.60; BLACK CLOUD, $5.50, $3.50; MUCKER, $3.50.

SUN CRAIG, hustled along from the start and well placed, came stoutly for the final drive and, in a game finish, was up right at end. BLACK CLOUD moved to the leaders with a rush, gained a brief lead and held on stoutly. MUCKER, bothered rounding the turn, secured clear passage thereafter and closed gamely. WAVE TOP broke well, but lacked speed. YANKEE DOODLE closed a good gap. ALWINGTON DOLLY and ALINE BENSINGER weakened. OUR SIS quit.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR POLLY, $20.10, $17.80, $9.40; SOMETIME, $17.80, $9.40; MAINSHEET, $6.00.

FAIR POLLY, rated close to the leaders, responded willingly when put to a drive, reached SOMETIME at the final furlong pole and, under urging, drew clear approaching the finish. SOMETIME raced MARY M'NEIL into submission, opened up a winning lead, but faltered steadily in the last furlong. MAINSHEET, slow to get into her stride, closed with good speed, but could not reach the first two. MARY M'NEIL tired from forcing the pace. DANGER SIGNAL and OAKLAND had no excuses.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARC LIGHT, $6.00, $5.70, $3.60; ACTOR, $5.10, $2.80; TOURIST II, $2.60.

ARC LIGHT, handled with excellent judgment, was rated off the pace until last turn of the field, where he moved up and joined the leaders, finished with great courage when called on and, moving up stoutly going to last fence, outgamed ACTOR and TOURIST II in final drive. ACTOR fenced well and set a fast pace. He came again last sixteenth to outsame TOURIST II. Cooper made his run a bit too soon with TOURIST II and latter tired last furlong. ROYAL FALCON was moving up strong when he fell at fourteenth fence.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AEGIS, $14.80, $6.00, $5.10; HAPPY SCOTT, $5.40, $5.50; SOLL GILLS, $12.40.

AEGIS, outrun for the first three furlongs, reached contention when approaching the home stretch, closed resolutely on the outside and was up in the last sixteenth and going away. HAPPY SCOTT displayed good speed in the soft footing, saved ground, but tired and may have been short. SOLL GILLS finished courageously in the final half mile. RA HORUS was used up forcing the pace. DUNLIN'S LAD weakened.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DRUGGIST, $28.10, $10.30, $6.30; TORCH, $4.90, $3.60; ALL BLUE, $8.50.

DRUGGIST, rated close up, went to the front when ready, continued gamely and outstayed TORCH. Latter, reserved early, saved ground and finished stoutly. ALL BLUE tired fast after moving into a winning lead. UPSET LAD was held safe in the final drive. PROPOSAL broke down badly, as did JOHN ROBERT.

COLORFUL GAME PROMISED BY MARINES, TERRORS

Night Contest To Attract Notables

Devildogs to Receive Enthusiastic Support Saturday.

W. Md. Students and Band to See Fray at Stadium.

THIS Western Maryland-Marine game is likely to develop into the most spectacular pageant of the entire local football season in addition to supplying what may be the best game of the entire year.

Although President Hoover is unable to attend because he plans to visit his Rapidan camp for the last time this year over the week-end, there will be notables and representatives from all walks of official life in Washington, military, diplomatic and political leaders all having made reservations for the encounter.

The pomp and pageantry will be supplied by the rival rooting factions. Every marine within traveling distance of Washington will be in the stands for the encounter, the majority, of course, in their dress uniforms.

Veterans Band Due To Give Concert.

To supply the spark, or rather the volume, for the Leathernecks in their organized efforts to outshout and drown out the opposition will be the largest Veterans Band in the country. The Washington Veterans of Foreign Wars Overseas Band, 140 strong, representing the eight local veteran posts, will be on hand to play before the game, between the halves and during the game itself and lead the Marines in their vocal efforts.

Western Maryland may be outnumbered, but they will not be outdone entirely in the way of vocal effort, though. Their band, 50 pieces strong, and practically the entire student body, will be right on hand to cheer their Green Terror idols on. The musical and competition promises to be warm and voluminous, as well as constant.

Under the arclights these two bands, when they come onto the field to do their manouvering between periods, promise to present a most colorful spectacle in itself. Both are exceptionally well-drilled and plan to furnish plenty of new stuff.

Rivals Wind Up Hard Practices Today.

Both the Marines and the Terrors are to wind up their serious and hardest work for the conflict today, the former at their base in Philadelphia and the latter on their own field up in the mountain retreat at Westminster, Md. Both squads are to arrive in town Saturday morning and both will rest until the starting whistle sends them battling away at each other.

While tickets have been going fast, good seats may still be reserved at Spaldings or the Sport Mart, at Griffith Stadium or at the Marine headquarters.

ROCKNE EASES WORK FOR HIS REGULARS

serious or bruising work. Coach Rockne has decided nothing more than dummy scrimmage will be the regulars' lot all week. Larry Mullins operated at full back, this indicating that Joe Savoldi may be regarded henceforth as a first-string half back.

Buckeye Perfect Passing Game.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Buckeyes worked hard today to perfect their passing attack for the Wisconsin game Saturday, rounding out the day with a drill on blocking. Wesley Fesler's wrist was still weak, but he appeared a certain starter.

Michigan Cripples Come Back.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—All the Michigan cripples, except Auer and Simrall, were back in uniform today. Coach Kirke impressed his line with the need of opening holes, a great weakness in the Illinois game. He provided a few new plays designed to net yardage through quick openings. Hudson gave a good exhibition of plunging against the freshmen.

Ohio State Works Against Frosh.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Scarlet Jerseys of Ohio State were paraded before Wisconsin today as the Badgers went through a defensive scrimmage against the freshmen. The double wingback attack of State, which parallels the style of play used by Wisconsin, was bewildering to the Badgers. The students are planning a big send-off for the team on its leave-taking tomorrow night.

Driver Drives Team For Alexandria Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Ballston, Va., Oct. 29.—Washington-Lee High's Eleven is being put through extensive workouts each day this week in preparation for tomorrow's game against Alexandria High, the third intrastate contest for Coach Driver's team.

The loss to Fredericksburg High last Friday has served as an impetus for the Little Generals to work. Undefeated until that game, Coach Driver feared the edge had been taken off his attack. He has been concentrating on perfecting a defense against aerial attacks, heretofore the weakest department of Washington-Lee's play.

The ineligibility of Allan Goodwin, stellar back and punter, because of disregarding an athletic rule in effect in this section concerning playing with sandlot clubs, is a serious blow to the squad. He is expected, however, to appear in games scheduled outside the section, including the club game against Central High School in Central Stadium, Washington, November 21.

Fishburne Midgets Defeat Staunton, 24-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Oct. 29.—The midget football team of Fishburne Military School smothered the 115-pound team representing Staunton Military Academy beneath a 24-to-0 score here this afternoon. Fishburne's initial score was made in the first quarter by Hughes, after his team had marched swiftly down the field from their own 20-yard line by means of a series of reverse plays.

Pickes intercepted a Staunton pass in the final period and raced 35 yards for another counter.

A few minutes later Hughes duplicated this feat, but was tackled on the 3-yard line. Staunton resisted stubbornly there for three downs, but on the next play Hughes crossed the line.

Columbia Country Club Elects Asher President

Clyde B. Asher was last night elected president of the Columbia Country Club, succeeding Herbert T. Shannon, at the annual meeting of the organization, held in the clubhouse. Horace G. Smithy was elected vice president and Arthur B. Shelton and John Poole were retained in their respective offices of secretary and treasurer. Five members of the board of governors, to serve for the ensuing three years, were named as follows: Herbert T. Shannon, L. G. Sizer, L. W. Laudick, Robert H. Dalglish and J. F. M. Bowie. The financial statement for the year showed receipts of $114,129.44 and expenditures amounting to $149,224.63.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 29.—Alexandria Lodge of Elks, No. 758, will stage a wrestling program on Wednesday, November 5, in Elks Hall, Prince and Royal streets, for the benefit of the charity fund.

Three matches, featuring Bobby Mainfort, former U. of Va. instructor, vs. Mario Giglio, Italian champion, will be dished out to grappling fans in northern Virginia. Charlie Nicholson, former Georgia Tech grappler, will meet Lew Groggins, of Baltimore, in the semifinal, while Johnny Beck, Alexandria boy, mixes with Billy Cunningham, of Washington, in the opener. The bouts begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Exalted Ruler James R. Duncan of the Virginia lodge is actively engaged in promoting the affair.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the annual baseball banquet of the St. Mary's Celtics Team, champions of Washington, tonight at the residence of Mrs. Ruth Kidwell, 1424 Duke street. More than 50 persons are expected to attend.

Maurice Given, coach of the Alexandria High School football team, hopes to give the Washington and Lee gridders a real battle in Friday's championship game at Ballston, Va. Janney, star tackle, returned to the "Twins" line-up today. He has been out of the game with a Charley-horse. It is expected a large delegation from Alexandria will trek to Ballston to see the battle.

Four teams from Episcopal High School will engage in battles in Baltimore on Saturday. The varsity eleven will oppose the Gilman County School Team, while contests will be played in the other divisions.

Herbert Knight, popular Alexandria official, is now a member of the Northern Virginia Athletic Association. Knight was elected into membership at the last meeting.

An important football practice will be held by the Alpha Delta Omega Team tonight on Haydon's Field at 7 o'clock to prepare for the next league tussle.

Third Straight Win At Latonia for Leros

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Former Senator John N. Camden's Leros, a slashing 2-year-old by Nocturnal and Parley, stepped out of his class to achieve his third straight victory of the present meeting against older horses in the Runner's Rest Purse, feature of the card here today. J. Red's Best Man was second, and F. P. Letellier's The Southerner third.

The victor was given a perfect ride by the popular apprentice, Eugene James, and the latter's waiting tactics proved a big factor in his success. Jockey R. Cheatham sent Best Man to the front at once and at the half-mile pole was enjoying a four-length lead over Leros. James bided his time and did not make his move until the field turned for home. In the run through the stretch his mount had little difficulty in collaring the tiring pacemakers and came on to win by an open length. Best Man had a five-length advantage over The Southerner for the place, while the others were always outrun. Leros was a stanchly supported second choice in the betting and rewarded his backers at $5.32 for each $2 investment.

W. & L. PREPS FOR V. P. I. SATURDAY

Generals Drilled Exceptionally Hard for Poly.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 29.—Washington and Lee's football squad will be mighty glad when game time for the V. P. I. contest rolls around this Saturday afternoon. Work of the heaviest sort has been added to the daily routine this week, and the scrimmage held yesterday is just an appetizer for the longer drill this afternoon.

As things look now, Coach Gene Oberst will give his charges only Friday afternoon to rest, but he may send them through a signal drill until a late hour on that day, as the frosh teams of Washington and Lee and Virginia will dominate the afternoon in their game on Wilson field Friday.

Collins May Replace Mitchell As Full Back.

The first string back field of Martin, quarter; Mattox and Thibodeau, halves, and Mitchell, full back, may be changed around for the Gobblers. Pending the healing of his injured ribs, Nace Collins, sophomore full back, Covington, Va., stands a good chance of ousting the veteran Pat Mitchell from his job.

"Red" Jones, veteran half, is working hard this week, and he may get the call from Coach Oberst to direct the Generals against the Gobblers. Last year Jones ran at half back all the time, but this year, with a dearth of quarter back reserves, Jones was shifted over to the signal caller's berth and he has worked well there.

Noel Mellon is running close on to Thibodeau's heels in the effort to earn himself a place in the line-up for the all-important game here Saturday. At present there does not seem to be any prospective changes in the line, but Jerry Holstein, monogram guard, may again go to center, and Ed Nesbitt to guard in the line-up that did so well against West Virginia and Kentucky.

Generals to Open Bag of Tricks Against Gobblers.

It is beside the point to suggest that Washington and Lee will open its bag of tricks wide open on Saturday to snatch the decision over the Gobblers. Whatever offensive power the Generals are capable of mustering will be turned loose in full volume against the invading State team. A long session today sent passers and receivers through their paces as the coaches drilled the squad in the complete assortment of passes.

BALTIMOREANS CHALLENGE.

The West Baltimore Athletic Club has issued a challenge to local and nearby unlimited basket ball teams for games on a home-and-home basis. The attention of the manager of the Company F quint in Hyattsville is especially invited.

All acceptances of the challenge should be sent to William Humbert, 1621 North Fulton avenue, Baltimore, or phone Lafayette 1976.

CITADEL DROPS TWO.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Charlotte News says today that Walter Oglesby and Bill Ryan, guard and end on the Citadel Football Team, have been dropped from the squad for breaking training.

Both Oglesby and Ryan have scintillated in the Charleston, S. C., team's early games. The Citadel plays the University of South Carolina tomorrow at Orangeburg.

ST. JOHN'S HARRIERS DRILL.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 29.—The St. John's harriers ran a fast 3 miles in preparation for their opening meet with Hopkins at 3:30 Saturday in Annapolis. The Johnnies have the following schedule arranged for both varsity and freshmen teams: November 7, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville; 15, University of Maryland, at College Park; 26, Catholic University, at Annapolis.

VA. HARRIERS IN DEBUT FRIDAY

Inexperienced Team to Race Against V.M.I. in Debut.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 29. Virginia's varsity cross-country team will make its season's debut next Friday afternoon when it runs against the harriers from Virginia Military Institute. Probable Cavalier starters in the race will be Capt. Holden, Lauck, Fangel, Percy, Weaver, Cary and Thornton.

Much of the success of this year's team depends upon the showing of Capt. Holden and Lauck. This is Holden's second year of varsity competition, and, based on what he did last year, he should live up to all expectations. Lauck is just entering the varsity ranks, but has an enviable record as a runner both at Woodberry Forest Academy and as a member of the freshman team last session.

Weaver Only Vet On Squad.

With the exception of Weaver, the other five men designated above are all just entering upon their first year of eligibility of varsity competition. Of this group, only Percy received a numeral last year as a member of the first year team. Weaver did not run last year, but was captain of the yearling team two years ago.

With the loss from last year's team of McIlhaney, who has completed his career as a runner for the Orange and Blue, and Ochs, who was eligible for another year of varsity competition but did not return to school, the outlook for the approaching season is difficult to summarize. The fortunes of the team must be intrusted almost entirely to inexperienced men. However, Coach McIlhaney, although not overoptimistic, is expecting his wards to put up a good showing Friday against the Cadets, who are being mentioned as possible State champions.

New River Prepares For C. U. Clash Here

Special to The Washington Post

Montgomery, W. Va., Oct. 29.—With the impending clash with Catholic University only two days hence the New River State Football eleven will go into its last hard workout this afternoon. The plan of the Montgomery mentors is to send their squad through a long tackling and blocking practice. Tomorrow a light workout will be the order with signal drill, passing and punting occupying most of the time. Immediately following the workout tomorrow the squad will begin preparing for the Eastern trip.

From the practice sessions held this week indications are the Montgomery eleven will present an aerial attack to the Capital City Team. Much stress has been made on this point with Rado, sensational half back, doing most of the hurling. If the Bears are successful it will mark the first time for a number of years they have employed this style of advantage. Rado has been assisted on the throwing end by McLaughlin, Hendricks and Young with most of the receiving being done by Holt, Frits, Gaye, Morford and Davy.

High School Gridmen Vote to End "Strike"

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The John Marshall High School Football Team, which Monday went on strike in protest against disqualification of five of its members, today voted to call off the strike and play football.

Principal James C. Harwood, who disqualified the five players because they had reached the age of 20 years, said tonight he was gratified at the team's decision.

Illness Holds Kieckhefer From 3-Cushion Title Play

AUGIE KIECKHEFER, of Chicago, eight times holder of the world's three-cushion championship, will not be in title competition this season. Due to illness Kieckhefer has been forced to withdraw from the Northern sectional three-cushion tournament, in which he had planned to compete. Three-cushion sectional play opens in eight cities on November 10, but the condition of Kieckhefer's health will not permit him to see action for a number of months. Kieckhefer was operated on last Saturday for a throat ailment, from from which he has been suffering for the last eight months.

This famous cueist waited until the last moment before he announced he would not play. The time limit for filing the entry was October 20, but Augie received an extension of a few days. Kieckhefer had been making rapid gains in a hospital in Milwaukee, but when it was found an operation was necessary, that marked the end of his title chances for this season.

For the last twelve years Kieckhefer was a factor in three-cushion championships and challenge matches. He won and lost the world's crown eight times. Last season he won the Northern sectional tournament at Milwaukee and qualified for the world's title play in which he finished fifth. He lost to Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, in the play-off for fourth place, which would have assured him a place in the world's championship.

Kieckhefer, a southpaw, was a daring, sensational player. He scorned defensive play, his theory being that the best way to win games was in scoring points and his every shot was a point-making effort. He has a large following in all billiard centers and his fight for health will be followed closely.

The absence of Gus Copulos, of Detroit, also will be regretted. Copulos is still undergoing treatment at Mayos, in Rochester, Minn., and is definitely out of championship billiards for this season. He plans to spend the winter on the Pacific Coast.

Florida and Georgia Speed Drills for Saturday Game

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—With their maneuvers screened by secret practice, the Florida Alligators wheeled through a series of new formations and plays today which Coach Charles Bachman hopes will befuddle the Georgia Bulldogs in Savannah Saturday.

Despite the loss to Furman and advance word of a mighty Georgia team, there is a spirit of confidence in the Gator camp.

Those who would pooh-pooh Florida's chances since the Furman defeat are reminded that last year Florida downed Georgia, conqueror of Yale and North Carolina, the week after the Gators had been beaten by Georgia Tech.

This year, as in 1928 and 1929, Florida will start as the underdog, but there are many observers who believe the 'Gators have an excellent chance to upset the dope again.

Bachman's chief lieutenant, Nash Higgins, has scouted Georgia in three games this year and has drilled Florida reserves in the Georgia plays which they ran against the varsity with only medium success.

Georgia Brushes Up On Passing.

Meanwhile on a rainsoaked field at Athens, Harry Mehre sent Georgia through another long session, with forward passing forming a major part of the offensive. Florida has a strong rush line and judging from the practice at Athens, Mehre may be planning on an aerial game against the 'Gators.

Although Georgia has seldom used the pass as a weapon this year, it is known that Mehre has a couple of good throwers and receivers.

South Carolina and the Citadel finished their polishing today for their twenty-fifth meeting at the Orangeburg, S. C., fair at high noon tomorrow.

Billy Laval, Carolina's shrewd mentor, scouted the Cadets in their game with Presbyterian last week and has warned his Gamecocks that the Charleston Team presents an offense that will be hard to stop.

South Carolina holds a decided edge in the series dating back to 1905. The Gamecocks have won sixteen games, against the Cadets' five, three ending in ties.

Herbert Bryant, 200-pound full back, has been moved to tackle in one of the shifts Coach Earl Abel has made in an effort to bolster the Virginia machine. Abel hopes to have five regulars, kept out of recent games by injuries, ready for Maryland Saturday.

Alexander Shifts Men For Tarheels.

Coach Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech, had Neblett, center, and Goldsmith, end, running with the first string in practice today, indicating that these reserves may start against North Carolina.

Clemson and Tennessee continued hard drills for their meeting at Knoxville, while Coach Harry Gammage, of Kentucky, sent his charges through a number of new plays to be used against Alabama.

Another of Coach Bob Neyland's first string football players joined the University of Tennessee's injury list today Dr. Frank Faulkner, team physician, announced that Quinn Decker, full back, was suffering from a cracked ankle bone.

Decker, senior from Nashville, was hurt in Tuesday's scrimmage, but at first was believed to have suffered a sprain.

Hardell Surprised by Not Using Passes; Pinckney Starred on Defense; Western, Eastern Seem Outclassed by Tech.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WITH the possible exception of the Western game, Tech now faces a clear path to a high school championship which is becoming something of a monarchy since Coach Elmer Hardell began piloting the Manual Trainers. Thus in but the fourth game of a series not yet half over, most of the sting has been taken out by the virtual elimination of Central, the only serious competitor on the list.

Against Central, Tech never changed a winning game, going through the entire fray alternating a simple spinner off tackle play which produced consistent gains of 5 or 6 yards. Central's line, while performing better than in previous games this season, gave freely. Frequently it fell the lot of Central's backs to flag Tech's sure-footed runners.

Larry Pinckney's defensive work just about made up for his inability to charge with accustomed effectiveness and his failure to get rid of the ball quickly enough when attempting passes. But on the whole, the work of Hardell's men in stopping Central's heavy full back, without weakening other posts, told the story of the game almost as much as Central's fumbling when headed goalward.

Tech's refrain from an aerial attack came as a surprise and will probably add luster to Coach Hardell's master-minding reputation. Central expected heaves all day and witnessed but one when, after the first touchdown, Dick Nelson's crisp toss to Wohlfarth for the extra point, was not completed.

Tech showed in both offensive and defensive work an evenness which can do nothing but prove the undoing of the two other teams to be met before the series close, Western and Eastern. Eastern is definitely out as likely seriously to press the Manual Trainers. Coach Kelley's men looked bad against Business and their chances of stumbling as efficient a machine as Tech's are extremely slim.

Western's game against Tech will present the best battle left for the series. Western is a good third in this year's percentage table.

Seat Pleasant Gridders Making Bid for League Title

Team, Now Seeking Unlimited Honors in Capital City Circuit, Has Made Steady Advance Toward Top.

(The following is the sixth of a series of articles dealing with the sixteen sandlot clubs entered in both divisions of the Capital City Football League, which is sponsored, as usual, this fall by The Washington Post.)

By JOHN W. HINKEL.

WHEN the citizens of Seat Pleasant and vicinity aren't debating the Ritchie-Bruening gubernatorial contest nowadays, it is a sure bet they are discussing the title chances of Ralph Boyer's Seat Pleasant Volunteer Fire Department eleven, which is entered this season in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City Football League. Some of the citizens of the Maryland suburb are voting for Ritchie, the rest for Bruening. But all of them, without exception, are voting for the home team to cop the 1930 pennant in its section of the circuit.

Marylanders Show Class In 1927 Season.

The following year, the Marylanders soon became the sensation of 150-pound sandlot ranks, winning six battles, tying two, and dropping a pair. One of the contests they lost was to the Northerns, who eventually won the city title. The score of this engagement was 7-6, and incidentally Seat Pleasant was the only eleven able to cross the Redbird goal line that fall.

The suburbanites enjoyed a fairly successful season in 1928, registering a trio of triumphs, deadlocking with five other clubs, and losing two engagements by close margins. Competing in the unlimited section for the first time last fall, the Firemen bowed to the Northerns, St. Stephen's and the Apaches, but compensated in a measure for these defeats by walloping the Mohawk Preps and the Virginia A. C., of Alexandria.

The pressure of outside business affairs prevented Boyer from handling the 1929 reins, so William McCatherine took over the responsibility. Boyer, however, assumed the coaching burden again this fall and appointed Johnny Miles as his chief assistant. The Seat Pleasants got off to a slow start on October 12, when they just managed to eke out a 2-0 victory over the Iroquois' elven from Alexandria. One week later, they made their league debut against another club from the Virginia city, the Alpha Delta Omegas, and were held to a 0-0 deadlock. Last Sunday, the Firemen hit their winning stride again to come from behind and nose out the Quentins, 7-6.

Eleven Veterans Nucleus Of 1930 Season.

The 1930 Seat Pleasant team is built around eleven hold-over veterans from last fall's outfit. These players are Capt. Jerry Augustine, one of the greatest quarter backs local sandlot football has ever produced; Edward Ratke, full back; John Miles, end; John Deavers, Gordon King and D. E. Brown, tackles; George Cady, Grover Woodward and John Sims, half backs, and John Kilroy, guard. With the exception of Brown and Ratke, each of these vets has been with the club since its origin.

Four men are on the Seat Pleasant squad this fall who have never played football before this year. They are Carl and John Butler, guards; Paul Kraft, end, and Bernard Hensley, half back. Kraft already has clinched a regular berth.

Oscar Heflin and "Pinky" Eggleston, centers; Ed Heflin and A. White, guards; Roland Carrick, tackle; Lester Nelson, end, and Al Duvall, Si Ball, Edward Fisher and W. H. Hodkinson, backs, who are performing with the Marylanders this season, played with other clubs in 1929.

The suburbanites are fortunate in having Boyer Stadium as their home gridiron. Named after their popular coach, the stadium ranks as one of the best playing fields in Washington and vicinity. George H. Bakersmith, business manager of the club this year, is one of the most efficient and popular officials in District, Maryland and Virginia sandlot ranks.

BYRD DRILLS OLD LINERS IN RAIN

Maryland Holds Long Session as Virginia Game Nears.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND'S football players got their first taste of handling a wet ball yesterday during a long drill in preparation for the game with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville Saturday afternoon.

It also was the first time in many moons that the Old Liners did not kick up a lot of dust in their practice season. It was a novelty all around.

With the exception of several of the regulars who are nursing light injuries and a couple who are suffering with colds, the first stringers indulged in about as stiff a session they have had since the start of the campaign.

Maryland wants to beat Virginia and it knows that the Cavaliers are set upon taking its measure, so the Old Liners are not taking into consideration the past performances of the two teams, which would give Curley Byrd's charges quite an edge.

Cavaliers' Regulars Now Fresh.

Virginia's attitude toward the Maryland game was well illustrated last Saturday when the Cavaliers used only reserves against Kentucky, conceding the Colonels the game and saving all their big guns for the tussle with the Old Liners.

Maryland, unless it has to, will not make any changes over the team that began the contest with V. M. I. in Richmond last Saturday. In fact, with the exception that Evans and Poppelman have shared in starting at the full back position, Coach Curley Byrd has stuck to one team in starting his games unless forced to make a change on account of injuries or illness.

Much interest is being shown among the alumni, faculty and students in the Virginia game and the special train that will leave Baltimore at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, College Park a half hour later and Washington at 10, is certain to carry a large delegation. It will take the Virginia alumni as well as old grads of Maryland.

Abell Bolsters Virginia Defense for Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 29.—Earl Abell, Virginia head coach, is strengthening defenses of the Cavaliers in preparation for the Maryland invasion. He is giving special attention to tightening the forward wall.

Buck Poss, a home towner, will probably be started in tackle paired with Capt. Hunter Motley. Or it may be that Herbert Bryant, the 200-pounder who has been shifted from the backfield, may be tried out in the line.

Tom Echard and Bill McIntire, the pair of Pennsylvanians who were started against Kentucky, may open in the guard positions, but it is more likely that the two letter men, Bill DeButts and George Cameron, will be chosen. Lewis Reiss is slated for center.

End positions are still in doubt. Norwood Orrick, Bill St. Clair, Segar Gravatt, Charley Payne and Bill Condon are all in the running when it comes to selecting men for the flanks.

Navy Gets First Work Of Season in Mud

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Navy football squad had its first chance this season to work out in the mud today as it was put through a light dummy scrimmage in preparation for West Virginia Wesleyan. Bill Ingram gave his charges, all of whom are in first class shape, work on blocking and interference.

Navy Soccerists Beat Swarthmore Team, 3-1

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 29.—Navy defeated Swarthmore in a well-contested soccer game here today, 3 to 1, and the Navy Plebes conquered Catonsville High School, of Baltimore, by a like score.

Play throughout the varsity game was largely hard kicking and long drives due to the muddy condition of the field and rain falling all the while. The Middies drew first blood in the opening half when Shovestule crossed a pretty one which Williamson drove into the net. It was the only score of the half. Swarthmore evened the count early in the second half when Rudy drove the ball through after a concentrated attack in front of the Navy goal. Shovestule scored soon afterward to put Navy in front, 2 to 1, and Hutchinson registered the final tally.

Shovestule played in good form throughout and Williamson shared honors with him. While for Swarthmore the work of Rudy and Bond was outstanding.

STOCK PRICES MOVE DOWN AS SALES SAG

SOUTHERN RAILWAY OFF

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The stock market's slender gains of Monday and Tuesday evaporated today in a simmer of selling fed by such fuel as declines in steel production and car loadings and several dividend reductions.

Trading was inactive—sales of 1,670,000 shares were the smallest since mid-September—but the market was back at its old trick, so frequently seen this year, of sagging on dullness. A rally in the afternoon, led by the copper shares, suggested that the shorts had become nervous over their failure to bring out any stock; however, prices turned downward again in the last hour on a much livelier turnover.

The list was well sprinkled with air pockets. Eastman Kodak, for example, dropped 10½ points to the accompaniment of rumors of wage cuts and curtailment in the working force. All such reports were promptly and officially denied, so that Wall street was led to assume that the weakness in the share was just another case of deflation in a blue chip stock.

U. S. Steel Loses 4 Points.

U. S. Steel's reaction to the 3 per cent drop in the industry's ingot production as well as to failure of the corporation to vote an extra dividend, was a 4-point decline. Bethlehem and Vanadium were also soft, losing nearly 3 each. Radio B preferred broke 6 points and Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred 8½, although the latter recovered 5 of its loss.

Iron Age, placing steel operations at 50 per cent of capacity, said the further decline in scrap prices and in output gave an unpromising outlook, although it hastened to add that the present rate of operations might well prove to be the low for the year since structural steel demand was holding up fairly well and a moderate demand was coming from the railroads.

"Steel's contribution to the day's news was the statement that whatever inquiry was developed through measures to provide employment for the jobless would "do little more than offset seasonal November and December recessions" and that a genuine upturn could not be expected until the automotive industry had revived, probably in the spring.

Car Loadings Decline.

Car loadings were off 21.4 per cent in comparison with the week ended October 18, 1929, the largest decrease so far this year. Most of the railroad shares, which had been stimulated by the better September earnings, turned heavy. Southery Railway was conspicuously soft, losing 3 points, while Atchison, New York Central and Pennsylvania lost about a point.

The strength of the London Copper Market helped the red metal shares, although the gains were unevenly held. Dividend reductions by American Radiator and Colorado Fuel & Iron weakened both issues. Utilities softened to the extent of a point or two.

Although bonds remained firm, the speculative commodities joined stocks on a down turn. Wheat was off 1 to 1¼ cents in a more or less routine market. Corn eased 1½ to 2⅛ cents on bearish Government weather reports and larger receipts. Cotton's vigorous advance was checked by realizing and final quotations were 90 cents to $1 a bale lower.

Index Off 2.4 Points.

The day's losses in 90 leading equity issues amounted to 2.4 points, which slightly more than canceled the gains earlier in the week. American Can, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, National Biscuit, Radio and General Electric yielded 1 to 2, and Westinghouse 3½ in the industrial description.

Allied Chemical was off 5 and Eastman Kodax reduced its extreme loss to 8 points. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American and Electric Power & Light sagged moderately. United Aircraft was a target of the bears and dropped nearly 4 points.

The Spanish peseta, quoted above 11 cents for the first time in several weeks, reflected reports of prospective gold exports. Foreign currencies generally were quiet, although the continued firmness of the Canadian dollar resulted in a $2,000,000 gold shipment to Montreal.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Yesterday's sharp advances in cotton were followed by reactions during today's trading under somewhat increased Southern selling, realizing, and selling on the easier technical position. New January contracts broke to 11.49, or 24 points net lower, rallied to 11.60 and closed at 11.53, compared with 11.73 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 18 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 14 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. The initial offerings were fairly well taken by overnight buying orders which appeared to come from both the trade and speculative sources, but the demand was soon supplied and offerings increased as prices worked lower. Some stop orders were uncovered under which new December sold off to 11.36 and May to 11.93, making net declines of about 20 to 24 points on the more active positions. The selling then tapered off somewhat, and there were rallies during the middle of the day on a renewal of the buying movement which carried the spring and summer months above opening quotations, while near months recovered a good part of their losses. New December sold up to 11.48 and May to 12.11, but the market seemed to meet a little more cotton at these figures and weakened again in the late trading under local and Southern selling. Closing quotations were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest for the day.

At the high point of yesterday, active months in the market here were selling practically 1½ cents per pound above the low records reached earlier in the month, and reactionary sentiment was considerable in evidence during today's trading. It was felt, evidently, that the advance had weakened the technical position of the market, and this view was probably encouraged by reports of some falling off in demand from the trade and the apparent disposition of some recent buyers to take profits on the bulges.

Liverpool cables said that continental and Bombay buying there had been supplied by hedging and realizing, but reported an improving British home trade for cotton goods, with moderate cloth sales to South America. Exports today, 17,767 bales, making 2,194,944 so far this season. Port receipts, 52,451; United States port stocks, 3,602,265.

RISE OF U.S. BONDS FEATURES MARKET

RAIL CHANGES NARROW

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Inquiry for bonds was of a highly selective character today. Accumulation of gilt-edged issues continued at a moderate pace to maintain the upward trend which developed at the start of the week, but irregular movements again cropped out in the rest of the domestic list.

A feature of the day's trading was the strong tone of United States Governments. With banks experiencing difficulty in placing funds in the call money market at any rate, they apparently are turning more forcefully to bonds and the bill market to put idle funds to work. The entire list of Governments moved higher, and Liberty first 4¼s closed at a new 1930 peak. Treasury 4s registered an unusually large gain, rising 11-32.

Changes in Foreign Issues.

The advance of Latin-American bonds, in which strength has been almost a daily feature for more than a week, was less pronounced and a few were reactionary. A few Brazilian bonds and Bolivian Governments were again strong, rising 1 to 3 points. German Government 7s and Belgium 7s were European bonds that forged ahead. Finnish Governments were well bought, but other Europeans were dull and mixed.

Movement of rails was narrow in contrast with the brisk pace set in the previous session. Prime issues were slightly higher as a rule. Canadian Northern 4s set a new year's high at 102¾. Considerable improvement developed in Central Railroad of New Jersey 4s, Colorado & Southern 4½s A, St. Paul 4¾s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 4½s, Reading Co. 4½s A and some of the Van Sweringen bonds. Southern Railway general 6½s and Wabash 5s B advanced 3½ points each. Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic 5s set a new minimum on a 8-point drop, and New York, Ontario & Western 4s and Rio Grande & Western 1st 4s sagged.

Utility Group Strong.

There was a good demand for more than a dozen utility issues, whose gains were large. Included in the group were American & Foreign Power 5s, International Telephone debenture 5s, Metropolitan Edison 4½s, Nassau Electric 4s, New England Telephone 5s and Western Pennsylvania Power 5s G. Manila Electric Railway 5s, an infrequently traded issue, soared 9¾ points to a new year's peak.

Some softness developed in industrials and stock privilege issues in sympathy with the weakness of share prices, but the largest changes were on the upside. Armour & Co. 5½s rose 2½ points. Chile Copper 5s, Fisk Rubber 8s, Lorillard 5½s, Press Steel Car 5s gained 1 to 3; Shell Pipe line 5s, Pathe 7s, International Paper 5s A were lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Indications of at least a seasonal broadening of the movement of corn to market centers had a bearish effect on all grain prices today. The influence of downturns of corn values was simultaneous, too, with general speculative consequences evoked by lower quotations on securities. Moreover, reports were current that farmers Northwest were disposing of corn and replacing it with cheaper rye, and that a considerable amount of American barley in Canada was being brought back to the United States.

The corn market closed weak at the day's bottom level, 1¼ to 2¼ cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish; wheat closed heavy, ⅞ to 1⅜ cents down; oats ⅝ to ⅞ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 8 cents.

Official reports that corn huskers were making rapid progress gave particular stress today to evidence that a majority of traders were looking for a material enlargement of corn soon to the chief distributing terminals. Especially during the final hour of business, corn led in a downward swing of prices for every cereal on the list, buying support for corn being much less conspicuous than of late, and primary receipts of corn today being in excess both of the arrivals a week and a year ago. Besides, shipping demand here for corn proved slack, and the bulk of corn receipts in Chicago, 157 cars today, consisted of new corn.

Lowest prices of the day in the corn market followed shortly after news was circulated that farmers at Minnesota points were selling corn at 55 to 60 cents a bushel and were purchasing rye at about 60 cents to mix with barley for use as feed. Throughout the remainder of the day corn showed greater weakness than wheat. Pit observers said liquidating sales of corn were chiefly in the December delivery, a circumstance attributed to the increase of arrivals of new corn.

More numerous complaints today of rust damage to wheat in Argentina tended somewhat to give relative steadiness to wheat as compared with corn. Dispatches from Rosario, Argentina, said rust in the Provinces of Cordoba and Santa Fe was attaching different degrees of virulence, but so far had not yet appeared on stems. Buenos Aires cables attached significance to statements that crop experts there did not expect a very large wheat yield in Argentina this season. However, with the corn market and the stock market both depressed, wheat showed but little power to rally. Oats eased down with other cereals.

Provisions, although weak early, averaged higher on the last as a result of buying for cash interests and because of an upward trend of hog values.

R. C. JONES FORMS INVESTMENT FIRM

COAL PRODUCTION DATA

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Of interest to local investors and the financial district is the announcement yesterday of the formation of a new company to handle investment securities by Robert C. Jones, who has been active in the District for many years and has many friends in the community.

From 1926 until the present time Mr. Jones has been with the Washington office of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., serving as a local comanager. Prior to 1926 he was connected with John L. Edwards & Co., becoming associated with that firm in 1919.

On March 1, 1929, G. M.-P. Murphy & Co. announced the appointment of Alfred Chester Flather, Mr. Jones and Charles Carroll Morgan as local comanagers, Mr. Morgan continuing in charge of the bond and investment division and Messrs. Flather and Jones continuing as managers of the company's stock departments at the Connecticut avenue and H street offices, respectively.

Member of Several Clubs.

Mr. Jones is a member of the Army and Navy, Army and Navy Country, Congressional Country, National Press, Beach and Tennis and Annapolis Roads Clubs, the Society of Colonial Wars, Society of the Cincinnati, Society of the War of 1812 and the Sons of the American Revolution.

For the nine months ended September 30, International Business Machines Corporation, one plant of which is located here, reports net earnings of $5,474,426 after all charges and Federal tax, equivalent to $8.58 a share on 637,954 shares of no par common stock now outstanding.

This represents an increase of 11.3 per cent over similar earnings of $4,914,722 for the corresponding 1929 period and 42.5 per cent over $3,840,241 earned in the corresponding 1928 period. Calculated on present stock outstanding, earnings were equivalent to $7.70 in the first nine months of 1929.

Cash Position Stronger, Claim.

Deductions during the current period for depreciation and development costs were larger than similar charges in the 1929 period, President Thomas J. Watson has informed the directorate. He said that cash position is stronger than last year and inventories are approximately the same.

Completion of an addition to the company's plant at Endicott, N. Y., will soon add more than an acre of floor space to the total, and represent an increase of approximately 20 per cent at that plant. The corporation manufactures electric tabulating and accounting machines, electric time recorders and time systems, industrial and commercial scales and store equipment. It does business in 77 countries.

The estimate of total bituminous coal production in the United States, prepared by the National Coal Association from preliminary car loading reports from the railroads, shows a total for the week ended October 25 of about 10,000,000 net tons. This total represents a decrease of about 1,400,000 tons from that of the corresponding week of 1929, when 11,415,000 net tons of soft coal were mined.

The Bureau of Mines, in its last weekly coal report, showed a total output for the week ended October 11 of 9,495,000 net tons, and for the week ended October 18, 9,232,000.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

Coastwise Boat Lanes Advocated

Meeting Here of Shippers Adopts Resolution to Promote Safety.

(Associated Press.)

A resolution favoring in a qualified fashion the establishment of steamship lanes for use of coastwise shipping as a measure of increasing safety at sea was adopted yesterday at a conference of ship operators, shipowners, and Government officials interested in steamboat inspection.

The resolution, as drafted by Ira A. Campbell, general counsel of the American Steamship Owners Association, recommended "the voluntary establishment and use of lanes by shipping interests wherever practicable," leaving further study of its possibilities to be undertaken by committees organized for the purpose.

D. N. Hoover, inspector general of the Steamboat Service, also advanced a project for requiring oil tankers and other shipping laden with inflammable or explosive material to anchor and cease navigation in foggy weather over crowded sea areas. The question was left open. The proposal would seek to avoid collisions such as that in Massachusetts Bay last summer between a tanker and the liner Fairfax which caused a heavy loss of life.

Spurt in Tobacco Revenue Reported

Taxes Collected First Nine Months $1,289,547 Over Period Last Year.

(Associated Press.)

An increase of $1,289,547 in tobacco taxes collected by the Government in the first nine months of the 1930 calendar year as compared with the same period last year was shown yesterday in figures announced by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The total tobacco tax for the period was $342,737,534 as compared to $341,447,987 last year. The increase was due entirely to an advance in the cigarette tax which jumped from $271,671,338 last year to $276,204,079 this year.

North Carolina led in the amount of tobacco tax, paying $38,534 on cigars, $179,668,405 on cigarettes and $17,666,594 on manufactured tobacco. Pennsylvania led in the tax on cigars, paying a total of $4,426,319.

Grain Imports to Be Discussed.

(Associated Press.)

The Coarse Grain Advisory Committee was invited yesterday by the Farm Board to meet in Washington on November 17 to discuss means of preventing the importation of low-priced corn and other coarse grains into this country.

CLAIRVOYANT THE MAN WHO KNOWS

608 12th St. N.W.

Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

Auction Sales

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6—

THOS. J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers, 1431 Eye Street Northwest.

TRUSTEE SALE OF VALUABLE UNIMPROVED REAL ESTATE FRONTING ON ALBEMARLE STREET AND AUDUBON TERRACE NORTHWEST, JUST EAST OF CONNECTICUT AVENUE.

By virtue of a decree of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia passed in Equity Cause No. 51444, I will sell at public auction, in front of the premises, on THURSDAY, THE SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1930, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia and being part of a tract of land known as "Azadia," described in two parcels as follows: Parcel 1—Beginning for the same on the south line of Albemarle street, 90 feet wide, at a point 493.14 feet east from the intersection of the center line of Audubon terrace, as dedicated and shown on plat recorded in liber 38, folio 26 of the records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, with the south line of said Albemarle street, said point of beginning being also the northeast corner of the land conveyed to Willets by deed recorded in liber 5659 folio 495 among the land records of the District of Columbia, and running thence east along said south line of Albemarle street, 114.38 feet to the northwest corner of the land conveyed to Hugo Worch by deed recorded in liber 5593 folio 276 among the aforesaid land records, thence south along the west line of the land conveyed to Worch as aforesaid, 207 feet to the southwest corner thereof, thence east along the south line of said land conveyed to Worch aforesaid, 200 feet to the southeast corner thereof, thence south 200.70 feet to the north line of Audubon terrace, 324.71 feet to the southeast corner of the land conveyed to Buchanan by deed recorded in liber 5216 folio 283 among the aforesaid land records, thence north along the east line of the land conveyed to Buchanan aforesaid, and continuing along the east line of the land conveyed to Wilkins aforesaid, 328.83 feet to the place of beginning. Parcel 2—Beginning for the same on the north line of Audubon terrace (80 feet wide) at the southwest corner of the land conveyed to Rhodes by deed recorded in liber 5251, folio 362 among the land records aforesaid, and running thence north along the west line of the land conveyed to Rhodes, aforesaid, 195.26 feet to the northwest corner thereof, thence east along the north line of said conveyance, 50 feet; thence south parallel with the west line of said conveyance, to the north line of Audubon terrace, thence northwesterly along the said north line of said Audubon terrace, on the arch of a circle, the radius of which is 1,525 feet, to the place of beginning. Subject to the building restriction line as shown on plat recorded in liber 38, folio 26 of the records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, and also as shown on plat recorded in liber 42 folio 9 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records. Parcel 1 subject to the covenants that no building for residence purposes shall be constructed upon said property or any part thereof to cost less than $2,500, and that no manufacturing, mechanical or business establishments shall be established or exist upon said property, that no sale of same or any part thereof shall be valid if made to any Negro or colored person, or persons of African descent, nor shall said property be conveyed to or in trust for, any Negro or colored person or persons of Negro extraction. Said covenants to run with the land and be binding upon any owner of said property or any part thereof. Parcel 2, subject to the covenants running with the land that no building for residential purposes shall be constructed upon said land costing less than $3,000.00. Note—At the date hereof the above-described land is designated on the books of the assessor of the District of Columbia for taxation purposes as lot 802 in square 2042 and lots 809 and 810 in square 2043.

TERMS OF SALE: Sold subject to a prior deed of trust for $20,000.00, further particulars of which will be announced at time of sale; the purchase price above said trust to be paid in cash. A deposit of $500.00 required. Conveyancing, recording, etc., at purchaser's cost. Terms to be complied with within thirty days from day of sale, otherwise the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of defaulting purchaser after five days advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

FAIRFAX DROUGHT COSTS $1,000,000

Survey in County Reveals Heavy Loss in Crops and to Industry.

RELIEF PROGRAM URGED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A conservative estimate of the loss to the farmers of Fairfax County, because of the drought during the last summer, will be $1,000,000, according to County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr and Chairman Edmund H. Allen, of the county drought relief committee. They state that these figures are as accurate as it is possible to get them, being the result of an extensive survey and investigation. This estimate has been forwarded to Harry Flood Byrd, chairman of the State Drought Relief Commission.

The losses have been divided as follows: Corn crop, $247,000; hay crop, $154,000; oat crop, $22,000; early and late potato crop, $57,000. This makes a total commercial crop loss of $480,000. The loss of yearly income from the wood and pulp industry will reach $90,000. A conservative estimate of the loss suffered by the growers of truck produce will reach $100,000. No allowance has been made for home garden set backs.

The loss to stock owners from lack of pasturage was estimated at $89,000. That to dairymen from lack of pasture, ensilage and home-grown feeds, plus the necessity for placing cattle on winter rations so early, will amount to $132,000.

The loss to business from the general resulting causes, unemployment, forest fires, water shortage, &c., will be about $119,000. These figures are exclusive of the losses suffered by farmers from fires caused by internal combustion and the intense heat on the small crops they were able to harvest.

The amount needed in Fairfax County for loans to persons who have no banking credit, but who are considered excellent moral risks, will be approximately $150,000. The amount needed to finance the Red Cross and welfare work will be $25,000, to help the needy through the winter.

The report of the committee states that the water situation is becoming more desperate every day and that finding work for the unemployed is the greatest problem now. As a solution, members recommend roadbuilding on the secondary or feeder highways as the most practical means of aiding those out of work and the farmers who are in need, as this would take care of all surplus local labor.

The time of the Colvin Run School and Community League Halloween party has been changed to tomorrow night, so as not to conflict with the celebration at McLean Saturday night. The committee in charge of the party tomorrow evening in the Colvin Run School Building is composed of William Cockerill, Mrs. G. Ashley Money and Miss Marie Keene.

They will award six prizes, three to children and three to adults, for the funniest, most original and prettiest costumes. Music for square dancing will commence at 8:30 o'clock. Other entertainment features have been arranged by the committee.

The members of the refreshment committee are Mrs. John Oliver, Mrs. Bernard Roberts, Mrs. Jessie Coulter, Mrs. Howard Cunningham and Mrs. Joseph A. Wheeler. They will serve cider, gingerbread and cookies during the evening. The proceeds will be devoted to the Red Cross and Welfare Fund for relief activities.

The Fairfax School will hold a Halloween party tomorrow evening in the school auditorium. Entertainment will be furnished by the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades, under the direction of Miss Olga Johnson and Miss Ethel Jefferies. The proceeds will go toward paying for a set of reference maps and books purchased sometime ago.

With the completion of the mailing of tax bills for this year, Dr. Frank W. Huddleson, Fairfax County treasurer, has made public his schedule for tax collections in the various magisterial districts. He or one of his deputies will be at the following places on the dates mentioned:

October 31, Buckley's store at Clifton Station; November 1, Springman's store at Lorton; November 3, Broader's store at Franconia; November 5, National Bank at Herndon; November 6, Follins' store at Forestville; November 8, the Fairfax Mutual Insurance Co.'s office, Prince and Royal streets, Alexandria. November 10, Oliver's store at Baileys Cross Roads; November 11, Carter's store at Lincolnia; November 12, John Oliver's store at Kenmore; November 13, Courtland's Title Co. office at McLean; November 14, Vienna Bank, and November 18, the National Bank of Falls Church.

This will be done so persons living in the various communities will not have to go to the courthouse at Fairfax to pay their year's taxes.

Dr. Huddleson urges that all living in these communities try to meet the collectors at the designated places and thereby avoid the trip to Fairfax and simplify matters to a great extent.

Deputy County Clerk Elton R. Holbrooke announced yesterday that he will be in his office at Fairfax after 6 o'clock in the evening, November 7, 8 and 14 to accommodate persons who wish hunting licenses for this year. The season will open, as usual, November 15. Heretofore persons unable to come to Fairfax during the day have had difficulty in procuring licenses. Contrary to reports, the length of the hunt has not been shortened this year, but daily bag limits have been reduced by the State authorities.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church of Acoctink will give a Halloween supper this evening in the Odd Fellows Hall at Acoctink. A gold prize will be awarded to the person appearing in the best masquerade costume.

An oyster supper will be given this evening in the Lewis Chapel, near Gunston Hall, by the residents of that community for the benefit of the Lebanon School.

Mrs. M. D. Hall, president of the Fairfax County Library Association, has called a meeting of the board of directors for this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the library rooms of the old Clerk's Office Building, Fairfax.

The personal following committees of the Lee District Improvement Association have been appointed as follows: J. B. Davis, Arcie Hall and C. L. Warner, road committee; Mrs. A. B. Carter, Mrs. Norman Deavers and Mrs. W. H. Cranford, school committee; Edward Moravitz, John Bayliss, Mrs. Archie Hall, James Cranford and Mrs. J. B. Davis, publicity and entertainment committee.

The first meeting of the garden department of the Women's Club at Falls Church will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of its chairman, Mrs. J. H. Hill.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Brethren at Oakton will hold its meeting this afternoon in the church parlors.

G.O.P. Candidate Asked For Ritchie Tag by Lad

Thomas M. Anderson, Republican candidate for State senator from Montgomery County, Md., yesterday found one county resident who wasn't for Mayor Broening for governor. Mr. Anderson was standing in the office of the clerk of the circuit court at Rockville transacting some business, when a small boy ran into the room and, singling out the candidate, who happened to be the only Republican in the room, tugged at his coat tail:

"Give me a Ritchie button," he demanded.

With cheeks flaming, but innate good nature showing in his smile, Mr. Anderson borrowed a Ritchie button from one of the bystanders and turned to give the button to the urchin, only to find that the child's request had been granted by one of the laughter-shaken Democrats in back of him.

SESSION OF OPTICAL BODY TO OPEN TODAY

30 Papers to Be Read During Three-Day Meeting at University of Virginia.

TELEVISION IS ONE TOPIC

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 29.—Some 30 papers will be read at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Optical Society of America, to be held at the University of Virginia tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

At the opening session at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the visitors will be welcomed to the University by President Edwin A. Alderman. At this meeting there will be read several papers on television, theory of vision and optical instruments. The authors are Herbert E. Ives, of the Bell Telephone laboratories, who will describe a multi-channel television apparatus. Dr. Ives will also tell of some optical features in two-way television, and of television in color from motion picture film.

The other papers will be submitted by Deane B. Judd, I. C. Gardner and Harold F. Bennett, of the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.; A. P. H. Trivelli and L. V. Foster, of the research laboratory of the Eastman Kodak Co., and the scientific bureau of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y., and by David W. Mann, of the Jefferson Physical Laboratory, Harvard University.

Luncheon will be served at the University Commons, and the afternoon session will open with an invited paper by Prof. Walter S. Rodman, of the engineering school of the University of Virginia, who will discuss some aspects of the scientific work of Thomas Jefferson. Papers will also be read on electro-optical measurements by Frederick Bedell, of Cornell University, and by John A. Tiedman, of the University of Virginia.

Members of the society will be taken in the afternoon on an auto trip to Afton and Swannanea, a big country club in the Blue Ridge Mountains, 20 miles west of the city. At 6:30 o'clock there will be a dinner at the Farmington Country Club, a building designed by Thomas Jefferson.

At 8:15 p. m. there will be a public lecture, under the auspices of the society, by Dr. Herbert E. Ives, of the Bell Telephone laboratories, on "Relief Pictures and Projection in Relief," illustrated with special demonstration. The society met last year at Cornell University. The members of the executive council are A. H. Compton, of the University of Chicago; I. C. Gardner, of the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.; P. E. Klepsteg, of the Central Scientific Co., Chicago, and E. D. Tillyer, of the American Optical Co., Southbridge, Mass.

The local committee of arrangements for the coming meeting consists of Prof. L. G. Hexton, chairman, and Profs. C. M. Sparrow, F. L. Brown, J. W. Beams, J. J. Luck and W. S. Rodman.

Mrs. Mary E. Atkinson, Of Petersburg, Expires

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Atkinson, wife of George T. Atkinson, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the Petersburg Hospital. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Cox, of Sussex County, and for the past ten years had made her home in this city.

Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by a daughter, Frances Charlotte Atkinson, of this city; six sisters, Miss Marie Cox, of Baltimore; Miss Daisy Cox, of Courtland; Miss Maud Cox, of this city; Misses Janie and Helen Cox, of Homeville; Mrs. Herbert Gilliam, of Surry County, and two brothers, Junius B. and Graham Cox, of Homeville.

TAKOMA PARK HEARS DEMOCRATS SCORED

L. R. WOLFORD IS BURIED

Attacking long continuance in office b county officials, Thomas M. Anderson, Republican candidate for State senator, last night told a Republican rally at Takoma Park, Md., that Republican candidates, if elected, will be the "servants and not the masters" of the people.

The outstanding issue of the present campaign is whether or not the virtual dictatorhip of the present regime shall have its usurped power and control over the civic, administrative and financial affairs of the county wrested from it and restored to the people, Mr. Anderson declared.

Launching forth into a defense of the Republican platform, he asserted that the platform is a pledge made by the candidates of that party for the county will be restored to the public office that the government of people. He advocated that bond issues of the county should carry provisions for a sinking fund to care for the principal in yearly installments.

While he agrees that bonds are necessary, they should be carefully scrutinized before the are authorized in order to determine the urgent necessity, bcause the issue is a mortgage against the future of the county. The bonded indebtedness of the county has increased $4,202,000 since 1927, excluding the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission bonds, which total 8,000,000, and which are guaranteed unconditionally by Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Mr. Anderson said.

Walter W. Dawson, candidate for member of the House of Delegates, declared that the Republican platform adopted by the county candidates is constructive. One of its most important provisions is the plank advocating a budget system for the county and an annual audit by a certified public accountant. He also attacked the autocratic attitude of the present administration.

Wilson L. Townsend, treasurer of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County, and F. Barnard Welsh, candidate for State's attorney, also spoke.

Administration of county affairs by the present Democratic regime was defended last night at meetings in Gaithersburg and Glen Echo by Democratic candidates and workers.

It was pointed out that the county school system has improved almost 100 per cent in the last ten years and that the present administration has given special forethought to roads throughout the county. Voters were urged to support the present administration in order that the country's phenomenal growth can be continued.

Funeral services for Louis R. Wolford, of Chevy Chase, Md., who died yesterday at his home, will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock from the Colonial Funeral Home of W. Reuben Pumphrey at Rockville. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

Mr. Wolford was 29 years old and was the son of Mrs. Elizazbeth M. Wolford and the late Harry C. Wolford. He had been ill for a long time.

A final decree of absolute divorce was granted to Rex Hay Hill, of Washington, from Mrs. Edith Virginia Hill, of Bethesda, Md., by Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court at Rockville. The custody of the 4-year-old child was given to the mother.

The father was directed to pay the sum of $25 a week for the support of the child. In his petition, the father charged desertion by the wife and declared himself willing to pay the $25 a week for the support of the child. The couple was married February 11, 1925, at Fairfax, Va. The husband is represented by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane of Rockville.

Winchester Hospital Superintendent Quits

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 29.—Maj. Walter L. Simpson, general superintendent of Winchester Memorial Hospital since last spring, has resigned, effective November 15, it was announced by Shirley Carter, chairman of the executive committee.

Maj. Simpson, who came here from Watts Hospital, Durham, N. C., said he had resigned to take up similar work with Grace Hospital, New Haven, Conn., an institution allied with the medical department of Yale University.

Grand Jury Error Saves Man From Life Term

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Harry Miller, confessed chicken and gas and oil thief, escaped a life term in the State penitentiary because the grand jury did not note on its indictments of him that he had been previously convicted twice. Instead, it noted only one previous conviction. Judge D. H. Rodgers, sentencing him to State prison for six years, said five years was added because the grand jury noted the one previous case, and the judge explained that had the second previous one been noted a life sentence would have ben mandatory.

Miller was permitted to change his original plea to guilty in court yesterday and accepted sentence.

Driver Tried For Manslaughter.
Special to the Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 29.—The trial of Henry Iskanski, local truck driver, charged wtih manslaughter in the death of Roy Ketterman in an automobile accident near Rawlings, September 14, is in progress before Judge Doub.

Frederick Sheriff Wars on Gaming

13 Slot Machines Taken and Five Arrested During Raid.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 29.—A general raid on slot machines in Frederick County was made last night by Sheriff Pannett, who said he found many of the gaming devices going full blast, with day laborers and apple pickers clamoring for an opportunity to "try their luck."

Thirteen machines were confiscated by the sheriff, and five arrests made. Those arrested were Mrs. A. H. McCarroll, Robert Santmyer, J. W. Bidget, J. F. Nelson & Son, J. C. Ramey and George York. They were bonded for trial Saturday. Sheriff Pannett said he intended to continue the raids until all the machines had been confiscated, unless those having them in their possession either destroy or send them away.

Charges were to be brought also against firms and individuals selling or renting the machines, the sheriff said. Conviction of operating a slot machine carries a mandatory jail sentence and fines ranging from $100 to $500.

ALEXANDRIA GRANTS OIL STATION PERMIT

Council Favors Petition by Three-Two Vote After Close Battle.

MRS. H. V. CUSHMAN DIES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council yesterday granted the petition of Mrs. Agnes Cael for the erection of a gasoline filling station at Washington and Wilkes streets, with a frontage of approximately 120 feet on Washington street.

Mrs. Cael previously had been granted a permit for a filling station on Washington street with a frontage of 58 feet, covering a vacant lot adjoining her residence property. This residence property was sold to the Standard Oil Co., along with the vacant lot, the understanding of the company's attorney, Gardner L. Boothe, being that the permit included the entire Washington street frontage. It later developed, however, that the original permit covered a frontage of only 58 feet on Washington street, and the Standard Oil Co., which had purchased Mrs. Cael's property with the understanding that all of it would be available for filling station use, cancelled its agreement to purchase the property.

Attorney Charles Henry Smith, for Mrs. Cael, and Attorney Gardner L. Boothe, for the Standard Oil Co., protested the action of the council in refusing the permit for the entire property, and the matter has been under consideration for several weeks. At yesterday's meeting Councilmen Ticer and Lamond voted against granting the permit, but Councilman Herbert, who formerly had voted against it, changed his vote. Councilman Fannon voted favorably and Mayor Carroll Pierce cast the deciding vote in favor of granting the petition.

Petitions of Miss Inez Jenkins and Robert F. Downham, for permits to erect filling stations in Rosemont, which have also been before the council several times, were held over.

An invitation was received by the council to attend a conference next Monday in regard to the situation at Four Mile Run Bridge on the Washington-Richmond highway and was accepted. The conference will include, besides the members of the Alexandria City Council, the Arlington County board of supervisors and J. A. Albright, district engineer of the State Highway Commission, who is in charge of the road work in this section and under whose supervision the roadway south from the Highway Bridge to the present city limits of Alexandria was constructed.

There have been many accidents at this point, due to the "bottle-neck" caused by the termination of the State improvement of the road, and the original road, which is now within the city limits of Alevandria. The State law provides that no road funds may be expended within the corporate limits of a city or town. The State Highway Commission's improvement of this road stops at the north end of bridge.

The Alexandria Water Company on Tuesday night completed the laying of pipe lines from the artesian well of the Mutual Ice Company to the city water mains, and increasing the daily supply in the reservoir 750,000 gallons, which the officials feel confident will adequately take care of any trouble caused by the drought. A special pump has been installed at the ice company's plant.

Mrs. Hannah Virginia Cushman, widow of Marshall Blair Cushman, died yesterday at her home 115 Rosecrest avenue, Rosecrest. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, with burial in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington. The deceased is survived by a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cushman, of Rosecrest, and a brother, J. N. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, Va.

William Knowles Cooper, of Washington, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club today at 12:30 o'clock at the George Mason Hotel. W. Harmon Reed is program chairman for the day and will present Mr. Cooper. Robert G. Carter will preside.

C. C. Carlin, jr., chairman of the city Democratic committee, has announced the selection of the following members of that committee: J. Owen Lynch, Third Ward; Harry F. Kennedy, Fifth Ward; Charles Burgess and E. D. File, Sixth Ward. This gives the city twelve members on the committee, two from each ward.

Danville Church Keeps Pastor It Had Opposed

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 29.—The Rev. J. Arthur Winn, pastor of Moseley Memorial Methodist Church, who a few days ago was given a postconference assignment to Hopewell Church, will remain pastor of the local church and will have the undivided support of his congregation. A complete change of attitude toward him was recorded at a meeting of the official board last night.

The element which has opposed him reconsidered threats to withdraw if he stayed and gave him a vote of confidence, with only two dissenting voices. This was followed by a reconstitution of the official board.

Seeing Strange Girls Home Costs Two Gallants $27

Two Washington men, who gallantly agreed to take two girls home from a lunch room in Alexandria Tuesday night, yesterday were regretting their gallantry.

The men, who gave their names as W. M. Clapp, of B street southeast near Thirteenth, and John Vaughn, of E street northeast near Second, had never seen the young women before, they told Alexandria police, and the police added that they probably would never see them again—nor their $27.

The two couples were driving along the Fort Hunt road in Fairfax County when they were stopped by four men two white and two colored, at the watering trough. The holdup men, who were armed, took $16 from Clapp and $11 from Vaughn and departed. The men also said they were assaulted.

The girls, probably seeing their companions no longer had any money, left with the robbers.

A description of the robbers and the girls was furnished, but the victims were advised to report the incident to the Fairfax County sheriff. They had not done so last night.

OIL STORAGE PLANT FEARS SET AT REST

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Fears of establishment of a storage plant by the Sun Oil Co. on the L. H. Greathouse property along the Lee highway in Rosslyn was set at rest when Lucien Greathouse, owner of the property, last night, announced that the Sun Oil Co. will take over operation of his service station beginning Saturday, November 1, but that a storage plant will not be established there.

Small oil tanks, which it is learned will be used by the Sun Oil Co. for retail purposes, were unloaded yesterday and renewed fear on the part of many who have fought the company's effort to establish a huge storage plant.

Mr. Greathouse, asked if the Sun Oil Co. would make any further effort to gain a permit for erection of a wharf on the water front from which it was planned to unload gasoline from barges, stated that so far as he was informed the company was doing nothing in that direction.

"The case which is now in the District of Columbia courts, calling upon the Secretary of War to show cause why a permit should not be granted, was brought in my name," said Mr. Greathouse, "and is in no way connected with the Sun Oil Co.

"The recent decision handed down in the Washington Airport case, which says that the owner has title to the low-water mark, certainly applies to our case, and I consider I have the right to use the land.

"Up to the present time neither the National Capital Park and Planning Commission nor any individual or group of persons has made me any offer to purchase my property to relieve us of the burden under which we are placed in not being allowed to use our property, including the water front."

That Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, Democratic candidate for representative from the Eighth Congressional District, will carry Arlington County by a huge majority and will carry all eleven precincts over his Republican opponent, Dr. F. M. Brooks, of Fairfax, is the general prediction made in the county.

This prediction also applies to Senator Carter Glass, who is up for reelection, who is expected to carry the county by a large majority over his independent candidate, J. Cloyd Byars.

While the question of a change in the form of the county government is the foremost question before the people of Arlington County at this time and which will also be voted upon on Tuesday next, the day of election, political leaders in the county yesterday expressed their belief that the question on the change of government to the county manager plan would carry at least by a 2-to-1 vote. They were careful to say that the question of electing the county board at large or by districts will be close with sentiment favoring elections at large.

A jury in the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday, after deliberating more than three hours, returned a verdict of guilty with a sentence of two years in the penitentiary in the case of Tom Tripline, Negro, charged with assault upon County Officer William E. Thompson with a dangerous weapon.

Arrangements for the "hard-time" dance to be given under auspices of the Lyon Park Citizens Association and Woman's Club Saturday night in the community house have been completed, the committee announced last night.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of illegal possession of liquor before Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy, Charles M. Reid was acquitted yesterday.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The Board of Tax Equalization, through Chairman Emery N. Hosmer, last night announced that public hearings will be held on November 5, 7, 11, 13, 18, 20, 25 and 28 for the purpose of equalizing real estate assessments, hearing complaints of inequalities, including errors in acreage in such assessments.

The term of the board expires December 31.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse at 12 o'clock.

Tonight the Business and Professional Woman's Club will hold its annual Halloween dance in Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon.

Arrangements have been made by the finance committee, of which Mrs. Agnes J. Conradi is the chairman.

Mrs. Albert H. Cohen, president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County, and Mrs. Helen Collins and Mrs. Dorothy Dunn have returned from Lynchburg, where they attended the October meeting of the Virginia State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Cohen, who is a member at large of the State Federation, reports that plans are being completed for the international convention to be held at Richmond in July of next year.

The Arlington County Club has been designated as the floor committee for the convention with Mrs. Cohen as chairman.

Speaking of a mass meeting held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon last night, under the auspices of the Clarendon Citizens Association, T. B. Manny declared that records in the State of North Carolina show that the same services rendered under the county manager plan of government as is being advocated for Arlington County is costing less than the old county form of government.

"It is not a reorganization of powers that is being advocated," Mr. Manny stated, "but a change in the form of government, giving to a group of officials the power to determine policies and to one person the power to execute these policies."

Other speakers were Robert N. Anderson, chairman of the legislative committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, and Arthur Orr, a member of the committee.

Walter U. Varney, chairman of the committee from the Arlington County Bar Association, which worked with the federation committee, presided.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

GRIDIRON DEFINITIONS.

TOUCHDOWNS — Something you know has been made when a player carries the ball over the goal line without an immediate conference on the part of the officials.

Touchback—The play that always confuses you.

Punt—Something the old-time players used to get off occasionally.

Huddle—The reason why it takes three hours to carry out one hour of play.

Signals—Numbers called off by the quarter back to the intense disgust of the coaches, who expressly warned him not to call them that way at that time.

* * * *

FORWARD pass—(a) A ball thrown in any direction by a player who had obviously held it long enough.

(b) A diversion practiced to make the spectators groan.

(c) A pretty silly-looking performance as a rule.

(d) Something our best coaches are still thinking of taking up in a serious way when they get around to it.

(e) The cause of 60 per cent of the touchdowns made by the other side.

Drop Kick—A lost art.

Shadow of the Goal Posts—Any place other than midfield.

Fumble—The backbone of the modern game.

* * * *

INTERCEPTED PASS—A football hitting an opposing player on the head or shoulders and taking him by surprise.

Trick Formations—Device used by the average team to confuse its own players.

Minnesota Shift—Are they still using that one?

Stubborn Attack—Any style of play that results in the loss of the ball on downs.

Brilliant Strategy—Any foolish play that works out all right.

Dumb Tactics—Same play when it doesn't pan out.

All-American Material—Any player who gets the breaks.

Willing But Uninspired—The same player when he doesn't get them.

* * * *

HOLDING—An offense against the rules generally cited by the umpire in a case of unnecessary roughness.

Unnecessary Roughness—The excuse invoked for a penalty when the team has been guilty of holding.

Offside—The excuse invoked when the officials need a new one.

Brilliant Broken Field Runner—The one who never gets away in the big games.

Coaches—Former football players who still think they know what it was all about.

* * * *

CHEER Leaders—Boys who couldn't make the team, the band or the college glee club but who are regarded as fair prospects for the dramatic association.

Quarter Back—Usually the goat of the game.

Referee—The other one.

Linesmen—They get in free, too.

ELMER TWITCHELL SAYS:

"WITH the coming of cold weather the advent of winter seems at hand. Winter is always less pleasant than summer. The problem of living in comfort becomes more serious. People who are out of work generally are more distressed when the weather is cold and bitter than when it is warm and soothing. December is a more trying month than July. In January it is always more difficult to keep warm than it is in August.

To be comfortable in the winter it is necessary to have a warm place to live in. To make this place warm it is necessary to have coal, oil or gas. These cost money. When a man has no work he finds it hard to get money. This means unhappiness and dissatisfaction. The only solution to the problem is more employment for the unemployed. The people of this country will do well to realize this."

WHAT! NO NECKTIE?

RAS TAFARI, to be crowned Emperor of Abyssinia, has received costly gifts from many countries. Silver and gold and rare wines are fairly swamping the colorful ruler. The gift he will get from the United States, however, is an autographed photograph of President Hoover. A sound-recording device placed near the emperor when he opens the package should provide one of the sensatons of the year in diplamatic circles.

If you think a woman is fussy picking out a frock you should watch a man select a new overcoat.

PARENTS, TEACHERS MEET IN LYNCHBURG

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 29.—The convention of the Virginia Parent-Teacher Congress here tonight heard an address by Dr. D. M. Dannelly, president of the Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky., whose subject was "Possibility of More Effective Moral and Religious Education in the Public Schools."

Officers elected for the next year are: President, Mrs. D. W. Persinger, Roanoke; vice presidents, Mrs. W. H. Dunn, Rapidan; Mrs. Harry Semones, Roanoke; Mrs. Allan P. Johnson, Clarksville; Mrs. R. G. Darr, Virginia Beach; Mrs. E. E. Carver, Alexandria; Mrs. C. C. Richards, Roanoke, and Miss Lydia Steuart, Rapidan; recording secretary, Mrs. John Wyatt Davis, Lynchburg; treasurer, Mrs. R. B. Jennings, Roanoke; historian, Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, Richmond.

Registration showed 107 delegates present.

Subsidizing of public schools for private ends and the tendency to too highly standardize the courses for study came in for disapproval of Harris Hart, State superintendent of public instruction. He said people must be educated that the schools are operated for boys and girls and not to make jobs for a few favorites. He also urged that the South must learn just how much it costs to operate an efficient educational system.

Dr. J. N. Hillman, president of Emory and Henry College, advised parents to link their interests with the schools and churches to aid in their education and to help them use their leisure time advantageously. He urged parents to play with their children and to make sure that schools and churches furnish them proper facilities for recreation.

MOTORIST CLEARED OF MANSLAUGHTER

ASSAULT TRIAL OPENED

James S. Fralick, was acquitted of a manslaughter charge in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday by a jury which deliberated less than an hour. The man had been indicted in the death of George M. Fisher, who was killed last April when the motorcycle he was riding crashed into Fralick's car.

The accident occurred near the Bowie race track. Evidence showed that Fralick tried to pass another car in a line of traffic and swung back into the line just as Fisher struck the rear part of the automobile.

Witness on Stretcher.

Henry L. Davis, 70 years old, of Accokeek, was brought into the courtroom on a stretcher to testify against "Stormy" Webster, charged with assaulting and robbing the elderly man. He was still suffering from the effects of a terrific beating he received early in September when he was held up near his store at Accokeek.

Webster was indicted for assault with intent to kill, assault and battery, and robbery. He has pleaded guilty to the robbery charge, and Davis' testimony was taken in the assault with intent to kill case. This trial has been continued.

The feeble man was carried into the courtroom by members of the Prince Georges County rescue squad and was attended by a nurse. In a low voice he identified Webster as the man who had struck and robbed him of the few dollars he carried.

Beaten Into Unconsciousness.

The crowded courtroom shuddered as he told of being accosted and struck with a rock before he handed over his money. After the robber had his money, he continued, he was viciously beaten with a bundle of harrow teeth tied together with wire, until he lost consciousness.

He sank back exhausted as he finished his testimony and was given restoratives upon his return to the sheriff's office, where he had awaited the calling of the case.

The case of Deputy Sheriff David Jones, accused of assault with intent to rob, went to trial before Judges C. Mattingly and William M. Lokar. Four others, accused with Jones, have already been found guilty by a jury.

Deputy Had Warrant.

Clarence Roberts, attorney for Jones, submitted the case on the same evidence as convicted the others. He brought up additional testimony, however, showing that Jones had a warrant for a still supposed to be near where the attack occurred. The charges against the deputy grew out of his stopping a car containing the son of a Washington policeman. The youth claims that he thought the five men were robbers, and that they fired at him as he fled across the fields.

Wesley Spriggs was acquitted of larceny and receiving stolen goods, but Albert Taylor, named in the same indictment, was convicted by the same jury. State's Attorney Frank Parran had not asked for a conviction for Spriggs, however, in his address to the jury, as he did not believe there was sufficient evidence against him.

The men, and two others who have not been arrested, were charged with stealing 48 hogs from the farm of Charles W. Pumphrey, near Forestville. Spriggs was in charge of the hogs when they disappeared from the place.

Judge Mattingly said late yesterday that today would probably be the last day that the jury would sit until about the first of December. One more criminal case, that against Manuel Parcover and Abraham Rosin for arson, remains to be tried, and many sentences have not yet been pronounced.
